Jaycee Chapter Schedules '65 "Operation Christmas"

Encouraged by the sucess of the project in its initial year, the Thief River Falls Jaycees have embarked on "Operation Christmas" for 1965. With Neil McEwen as committee chairman, the local chapter will again work to assist needy children in purchasing gifts for members of their families.

"Operation Christmas" consists of collecting funds to be distributed among selected needy children of the county as they are taken on chaperoned shopping tours to select gifts for their families. Children are recommended by the Pennington county welfare department and Salvation Army and invited by the Jaycees to participate in the event.

In addition to being provided money with which to buy presents, the children will be treated to a noon lunch, given assistance in wrapping and labeling of gifts and escorted to an afternoon movie matinee before returning to their homes, McEwen said.

"Again this year the chapter will make a door-to-door canvass to secure funds for the project," the committee chairman said. "Our goal last year was more than doubled through the generosity of contributors, enabling the chapter to include more children in the project and to give them more money to spend. We are hopeful that similar success will be noted in Operation Christmas" this year.

McEwen said the door-to-door canvass will be held on Tuesday, December 14, from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. The shopping tour itself will be held on Saturday December 18.

Last year's collection totaled $330.59 and 50 children were invited to participate in the tour. Members of the 1965 "Operation Christmas" committee in addition to McEwen are Dell Christianson, Roger Peterson, Lt. Harold Shelby and Donald Grabanski.

"We realize that we will not be able to contact all homes in the city on our canvass December 14" McEwen said. "We would like to encourage individuals or organizations who are not contacted to also participate in the project. Contributions should be mailed by December 16 to Operation Christmas" P.O. Box 53, Thief River Falls. Total collections will then be tabulated by December 18, the date of the shopping tour, when funds will be distributed among participating youngsters."

Held the first time last year, "Operation Christmas" has become one of the most gratifying projects of the local Jaycee chapter, according to Richard Contos, chapter president. "Last year many businessmen entered into the spirit of the project by discounting items purchased," he said, "and many of the children showed their own concern for others by contributing change left after purchase of gifts to the Salvation Army Christmas campaign."

NORTHERN Minnesota residents do things in a big way. Edible proof of this statement was presented to Sen. Walter Mondale Friday morning when he was given a 32-pound oven-ready turkey by John Lang, left, manager of the Land O'Lakes turkey processing plant in Thief River Falls. Sen. Mondale addressed a breakfast meeting in the Rex Cafe under the sponsorship of the legislative committee of the Chamber of Commerce.

Jehovah Witness Assembly Slated

Christian Weining

C. R. Hooten

Christian H. Weining, district supervisor of the world headquarters of Jehovah's Witnesses, and C. R. Hooten, circuit director, arrived in Thief River Falls for the assembly of Jehovah's Witnesses scheduled for this weekend at the Lincoln high school auditorium.

Weining has been in the ministry since 1950 and in the circuit work since 1957. He currently serves as district supervisor for Jehovah's Witnesses in Minnesota, Wisconsin and Upper Michigan which represents over 8,000 witnesses in some 180 congregations.

Thief River Falls congregation will receive special benefits from Weining's visit as he will be assisting the group this week in their ministerial activities.

Tuesday evening he will speak to the congregation on the theme, "Loyalty to God's Visible Organization." Wednesday at 7 p.m. a two-hour color film, "Proclaiming Everlasting Good News Around the World," will be shown at the Kingdom hall.

Extending an invitation to all, Weining said, "Would you like to take a trip around the world? We invite you to come along with us on such a trip through the eyes of the motion picture camera. You will visit 22 countries and 36 cities. Infuences at work in our modern civilization that are undermining the morale and the spirituality of people in all nations and walks of life will be exposed."

The highlight of the assembly will be the free public talk Sunday 3 p.m. on the topic, "What Does the Resurrection of the Dead Mean for You and Yours?"

Assessor School Scheduled Here This Wednesday

With the date for making real estate assessments advanced by the Minnesota legislature to January 2 instead of May 1, the annual school of instruction for local assessors of Pennington county will be held in the meeting room of the courthouse in Thief River Falls Wednesday starting at 10 a.m., according to Clarence Weckwerth, county assessor.

This instructional meeting for local assessors and governing boards is required by law. It will provide an opportunity for a representative of the state tax commission to discuss the problems of those who are most closely involved with the administration of the property tax, Weckwerth said.

The effect of the new law changing the date for making assessments from May 1 to January 2 will also be discussed at Wednesday's meeting. Since 1966 is even-numbered year, the assessment will cover real estate, Weckwerth said. All real estate will be reassessed next year.

All local assessors and presiding officers of all townships, villages and city in the county are requested to attend the session. Per diem and mileage will be paid only to those in actual attendance. Persons attending are requested to check in at the county auditor's office prior to opening of the meeting as this will enable him to prepare the compensation checks while the meeting is under way.

John Habedank Wins Local FFA Creed Contest

John Habedakn, son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Habedank, won the Thief River Falls Future Farmers of America creed contest held recently. He will compete in the regional contest in Thief River Falls Thursday.

Other winners in order of placing were Jon Hirst, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hirst; Wayne Hanson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dewey Hanson; Tom Duke, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Duke; and John Hammer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Hammer.

Goodridge School Forest Approved

Minnesota Conservation Commissioner Wayne Olson has approved the creation of two more school forests, bringing to 40 the number of state schools participating in the program.

Latest addition, according to the conservation department, are the McGregor school forest in Aitkin county and the Goodridge school forest in Beltrami county.

The outdoor laboratories, now comprising a total of 3,390 acres, permit students to actually perform many activities associated with forest management and to utilize the areas for biology and other science classes.

Personnel from the department's forestry division prepare management plans for the school forests with the participation of teachers and students.

Senator Mondale Addresses C of C Breakfast Friday

Senator Walter F. Mondale said Friday that the growth of the national economy must be maintained if the nation is to provide the jobs needed for our expanding population.

In an address to a breakfast session sponsored by the Thief River Falls Chamber of Commerce, Mondale said that the labor department estimates that the national labor force will be increasing by an average of 1.5 million workers a year. And this means, he said, that each year our economy must grow enough to create at least 1.5 million new jobs in order to keep unemployment from rising.

Since 1960, Mondale said, the nation has come close to achieving this goal. He noted that from 1961 to 1964, some 1.2 million new jobs were created each year—enough to reduce unemployment by more than one million. And in the last year, he said, nearly two million new jobs were created.

The senator also suggested that expanding federal tax revenues should be used to help ease the financial strain on state and local governments.

He noted that if an economic growth rate of four per cent is maintained, federal tax receipts will increase by $7 to $8 billion a year while maintaining the present five per cent growth rate could yield increases of $11 to $12 billion by 1970.

There is no reason, Sen. Mondale said, why these increased revenues cannot serve as at least part of the answer to the serious tax troubles facing state and local governments. A capacity crowd attended the breakfast session.

Lincoln Seniors To Present Play Monday, Tuesday

Senior class of Lincoln high school will present the play, "The Miracle Worker," Monday and Tuesday at 8 p.m. in the high school auditorium. Admission tonight (Monday) is 50 cents for adults and 25 cents for students; Tuesday it will be 50 cents for everyone.

The play, written by William Gibson, tells the story of Helen Keller in her childhood. For the first few years of her life the child lived in a world of her own because she was born deaf and blind. It was not until her father, Capt. Keller, hired a teacher, Annie Sullivan, that she made any progress. Annie, who was partially blind herself and who had grown up in a state asylum, succeeded after many setbacks in her attempt to teach Helen to communicate with words.

Committee heads for the play include Nancy Quam, ticket sales; John Bosman, stage crew; Nancy Amundgaard, props; Susan Peltier, publicity; and Karen Nelson make-up.

COMBINING flax covered by several inches of snow actually can be done, as Lloyd Watne of Goodridge proved last week. Watne combined this flax field on the Homme farm, located seven miles east and two miles north of Thief River Falls, Wednesday afternoon. The combine was able to operate with only a few stops made necessary by flax twisting and binding on the auger on the pickup. Despite this difficulty, it was a profitable afternoon; Watne said the flax harvested from the field was of excellent quality.

Work Halted on Alfalfa Plant During Winter

Work on the pelleting plant of the Northwest Pellet association has been discontinued for the winter months, according to Art Stenberg, chairman of the board of directors of the local cooperative.

Directors will devote their efforts during the winter to completing the purchase of equipment for the plant and will continue with construction as soon as weather permits in the spring. Sufficient work has been completed so that it is expected the plant will be in operation in 1966, Stenberg said.

Bregier-Sholl Vows Spoken at Terrebone

St. Anthony's Catholic church at Terrebonne was the scene of the double ring ceremony of Miss Jane A. Bregier and Richard M. Sholl on Saturday, October 30, at 10 a.m. with the Rev. Lewis E. Proulx officiating. Mums in autumn shades graced the altar and the pews were marked with pink roses and white bows.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. George Bregier of Red Lake Falls and Mr. and Mrs. Norman Sholl of Minneapolis.

The bride was escorted to the altar and given in marriage by her father. She wore a floor-length gown of white lace over taffeta styled with long sleeves tapering to a point over the wrists and a full tiered skirt. Seed pearls, rhinestones and sequins traced the lace design of the bodice and clear spangles emphasized the scallops on the tiered skirt. The detachable train, designed with a bustle, was secured by white roses at the waistline.

A peau de soie floral headpiece outlined with crystalletes held the tiered veil of silk illusion and she carried a cascade of pink roses surrounding a large white mum and entwined with a rosary. Her jewels were a crystal necklace and matching earrings.

The bride chose her older sister, Delores Bregier, as maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Nancy Derosier, cousin of the bride; Rose Bregier, sister of the bride and Anna Gallant, Minneapolis, roommate of the bride. They wore sleeveless gowns of pink lace over taffeta styled with round necklines and belted, designed floor-length skirts. Each wore a matching pink veiled headpiece, white formal length gloves and white shoes and each carried a large white mum. Their necklaces were their gifts from the bride.

Flower girl, Nancy Sholl of Minneapolis, niece of the groom, was attired similar to the bride's attendants and carried a basket of flowers. George Bregier, Jr., brother of the bride, was ring bearer.

The groom was attended by his brother, Wayne Sholl of Minneapolis as best man. Groomsmen were Gerald Bregier of Red Lake Falls, brother of the bride, Gordon Sholl of Minneapolis, brother of the groom and Roger Fisher, also of Minneapolis. They all wore dark trousers and white dinner jackets with pink carnation boutonnieres.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Bregier chose a blue woolen pleated dress with white hat and black accessories. Mrs. Sholl wore a dress of beige lace over green satin with a white veiled black hat and brown accessories. Both wore identical corsages of pink and white roses and carnations. Also attending the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. Euclide Ropll, grand- and Mrs. Euclide Reopelle, grandparents of the bride; Mrs. Ida LaVoie, grandmother of the groom; Mrs. A. F. Charlier, godmother of the groom and Mr. and Mrs. Louis Derosier, godparents of the bride.

A reception for 150 guests was served in the church parlors following the ceremony. Mrs. Leo Kalinoski cut the wedding cake, Herald Derosier poured, Louis Derosier served the punch and Mrs. Paul Pinsonneault registered the guests. Waitresses were Joyce Payment, Karen Derosier, Irene Dondoneau, Sally Delorme and Debbie Reopelle.

The bride, a graduate of the Pershing high school at Red Lake Falls, is employed at the Honeywell company in Minneapolis. The groom is a graduate of the Edison high school in Minneapolis and is employed by the federal government, Veterans administration, at Fort Snelling. They are at home at 1315 Olson Highway, apartment 35, Minneapolis.

Miss Fern LeVaugh Filipi, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Filipi of Angus and Thomas C. Howard, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Howard of Warren were united in marriage at a candlelight ceremony Saturday, November 6, at Our Savior's Lutheran church at Warren. The Rev. Orval K. Moren performed the double ring ceremony before the altar adorned with baskets of white and gold mums. Candles alternating with gold mums and greens, marked the pews along the aisle. Ronald Pearson, organist, accompanied Mrs. Duane Yeado, sister of the groom, as she sang "The Lord's Prayer" and "I Do".

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a white satin gown with fitted bodice and floor-length skirt extending into a chapel-length train. Lace trimmed the bodice, formed the fitted cuffs on the longtapered sleeves and enhanced the train. Her shoulder length illusion veil was arranged from a Swedish crown of seed pearls and crystals and she carried a bouquet of yellow baby roses and white pompons.

The bride was attended by her sisters, Mrs. Tim Walsh and Mrs. Richard Omdahl, as matron of honor and bridesmatron, respectively. They wore identical floor length gowns fashioned with green velvet bodices and white crepe skirts. To complete their attire they wore matching pillbox hats and white gloves, gifts from the bride, and carried bouquets of gold and white mums.

KITCHEN KARNIVAL

Features from the Kitchen of

MRS. RICHARD ANDERSON
NEWFOLDEN, MINN.

"Do your Christmas shopping early!"—"Now is the time to do your Christmas shopping!" Sound familiar? I'm sure it does, and now is also the time to get your Christmas baking done. If you want to be a little bit different, these fruit bars may even take the place of fruit cake on your Christmas menu.

This recipe has always been a favorite of the Anderson family and has won ribbons at the Marshall and Pennington county fairs.

DRIED FRUIT BARS

1 cup sifted flour
¼ teaspoon baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
¼ cup melted shortening
1 cup sugar
2 eggs, well beaten
1 cup chopped nuts
1 cup dried fruit, sliced or chopped fine (dates, apricots, figs, prunes or one-third cup raisins with two-thirds cup chopped evaporated apples(

Sift together flour, baking powder and salt. Mix other ingredients in order given, using one of the dried fruits. Line a shallow pan (about 9x13) with waxed paper and spread batter on it. Bake at 350 degrees for 25 to 30 minutes. Several minutes after removing from oven, cut into bars about 1x3 inches. Turn out on rack and peel off paper. When firm enough to handle, roll warm bars in powdered sugar. Makes about 40 bars.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Anderson live on a 200 acre farm southwest of Newfolden. They have two children, John and Kenneth. John, the older of the two, resides at home and is employed at Detroiter Mobile Homes, Inc. in Red Lake Falls. Kenneth, 19, is in the Air Force and is stationed at Eielson Air Force Base in Fairbanks, Alaska. He is an administrative Specialist and has been in Fairbanks since December of 1964.

Mrs. Anderson is a member of the Viking Covenent Ladies Aid and the CWA.

MUSIC for the traditional lighting ceremony of the Jaycee nativity scene held Thursday night was provided by this group of young carolers from the Evangelical Free church of Thief River Falls, led by Rev. Wesley Johnson. The group sang several carols just before the floodlights were plugged in by Mayor Orin J. Green. The choir had a fair-sized audience, as the ceremony was held immediately following the weekly exodus of area citizenry from the city's participating stores, holding their first Christmas night opening of the season.

Scot Sund Notes First Birthday Without A Party

As so often happens, plans are made only to be cancelled or changed. That was the case in the birthday party planned for Scot Sund, one-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Orvin Sund of this city. Plans were all made to mark his first birthday on Sunday, November 28, with a party. However the party had to be cancelled when it was discovered that Scot's oldest brother, Tim, had the mumps.

Even though the guests were unable to attend, gifts arrived from Marilyn, Wendy, Kathy and Rocky Ulrich; Cindy and Rhonda Torkelson, Scot and Brent Schlieff and Lillian Kainz.

Venturing out in the storm to come to celebrate their grandson's first birthday and staying for supper were Scot's maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Grandberg of Ada. They were accompanied by Scot's great-grandmother Mrs. Otto Habeck and by Steven, Mark and Cathy Grandberg.

The Library Corner

by Virginia Gjernes

Once upon a time (up to and including today) there was a lady who had so many children and friends, not to mention friends who had children, too, and family and she also had a husband. Every year came along that season which everyone, sometimes cheerfully, refers to as "The Holidays". This lady, and her family and her friends, became harrassed, each and every time. Because there were:

Cookies to bake, Cakes to make, Clothes to mend, Cards to send, Gifts to buy, Boxes to tie, Children to scold, Salads to mold, Bulbs to test, 'n all the rest!

So... the lady, her family and her friends (and her childrens' friends and her friends' children) all trekked down to their public library. They all enjoyed the peace and quiet not to mention all those books covering the walls. However, they couldn't read all the books they wanted to read, because the library closed at 9:00 p.m., even during the Holiday Season, so called by everyone.

They did what everybody else does.....they checked out the books they wanted to read at home so they could forget about all there was to do, even for a little while, so they wouldn't seem so harrassed on the outside not to mention the inside. They found they all had to rest up and calm down, even during Holiday Season!

Would you like to know the titles of some of the books the lady and her family and her friends checked out for reading-pleasure? Maybe you'd like to check these out when they are back in the library again, or maybe you'd like to come down and check out something else so you too won't seem to harrassed during, before and after the 1965 Holiday Season.

Some of the children of the lady's friends checked out these new books: "Skinny" by Robert Burch; "The Ghost in the Noonday Sun" by Fleischman; "The Story of The Liberty Bell" by Natalie Miller; The Letter On The Tree" by Carlson; and the book by Elizabeth and Carl Carmer called "Captain Abner and Henry Q". The littlest angles checked out "The Apple Book" and "The Ball Book" and "The Farm Book" and "The Smiley Lion Book" and "The Baby Animal Book". Then one of the children came back and got "Casey At The Bat".

The adult people carried away "Elizabeth Taylor" by Elizabeth Taylor (and who should know her better); Gertz writes about "A Handful of Clients" and the readers like to read about those. Then there's Nelson's "The Great Discount Delusion" which should help with shopping problems during the Holiday Season, even if you do it cheerfully which most people do not, as well as forever after. Isaac "Asimov's Of Time And Space And Other Things" is a volume of seventeen essays and not one of them even mentions Holiday". Oh, "Memorable Quotations of John F. Kennedy" compiled by Meyersohn is a volume every one should read. If not before the New Year cometh, then after it gets here! "Thomas" by Mydans should be next to the Christmas tree, since it would get lost under it! "Collected Short Fiction 1892-1912" of Willa Cather is enchanting take - me - away - from - it - all literature. Bloomfield's Throw" is powerful imaginative writing, not to mention reading! Take this one along for escaping! (You'll be glad to get back to wrapping!)

Now, these are just some of the books the lady and her family and her friends took home with them. There are lots more books on the shelves and maybe you wouldn't like the same books the lady, etc., do-does! So you come in and you look at the shelves real good and you pick and choose your own stuff, because you'll probably like it better anyway, all the time.

So you be like the lady and her friends. You come down to the library. You won't be so harrassed before, during and after the Holiday Season if you read more!

College Night Program Slated Here Wednesday

Understandably, for many young persons, the step is often a difficult one. The choices are many—college or university, vocational or trade school, the armed services or the world of work itself. College night hopes to make this step a little easier by bringing together representatives from various colleges and universities, vocational schools and the armed services so that students and their parents can gain a better understanding of the many opportunities available.

"We are living in an age where training beyond high school, in some form or another, has become almost a necessity," Reeve continued. "This training should be considered carefully. Evaluation of schools, etc., should be made in light of needs, interests and vocational plans of the individual student."

The unemployment rate for everyone 18 years and over who do not finish high school is 6.6 per cent—as compared to 3.4 per cent for high school graduates.

Remember the ornate wood-burning stove? It was a "jack-of-all-trades". It heated the water, burned the trash, heated the flat-irons, baked the bread . . . and it was the only spot in the house to get dressed on cold mornings!

Then there was the chopping of wood, stacking it in the wood box, with the slivers and ashes and sawdust to combat. TEACHING deaf and blind Helen Keller (Kathy Breiland) to communicate with words and to associate words with things is the complicated job handed Annie Sullivan (Jean Bruggeman) in the play "The Miracle Worker" by William Gibson to be presented tonight (Monday) and Tuesday at 8 p.m. in the Lincoln high school auditorium by the senior class. This dramatic presentation, which makes an unusual impact since it is based on fact, is the story of the childhood of Helen Keller, deaf and blind since birth, and of the perseverance and ultimate success of her teacher and life-long companion, Annie Sullivan. Annie is pictured teaching Helen an alphabet code by which she can form letters with her hands. The mug at lower left was used to teach her the meaning of the word "water."

Farr Commends Rolvaag Stand on Reapportionment

"Governor Rolvaag is clearly and unmistakably acting in the public interest in asking legislative leaders to discuss reapportionment of the state before calling a special session of the legislature," George Farr, Minneota DFL chairman, said this week. "And he is not requesting an unprecedented procedure."

"Some of the same Republican legislators now refusing to discuss legislative reapportionment in advance of a special session, insisted on pre-agreement for congressional redistricting four years ago.

Republican legislative leaders —Sen. John Zwach, Representatives Lloyd Duxbury and Aubrey Dirlam—who rejected the governor's proposal last week served in the 1961 session when total pre-agreement on congressional apportionment was their immovable position.

The Republican-controled legislature has demonstrated its monumental arrogance time and time again. For more than 50 years they ignored the redistricting provisions of the Minnesota state consitution.

Republicans in control of the legislature were aware for the past year they would have to reapportion the State of Minnesota consistent with the provisions of the state and federal consitutions. They did not accept and discharge this responsibility. There is no reason to expect they will act any more responsibly if called into session now unless discussion preceded such a session.

Legislative reapportionment can be accomplished in a very brief session if the Republican leadership is willing to sit down and discuss the guide lines with DFL legislators in advance of a session. In 1961, the special session lasted only two days."

For Minnesota the October valuation decreased from $50,768,135 in 1964 to $50,517,866 in 1965. The cumulative total for the first 10 months of this year was $435,613,557 compared with $458,001,080 recorded during 1964.

Throughout the Ninth district, the total valuation of building permits issued during October, 1965 in 286 permit issuing centers was $75,715,924 for 5,588 permits. In October, 1964 there were 5,253 permits issued with a valuation of $69,858,182. The report also stated that the cumulative total for the year showed a decrease from $604,858,182 for 43,850 permits in 1964 to $600,387,528 for 43,905 permits in 1965.

Thief River Falls Christmas shoppers have been blessed with favorable weather during the first few days of December. The mild temperatures reached their peak Saturday, when a high of 41 was recorded at the airport. Stiff northerly winds brought by a high centered to the north pushed the mercury down considerably Sunday night, however, and a low of zero was recorded early this morning.

Forecast calls for fair to partly cloudy skies today and tomorrow, with fair skies tonight and a warming trend beginning tomorrow. Highs today will range from 25 to 32; lows tonight from 15 to 25.

Temperature and precipitation readings recorded so far this month are as follows: 26 and 18 on Wednesday; 36 and 15 on Thursday; 38, 20 and a trace on Friday; 41 and 16 on Saturday; 38 and 19 on Sunday; and a low this morning of zero.

of the Thief River Falls Chamber of Commerce were elected for 1965-66 when ballots submitted in a mail election were tabulated Thursday. Elected from a slate of 12 candidates were Justus Larson, Roy Lee, Sid Lieberman, Donovan Narverud, Kenneth Onken and S. E. Sinding. They will take office for two-year terms on January 1 following several orientation meetings to be held this month. Other members of the board of directors whose terms did not expire this year are James Winjum, Arnt Aune, L. L. Tygeron, Phil Kays, John Wold and Dr. Leo Herber.

FOREIGN countries were represented by booths at the Christmas meeting of the Pennington County Homemakers' club, this year entitled "Christmas In Foreign Lands." The Oriental booth is pictured above, with Mrs. Richard Kruse (left) and Mrs. Edgar Naplin serving chop suey to homemakers who made the tour of the booths. The exhibit was set up in the basement of Zion Lutheran church Friday afternoon. Overseas areas represented were Hawaii, Germany and Holland, France and Italy, the Orient and the Scandinavian countries. Persons who entered were given "passports" and "sea-sick pills" at a miniature ship manned by Mrs. Chester Aubol, Mrs. Robert DuChamp and Mrs. Clarence Williams. At each booth, they were served examples of food or drink characteristic of that country and were given explanations of its Christmas customs.

HUMOR finds its way into William Gibson's "The Miracle Worker", this year's selection of the Lincoln high school senior class, although the play is essentially dramatic. In this scene, Capt. Keller (Dave Swenson), father of Helen Keller, is rescuing Annie Sullivan (Joan Bruggeman), Helen's hired teacher, from a locked upstairs bedroom for which the key has mysteriously disappeared. Holding the ladder are Mrs. Keller (Linda Disse) and young James Keller (Dick Stenberg). The play will be presented tonight (Monday) and Tuesday at 8 p.m. in the high school auditorium.

Peace Corps Test Offered Today At Post Office

Thief River Falls area residents interested in entering the Peace Corps are invited to take the Peace Corps placement test at 3 p.m. Monday (today) at the Thief River Falls post office. The test requires no preparation and is noncompetitive: an applicant can neither pass nor fail. The Peace Corps uses the test to determine how an applicant can best be utilized overseas.

The application form, not the placement test, is the most important factor in the selection of volunteers. Persons interested in serving in the Peace Corps must fill out an application, if they have not already done so, and present it to the tester before taking the test. Applications may be obtained from the post office or from the Peace Corps, Washington, D. C. 20525.

The placement test takes about an hour and a half. An optional achievement test for applicants who studied French or Spanish requires an additional hour.

Target Date Set For Gifts to State Hospital

Goodridge Junior Class Sets Play

Mark Twain's "Connecticut Yankee" is a tale said to never grow old. On Thursday it will be presented in the Grygla school gymnasium at 8 p.m. and on Saturday in the new Goodridge high school gymnasium at 8 p.m. by the Goodridge junior class.

A matinee will be given to the grade school Thursday morning and to the high school on Friday afternoon.

This story deals with the adventures of a Yankee from Connecticut who finds himself thrown back into the Middle Ages. He cannot believe it at first, thinking that he is in an insane asylum. But he is soon convinced that he actually is faced with a death sentence handed down from King Arthur, and his ingenuity comes immediately to the fore.

By predicting an eclipse of the sun, he saves his own skin, and immediately becomes the idol of the kingdom. His power becomes so great that Merlin, the court magician, plots against him with several others.

However, the Yankee builds up complete twentieth century industry in short order, and keeps the Knights of the court completely baffled by his magic. What happens when he is lured away from the kingdom to investigate other domains will keep the audience in laughter and suspense from start to finish.

Christmas Tree Decorated By The Pixie Planters

Twenty-eight members of the Pixie Planters Junior garden club met Saturday for their last meeting of the season. The group assembled at the Pennington county court house lawn where they decorated a Christmas tree using tops from tin cans that they had cut into various shapes and designs. A noon meal was served by their leaders, Mrs. Marie Cernoseck and Mrs. Inga Geving who also presented each member with a Christmas bag.

During the past summer the club has planted and taken care of four flower plots in Thief River Falls and have visited rest homes bringing cookies and flowers to the residents of the homes.

Plans for next year are to resume meetings in March when the club will make plans for their summer projects. An additional garden plot, located along Highway 32, will be tended by members of the club.

SPEAKER at a world missions rally to be held Tuesday at 8 p.m. in the Assembly of God tabernacle in Thief River Falls will be Rev. Richard Larson. His wife Janice and their three childen will also take part in the service, the last in which they will participate before leaving for Costa Rica, Central America. Rev. Larson is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Emil Larson of Plummer and his wife is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lester Rood of Thief River Falls. The public is invited to attend the service, according to Rev. H. Ray Collver, host pastor.

Eastern Marshall Roads Included In County Plans

An extensive improvement program which will call for approximately 40 miles of grading on Marshall county highways in 1966, providing sufficient funds become available, was announced today by H. I. Knutson, county highway engineer.

The big construction program is being planned to prepare the highways with the proper grades and widths for bituminous surfacing in 1967 and 1968, Knutson said. By letting the earth-moving contracts separately from the paving contracts, a considerable amount of money may be saved, he said.

Grading and graveling on 8½ miles of CSAH 12 northeast of Thief River Falls is included in the 1966 construction program with the base and bituminous surfacing being scheduled for 1967.

Grading of approximately five miles of CSAH 54 south of Grygla is also planned in 1966 and is scheduled for bituminous surfacing in 1968, these jobs again being contingent on the amount of funds available.

Bituminous surfacing in 1966 is planned on CSAH 11, 9½ miles north of Viking to connect with CSAH 28 west of Newfolden.

Greenbush Man Critically Hurt In Trailer Fire

Peter Burkel, 76, Greenbush, was critically injured in a fire which destroyed his trailer home at about 9 a.m. Saturday, November 27. Reports Tuesday indicated his condition was improving. He was most seriously burned about the head and hands, it was reported.

Cause of the fire is undetermined. The 28-foot trailer home was in flames when John Burkel, on whose farm the trailer is located, saw his father trying to re-enter the trailer. It is believed he was attempting to rescue his two pet kittens, along with some papers or records. His son restrained him from entering the burning structure. Burkel is hospitalized at the Roseau area hospital.

Stolen Articles Recovered After Two-Year Lapse

A number of stolen articles missing for more than two years was recovered recently by a local deer hunter, it was reported today by Sheriff Charles R. Richards. In October of 1963 the Acme Construction company of Glenwood was working on highways in this area and was robbed of a 19-inch chain saw, a half-inch electric drill and a number of wrenches.

The loot was found in the woods by Burton Johnson of rt. 1, Thief River Falls, while Johnson was deer hunting. Johnson placed an ad in the Times in an effort to find the owner, an investigation by the sheriff's office revealed that these were the tools stolen from the Acme company.

The sheriff also reported that on Tuesday a battery had been stolen in broad daylight from a 1965 Chevrolet during a sale at the Thief River Falls Livestock Auction Mart. The car is owned by Richard Lindemoen of rt. 1, Viking. Anyone having information concerning the theft is asked to contact the sheriff's office.

Adrian Larson on Cub Scout Panel

Cub Scout leaders' Pow Wow, a training event for Cub Scout leaders throughout the 15-county area of the Lake Agassiz council, Boy Scouts of America, will be held Sunday at the East Grand Forks high school. Registration will start at 1:30 p.m. At 2:30 p.m. the four main sections of the event—handicraft, skits, puppets and ceremonies, pack administration and games—will begin and continue until 5:30 p.m. The Blue and Gold banquet will be served at 6 p.m.

Among the committee chairman for the event is Adrian Larson, Thief River Falls, who is in charge of the skits, puppets and ceremonies section.

Robert Walstad, Grand Forks chairman of the Lake Agassiz council leadership training committee, said the Pow Wow provides an opportunity for all cub leaders and parents to better acquaint themselves with the program. Some 200 Cubmasters, den mothers and pack committee members have been invited to the event, and a general invitation is being extended to all parents of Cub Scouts so they may acquire the necessary know-how in working with their sons.

Walstad pointed out that the Cubbing program is designed for the whole family, rather than just for the boy. The program is home-centered with the boy's parents testifying to the achievements in rank as he progresses.

More than 2,300 Cub Scouts are currently registered in the Lake Agassiz council.

Sacred Heart Swamps Prowlers Friday Night

Coach Julian (Curly) Gasperlin's Sacred Heart Eagles, gaining a 19 to 8 lead at the end of the first period, and a 31 to 15 margin at the intermission, controlled the tempo of the basketball game played at East Grand Forks on Friday night and scored a deserving 60 to 36 win over the Prowlers.

Friday night on the Lincoln high school court, the Prowlers will meet the highly-regarded Warren Ponies in a District 31 conference game.

In Friday night's game at Sacred Heart, coach Gasperlin's rangy squad controlled the defensive backboards and turned in a better than 40 per cent field goal average in the first half.

The Eagles' utilized a zone defense, and they double-teamed Mark Stromberg to limit the Prowler center to one field goal and one free throw.

Hoffert notched three field goals and a pair of free throws in the second half to gain high-point honors with 20 points. The Prowlers' Tomy Cummings, with five field goals and a free throw, and the Eagles' playmaking guard Dennis DeMers, with four field goals and three free throws, shared runner-up honors with 11 points apiece.

Attendance Down At Lake Bronson Park During '65

Attendance at Lake Bronson state park, located 14 miles east of Hallock near the village of Lake Bronson, was down about 15,000 from last year, according to Ernie Jewel, park manager. Attendance this season was about 70,000 compared with 85,000 last year. The drop in attendance, Jewel said, was probably due to excessive and continuous rainfall at the height of the camping and picnic season.

Income of the park this year totaled $12,029.11, compared with $12,312.80 a year ago. This year's income came from the following sources: camping, $2,605.50; watercraft rentals, $100; boat rentals, $470.60; group camp rentals, $139.80; sale of fire wood, $102.50; refectory sales, $3,882.81; park permits (50-cent stickers), $1,307; and park permits ($2 yearly stickers), $3,402.

Itasca state park was the top money-maker in the state this year with total receipts of $137,218. This park, unlike Lake Bronson is ideally located at the crossroads of main avenues of tourist travel, and has the attraction of containing the source of the Mississippi River.

Bow Deer Season Opened Saturday

Minnesota Conservation department reminded archery hunters today that the December bow hunting season on deer opened Saturday. Hunting is restricted to that part of the state lying south of a line formed by highways 10, 210 and 39 between Moorhead and the eastern border of the state.

Winter Fishermen Given Warning on Dangers of Ice

Ice fishing has become a major Minnesota winter sport. More than 61,000 fish house licenses will be sold this season if the trend of recent years continues. This figure does not include the thousands of fishermen who ice fish without using a shelter.

A few safety precautions will not guarantee the size of the fisherman's catch but may insure his safe return, the conservation department said today.

The first precaution (and the one violated most frequently) is to keep the car off the ice and to walk out to the shelter of fishing hole.

Fishermen who are determined to drive on frozen lakes or rivers should at least stay on the well-travelled lanes. Unmarked ice is an invitation to disaster. It may contain brittle pressure ridges or thin ice patches which have been caused by water currents.

In spite of all warnings, about four hundred automobiles a year crash through the ice, according to National Red Cross figures.

The victim of a breakthrough should not be surprised if the car heads for the bottom nose first or lands on its back at the bottom of the lake. This commonly happens when a car enters the water because of the weight of the motor in the front. It probably won't be possible to open the door and escape until water has nearly filled the car and the pressure has been equalized.

Tests have shown the car often does not sink in a straight line but coasts off to one side. If the breakthrough victim is lucky and reaches the hole in time, he may emerge with nothing worse than a bad case of exposure and a terrifying experience.

Women Curlers Plan Fun Night Thursday Evening

The members of the Thief River Falls women's curling association will conduct a "fun night" at the fairgrounds curling club on Thursday at 8 p.m. Purpose of the gathering, according to president Naomi Monroe, is to make acquaintances with new and prospective members. The curlers need not be members of a team to participate in Thursday evening's "fun night".

All team skips are asked to list their team sponsors and team members with Mrs. Monroe by December 10, in order that a league schedule may be drafted. Team skips who are looking for curlers should call president Mrs. Monroe, at 681-1987, or leave their names at the curling club headquarters at the fairgrounds.

They Will Need Ice

If we get a couple of below-freezing days it is probable that the local arena ice sheet will be available and ready for Thursday night's Manitoba senior hockey league game between the Red River Mixers of Grand Forks and Cal Marvin's Warroad Lakers.

The Red River Mixers, coached by Don Ross, formerly an all-state high school star while at Roseau and later an All-American choice while attending North Dakota U, has his club in first place in the senior league. This league, with five members — Red River Mixers, Winnipeg Warriors, Warroad Lakers, Selkirk Fishermen and the Dryden Rockets—should provide senior hockey fans in Northwestern Minnesota, Manitoba and eastern Ontario, with some high class hockey.

It must be recalled that last season the Warroad Lakers reached the finals of the Canadian senior hockey playdowns, losing to Nelson, B.C. And you can be sure that the Lakers will ice a powerful team again this season. The club will have Billy and Roger Christian, who gained nationwide fame when they starred in the 1960 winner Olympic hockey series, which found the United States winning the gold medals.

And also on the Warroad Laker roster is that former Thieves' favorite Murray Balagus. It is reported, too, that Jackie McLeod, one of Canada's top senior hockey players and currently the coach of Canada's Nationals, the team to represent Canada in the world tournament, will join the Lakers.

The Red River Mixers have a couple of local skaters in the lineup in defenseman Jerry Westby and center Dale Weinberg. Local fans are well acquainted with the hockey abilities of these two boys. Another top-flight member of the Mixers is rangy Dave Mazur. Mazur, a six-foot two-inch 195-pound center from Dauphin, Manitoba, played three years with the North Dakota Sioux. He is captain of the Mixers club this season. Another fine player out of Dauphin, and who played junior hockey with the high-class Edmonton Oil Kings, is John Lesychen. In a game against the Dryden club a couple of week's ago, Lesychen scored five goals.

Let's hope that the arena ice sheet firms up for Thursday night's game, which is scheduled for 8:30 p.m. The Prowlers have been on the ice a couple of times during last week's cold spell, but there are some lumps and soft spots and the ice will need a couple of cold nights.

On the Ice

When bigger and better northerns are speared they will be taken out of Red Thyren's darkhouse on lake Winnibigoshish. Last year, according to the proprietor, nothing smaller than 15-pounders were brought up. And that will be the "house rule" this season. A northern smaller than 15 pounds must be allowed to swim away from the decoy.

This house will be for rent at so much per day—and the rate has not been set. And personal instruction from Red, will be available. There is a certain knack in setting the decoy in motion, and when a northern makes a pass at the lure the spearer must use a flexible twist of the wrist. According to Red, this isn't easy, and there are certain anglers who will never become expert at spearing. They will remain adequate for such fish as redhorse suckers and carp and eelpouts.

As for hook - and - line angling through the ice for walleyes, it would be a fine gesture if the members of the Vets Loud Talk and Small Fish club would concede the ice fishing championship to Morris, the Mouse Elstland. The fact is Mouse has the time and the equipment and the know-how, to be the city's best walleye angler. And he has already made a couple of scouting trips to Waskish and Lake of the Woods, to check on the ice conditions. He will have his well-equipped house trailer set up at Springsteel Island, and he will headquarter there this season.

I realize that such die-hards as Helmer Ole Ness, Lloyd Samuelson, Squite Overum, and a few others, resent Mouse's success. But these fellows are strictly chalk-line, two minnows on the hook, and two-lines - in - the - hole fishermen, and are not eligible for the honor.

Early Warning

I think that it is only fair to warn the city's veteran curlers that there has been a rink formed that intends to win more than its share of spiels. This rink—Dick Hjelmstad, Dr. Ed Nelson, Dr. Herb Achenbach and Dr. Earl Dagg—has made plans of taking over curling titles in northwestern Minnesota, and perhaps into northeastern North Dakota, and southern Manitoba.

According to the reports that have been smuggled to me, the rink has been subjected to a regime of isometric exercises. And after the boys—Bjorkman, Nelson, Achenbach, and Dagg—have taken care of such curlers as the Arden Iddings, the Wally Tunbergs, the Sappy Knutsons, the Dave Sorvigs and the Russ Emburys, then the rink will top off their season, like a sprig of parsley on a scoop of spuds, by taking the Jon Larsons "through the fjord".

Bring on the curling ice!

T.R.F. Wrestlers Whip Crookston

The Prowler A and B wrestling squads were winners in their dual matches against the Crookston Central A and B squad here Friday evening: Coach Ed Krystosek's Prowler varsity squad defeated the Pirates A squad, 31 to 11. Coach Dale Folger's Prowler B squad, with Clyde Olson, Kim Brandt, Dick Ryan, Tom Duke and Don Gross scoring pin victories, defeated the Crookston B squad, 31 to 17.

The Prowler varsity squad will participate in the Sioux Invitational meet at Grand Forks on Saturday. On Tuesday, December 14, the powerful Mahnomen Indians of District 30 will wrestle the Prowlers on the Lincoln high school gymnasium mat.

In Friday night's varsity matches only three were determined by pins. Bill Besch scored a pin over Steve Urness in a 95-pound match. Crookston's Duane Reitmeier pinned the Prowlers' Dale Comstock in a 103-pound match. And the Prowlers' Myles Olson, in a 112-pound match, pinned Dan Tricky in 25 seconds.

In one of the most exciting matches on the program, Crookston's Rick Kaltenberg scored a 6-4 decision over the Prowlers' Steve Furuseth in a 120-pound match. Furuseth is a defending Region Eight champion.

Crookston's veteran Kent Charron edged out the Prowlers' Tom Miller, 3-2, in a 175-pound match. And in an interesting heavyweight match, Bruce Parnham of the Prowlers defeated Crookston's Art Selseth, 3-2.

The summaries:

Waterfowl Left Canada Prairies In Mid-November

A cold Arctic air mass swept the last of the waterfowl out of the Canadian prairies, November 10-13, according to the December 1 issue of the Ducks Unlimited "Duckological" prepared by General Manager Angus Gavin. The movement was quite heavy through southern Alberta where the birds concentrated after the movement of November 3-8. Few birds, however, had remained in eastern Saskatchewan and Manitoba and the final flight there was small.

During the last two weeks of November a good deal of snow fell across the prairies, Gaven stated. Precipitation for the month was normal or better at most stations, which is a much improved situation over past years. Only on the western prairies has any appreciable thawing occurred.

At the present time, although there are areas that will need a good runoff next spring, the water situation, and the potential for next spring, is the best it has been for many years, Gavin said.

Langen Raps USDA on Selling Wheat Stocks

"It now must be obvious to every American farmer that the Department of Agriculture has no intention of permitting him to increase his income," said Congressman Odin Langen in commenting on the department's decision last week to sell Commodity Credit corporation stocks of high-protein hard red spring wheat and winter wheat.

"In fact, it is now obvious that the CCC is using its authority and stocks to hold farm income down. It means that the laws of supply and demand are not being allowed to function, a threat to our entire free marketing system," Langen said.

He noted that the effect of such action was immediate, with cash prices slumping as much as seven cents a bushel within 24 hours of the government's announcement. Futures contracts also slumped as much as four cents a bushel.

Langen charged the department with arbitrarily forcing the market price down on high-protein wheat and reducing farmer income. Within a week after assuring the President that farm income was on the rise and that the new farm program would provide additional benefits for rural America, the Secretary of Agriculture displayed the hollowness of his words by permitting the Commodity Credit corporation to manipulate prices against the best interests of these same farmers."

Congressman Langen said that while this latest move is completely appalling, it shouldn't come as a surprise. "The secretary's testimony last April to the House Agriculture committee revealed that he interpreted the department's role as one of keeping the commodity prices low enough to force farmer compliance with the farm programs. He is now carrying out his threats.

"It is obvious that the farmer is being forced to knuckle under once more," Langen said, "and the department of agriculture is defending its actions by trying to scare the consumer with the threat of higher bread prices. Published reports already indicate that the lower wheat prices will not be passed on to the consumer."

Langen said it is no wonder that the agriculture department opposed his bill to prohibit the CCC from making domestic sales at prices less than 125 per cent of the current support prices plus reasonable carrying charges. "If my bill had been passed, the CCC couldn't have put this latest grain-dumping decision into effect at the announced price of 108 per cent plus carrying charges. It becomes obvious that we must press for action on this bill when Congress meets in January if we are to stop this arbitrary manipulation of farm prices by the Department of Agriculture."

Congressman Langen said it was time for the department of agriculture and the Congress to reaffirm the original purpose of the Commodity Credit corporation. "The CCC was never intended to be used as an instrument against the best interests of American agriculture, but was created to serve the farmer through proper marketing assistance. If the department of agriculture has forgotten this purpose, it's about time its officials were reminded of it. Actions such as this latest wheat-selling announcement can only lead us to believe that it has become the department of anti-agriculture."

Pedestrians Face Most Dangerous Season of Year

Pedestrians are now in the season that can be the most dangerous of the year for walking, reminds the Minnesota highway department.

It is dark longer these days and streets can be slippery at any time. Pedestrians are also likely to give more attention to keeping warm than to watching for cars. Often their vision is obstructed by turned-up collars and arms full of packages.

An important thing for the pedestrian to remember, whether he is just out walking in the neighborhood or downtown shopping, is that motor vehicles need up to 10 times more distance for stopping on icy roads than on normal roads, and that the driver does not see the pedestrian as soon or as clearly in his car lights as he does in daylight.

The driver needs to remember the same facts.

While Minnesota has been hearing a lot of criticism about the reluctance of drivers to yield the right of way to pedestrians, it should be pointed out that of last year's 123 pedestrian deaths the pedestrians themselves were at fault in about 60 per cent of the fatal accidents. This, however, does in no way absolve drivers from their major responsibility of protecting the pedestrian.

By the end of October of this year, 93 pedestrians had been killed by motor vehicles in Minnesota—a 15 per cent reduction from the 110 persons killed by the same time last year. This is also a five per cent decrease from the five year (1960-64) pedestrian fatality average.

But even one pedestrian death can be too many, says the highway department, so drivers should do all within their control to avoid endangering the pedestrian, even in a situation in which the pedestrian may apparently be at fault.

Answer Questions on Federal Tax Matters

These questions most frequently asked by taxpayers on federal income tax matters with authoritative answers is provided by the office of the district director of Internal Revenue, St. Paul.

Q—My daughter is going to need braces. Can we prepay some of the dental expenses so that they may be included in our 1965 return?

A—Only those payments covering actual expenses for treatment received during the 1965 tax year may be deducted on 1965 returns. The law does not permit deductions for expenses paid in advance when the payment is made one year and the expenses incurred the next.

Q—My truck was wrecked in an accident. Can I get a refund on the federal highway use tax I paid on it?

A—No you can't.

No portion of the tax is refundable for the reason you describe. The law also does not permit you to transfer the tax you paid on the wrecked vehicle to a vehicle you obtain to replace it.

Note however, that for vehicles acquired after the start of the taxable year only the portion of the tax applicable to that portion of the year has to be paid.

Q—I'm working my way through college. If my income goes over $600 will my parents lose their deduction for me?

A—No, they will not as long as you otherwise qualify as a dependent.

Q—I retired and moved here after spending most of my life in another state. Should I file my tax return here or in the state where I earned most of my money during 1965?

A—Returns should be filed in the district where the taxpayer resides at the close of the tax year.

Q—I went into debt last year to pay my tax bill. Isn't there anyway I could pay my tax in monthly installments?

A—Withholding on salary and wages does just that for millions of Americans. If you present withholding is not sufficient, you may reduce your withholding exemptions or request your employer to withhold additional amounts of income tax.

Taxpayers, whether or not subject to withholding, who meet certain income and tax limitations are required to file declarations of estimated tax and make quarterly payments. By paying quarterly they avoid a large, lump sum tax payment on or before April 15.

Q—I just took a part-time job to give me some extra spending money this Christmas. Is there anyway I can get my part-time employer to stop withholding for social security? My regular employer withholds the full amount for Social Security.

A—No. Each employer is required to withhold social security taxes on the first $4,800 of income paid each employee during 1965.

If, as you say, more than $174 is withheld from your wages for social security in 1965, because you worked for two or more employers, then the excess should be taken as a tax credit on your 1965 income tax return.

Q—I'm selling some farm property that I own. Is there anyway I can avoid being taxed on my total profit in 1965?

A—Yes, you may be able to report your profits on the installment basis. Then you would only be taxed on that part of the profit you received in 1965.

This installment method can only be used when you receive payments of not more than 30 per cent of the selling price in the year of sale. If you receive more than 30 per cent, the entire profit must be declared on the return for the year of sale.

Q—When is the next installment of my estimated tax due?

Pest Resistance Found in Several Potato Varieties

Potato plants with built-in resistance to serious insect pests are a step closer to reality. Entomologists at the University of Minnesota have found near immunity to aphids in a number of potato introductions from around the Western hemisphere.

Researchers in August made counts of two kinds of aphids—potato aphid and green peach aphid—on each of more than 5,000 plants. Average for the commercial varieties was 2.9 potato aphids and 7.8 green peach aphids per plant.

Among the plant introductions, mostly from Central America, there was wide variation. There were 12 potato selections which had less than one green peach aphid for every four plants sampled. Three introductions had no peach aphids.

Similarly, Radcliffe found a dozen introductions with less than .67 potato aphids per plant. One entry had no potato aphids. These low counts, he says, are strong evidence of plant resistance. One introduction had very high resistance to both kinds of aphids.

The ultimate intent of this research, according to Radcliffe, is to find ways of incorporating this resistance into agriculturally acceptable potato varieties. This will mean further testing of resistance followed by intensive breeding work.

Such resistance has been found for other insects in other plants and in such cases has been successfully built into new crop varieties.

Precise cause of this resistance isn't known but Radcliffe suggests that it may be due to some chemical in the plant which repels the insect or the absence of some chemical guidepost by which the insect recognizes the plant as a host.

These aphids are regarded as two of the most serious insect pests of potatoes, since they transmit many virus diseases of potato.

Editorials . . .

"God did not rest after the six days of creation; He is still continuously at work, as on the first day. Surely it wouldn't have been much fun for Him to build this lumbering world out of simple elements and let it roll about in the sunshine year in, year out, if He hadn't had the plan to build upon this material basis a training ground for higher spirits. And so He is continually at work in great geniuses, so as to pull the common people up." —Goethe

Keeping It Local

Governor Love of Colorado says: "If we demonstrate by community and state action that problems can be handled outside Washington—that federal control is not necessary—that the vacuum of community and state action does not exist—then we've cut the federal planners off at the pockets, and made a great and substantial contribution to the future of our country."

In other words, if the nonfederal governments of this country show, by action and not just words, that they are capable of taking care of their own problems, demand for and acceptance of federal intervention at the local level will wither.

There is no doubt that many of these governments have taken a "Let George do it" attitude—George being the federal agencies. Thus they have contributed, wittingly or not, to a seemingly endless extension of federal power that has gravely undermined the rights, responsibilities and obligations of the states and the communities. And when that happens, the individual becomes more and more of a statistic, with little or nothing effective to say about his destiny.

A continuation of the trend of late years can lead to only one result—that is, to make state and local governments little more than meaningless institutions. If that happens, the real strength of this nation, and with it our freedoms, will be weakened beyond repair.

Telling the Truth

Now that the hunting seasons which attract the attenion of the majority of Minnesota hunters have passed, a little reflection seems in order. We venture to say that most hunters will agree that the 1965 season—with the possible exception of deer—was not an especially good one. In fact, it might be considered poor by many hunters who are accustomed to a fair amount of shooting.

Grouse populations have been low for a number of years, although the past season did seem to indicate a slight up-swing in grouse numbers. Pheasants were severely hurt by storms last winter. Goose hunting was spoiled by nitwits with extremely bad manners and lack of knowledge of either their guns or the game they were hunting—or both. Duck season opened after the main flight had already gone through this area and later flights tended to move through North Dakota.

The first thing that too many frustrated sportsmen do is look for a place to lay the blame for their lack of success. Too often their complaint is directed toward the conservation department, without which, in our opinion, they could have hung up their guns years ago. We liked the comments in a column entitled "Mostly the Truth" which was published September 22 in the Lyon County Independent at Marshall. We quote:

"I read an editorial not long ago in which the writer took some cuts at the game department. In his closing paragraph, he wrote, 'Drastic measures must be taken if our children are going to get any hunting. How will you feel and explain to your son as he looks up at you after hunting all day without seeing a single gamebird and says, 'Golly, Dad, you keep telling me about all the ducks and pheasants you shot back in the 50's and 60's. . .why didn't you save a few for me?'

"That's a good question. How ARE you going to explain to your son?

"Well, I'll tell you how I am NOT going to explain to him! I am NOT going to tell him the birds disappeared because the game department opened seasons when they shouldn't have, or because the conservation department was run by a bunch of knotheads and amateurs who wouldn't listen to all the people who knew all the answers—or thought they did.

"And I'll tell YOU what I am going to tell HIM, if it becomes necessary. I am going to tell him that the pheasants are gone because their homes were destroyed, and because their sources of feed were taken over for the use of people, and because their winter shelters were cut down or plowed under or burned out or drained out.

"And I'll tell him that weather conditions helped destroy them—conditions the birds might have survived if other factors had been in their favor, but weren't.

"And if he asks about where all the ducks went, I am going to tell him about the thousands of acres of swamps and sloughs and nesting areas that were put under cultivation, and about the thousands of acres that were drained and were NEVER put into cultivation.

"And I'm going to tell him about the pollution of waters by cities and industrial plants, which destroyed the ducks' resting and feeding areas.

"And I'll tell him it was NOT the shotguns in the early mornings with the mists curling up from the sloughs and the big greenheads coming in fat and chuckling to the decoys. . .

"And I'll tell him it was NOT the gunners out in the wheat stubble, just before sunset, when the feeding flocks came out and buzzed the fields like swarms of locusts, and so hungry and unafraid a hunter could just lie out on his back and have birds all around him.

"And I'll even tell him it was not the market hunters in Mexico or the 'game hogs' in Louisiana who decimated the flocks, even though that was another popular myth in the 1960's.

"I'll be very careful about what I tell my son when he asks why I didn't 'save some for him'.

"Because I want him to know the truth about what happened to the pheasants and the ducks and the prairie chickens and the ruffed grouse.

"Just as I wanted to know the truth about what happened to the buffalo and the grizzly bear and the lobo wolf and the passenger pigeon and the heath hen.

"And what is happening, right now, to the pronghorn antelope in Wyoming and other antelope ranges of the west.

"I agree that drastic measures must be taken if our children are to have any hunting. But the drastic measures must not be limited to cussing out the game and fish division, or petitioning for closed seasons every time a species gets gown a little, or by refusing to buy a hunting license.

"The drastic measures must start right where the game starts—on the land. More and better habitat must be left by the stewards of the land where the game HAS to live. Farmers would have to become more conservation-minded than they have been in the past—or are now. More wetlands would have to be saved from the dragline and the ditching machine. Wetlands that have been 'reclaimed' would have to be put back into production of game.

"This would not be done in a year or two. And it MIGHT not ever be done at all. And it will NEVER be done just by closing hunting season.

"But until it IS done, the pheasants and the ducks are not going to come back and our kids may not have any hunting. But if we have to explain WHY there is no hunting, let's tell them the truth."

Teenage Marriages

Teenagers are flocking to the altar by thousands. One out of two brides this year will be under 20. The same ratio will end up in separation or divorce, according to Changing Times reporting on "What happens to teenage marriages?"

The chance of success for a teenage marriage in the U.S. is about a third as good as for marriages of those in their twenties. The fact is that today more girls marry at age 18 than at any other age and this tendency to marry young is one that is peculiar to the United States.

It's not just the women either; nearly half of all American young men are married by the time they are 25, compared with only a quarter in most of Europe and as few as a tenth in Norway and Ireland. Only in Asia do you find a marry-young pattern comparable to that of the U. S.

Interested in improving the change of success of thousands of marrying teens, Changing Times offers these guidelines:

The young married—particularly the groom—must understand the necessity of completing high school and, if possible, going on to college or other advanced training.

More needs to be done to help teenagers understand what marriage entails—realistic education on what marriage is like, what is important.

More help is needed for married couples in trouble in family counseling, baby care, supplementary education, and general encouragement in making the best of the situation.

And, parents must not cringe at prospects of a teenage crisis. Wise parents can accept what is and give every support they can.

What Happens to Teenage Marriages?

If your teenager wants to marry. . .tell her or him these facts:

One out of two teenage marriages ends in divorce or separation.

Teens who drop out of school to marry rarely go back.

Pregnancy occurs early for most teen brides—ending hopes of career or more education.

Teen husbands average a little over $2,000 a year, but most families need two or three times that to get by.

Most teens are overwhelmed by the emotional and psychological trials of marriage.

A few years of waiting is the best assurance of a lifetime of married happiness.

Times Have Changed

Indicative of the fact that times have changed from the "good old days" is this item published recently in the Minnesota History News, publication of the Minnesota Historical society. The following rules for teachers, the society states, were posted by a New York City principal in 1872:

1. Teachers each day will fill lamps, clean chimneys, and trim wicks.
2. Each teacher will bring a bucket of water and a scuttle of coal for the day's session.
3. Make your pens carefully. You may whittle nibs to the individual taste of the pupil.
4. Men teachers may take one evening each week for courting purposes, or two evenings a week if they go to church regularly.
5. After ten hours in school, the teachers spend the remaining time reading the Bible or other good books.
6. Women teachers who marry or engage in unseemingly conduct will be dismissed.
7. Every teacher should lay aside from each pay a goodly sum of his earnings for his benefit during his declining years so that he will not become a burden on society.

HELPERS for Santa Claus were these members of the Thief River Falls Chamber of Commerce who gathered at the city auditorium Tuesday evening to fill sacks of candy. County Makes Plans To Clean Thief River

Pennington county commissioners entered into an agreement with the Minnesota Department of Conservation Tuesday for cleaning of the Thief River channel from the outlet to the north Pennington county line. The agreement was signed at a meeting of the commissioners held in the courthouse in Thief River Falls.

The agreement between Pennington county and the conservation department's division of waters calls for the cleaning of snags, standing timber and other obstacles from the Thief River channel. Distance of the river project is 5.7 miles from the outlet of the Thief river into the Red lake river at Thief River Falls to the southern boundary of Marshall county.

In two previous years the Thief river channel from Agassiz National Wildlife refuge to the southern Marshall county line was cleared on a similar basis. The 1965 session of the Minnesota legislature appropriated $10,000 for the clearing project in Pennington county, and this amount is considered to be adequate to cover the entire cost of the project.

Work will be done this winter by county forces and equipment under contract to the county with supervision to be provided by Joe Seidel, Pennington county highway engineer.

Discussion was also held by the board in regard to county planning and assistance which is available for county planning through the Minnesota Department of Business Development. The state agency offers an assistance program for preliminary planning which is available to counties at no cost to the county government.

It is expected that the board will arrange a meeting with representatives of the department of business development late this month or early in January to further discuss county planning, according to C. W. Rodekuhr, county auditor. Procedure would be similar to that employed by the Thief River Falls city council in establishing the city planning commission. Further information on the proposal will be provided at the meeting with state officials.

In other action Tuesday, the board was advised of a situation involving the county law library by attorney Robert Wurst. Located in the district court chambers of the courthouse, the library is inadequately financed and as a result has been maintained by out-of-pocket expense. The board resolved to correct this situation for the coming year.

Transfer of funds was also approved by the commissioners as a result of a change in the method of levying for school transportation. The method change was made by the 1965 session of the Minnesota legislature.

Santa Will Visit In City Saturday

Area youngsters are invited to meet Santa Claus at the Soo Line depot in Thief River Falls Saturday afternoon when a "Santa Claus Special" will arrive. The visit is sponsored by the Thief River Falls Chamber of Commerce.

Through arrangements made by the Chamber of Commerce with Vernon Erickson and John DeKay of the Soo Line, the "Santa Claus Special" train will arrive at the Soo Line depot on Third street at 2 p.m. Saturday. Santa will greet area youngsters and distribute sacks of candy in the depot immediately following his arrival.

Santa will remain at the depot until 4 p.m. to talk to his younger visitors and give out free candy to all youngsters through 12 years of age. For those children who will be unable to meet Santa Claus Saturday, he will make a return trip to the city the following Saturday, December 18, also arriving at the Soo Line depot.

Members of the local Chamber of Commerce, who have been acting as Santa's helpers by filling candy sacks in preparation for his arrival, expect about 1,200 youngsters to meet Santa Claus on his two visits to the city. All area children are invited.

National Guard Situation Told To Rotary Club

Situation regarding the Thief River Falls National Guard unit was outlined for members of the Thief River Falls Rotary club Monday noon by Capt. Richard Edlund, past unit commander, and Harvey Hanson, full-time civilian employee of the unit.

Capt. Edlund, who has been moved to battalion headquarters at Moorhead, has been succeeded in command locally by Capt. Charles Richards. Capt. Edlund noted that the strength of the local unit has been increased to 186 men with the addition of 44 men from the National Guard at Crookston.

The unit, as part of the selective reserve force, has been ordered to hold increased training exercises and accelerate its training program. The orders have come in lieu of mobilization, Capt. Edlund said, but Company B is on a seven-day alert basis.

"This means that we have to be ready," the former company commander said. "Our men have been requested to take care of their obligations, bring their wills up to date, complete physical examinations and be ready to leave in seven days if the call comes to mobilize. Unless the world situation becomes worse, or unless we do not demonstrate that we can accomplish the necessary training at home, we do not expect to be called. However, we must be ready in the defense department decides it needs us."

The captain also said the winter field training in Alaska has been canceled this year. The mission of the local unit has also been changed from cold weather to tropic-oriented training.

Cooperation of the public has been requested by the local unit, Capt. Edlund said, and is needed for successful operation of the training program. Extra drills will take people away from their jobs and families for extra hours each month. Much of the fate of the local unit is expected to be contingent on a battalion test in June, the Company B members are determined to be prepared and to do well in that test.

Goodridge Area Farmers Discuss Meeting Topics

Members of an agricultural committee composed of Goodridge area farmers and vocational agriculture instructors met Monday evening at Goodridge high school to review and propose topics for evening discussion classes. The classes will be held on Monday nights in the agriculture classroom of the school with the starting date to be announced later.

Committee members discussing topics Monday were farmers Merlin Drangstveit, Truman Hemmestvedt, Albert Kotrba, Harry Solberg and Robert Wiseth and vocational agriculture instructors Wallace Ehodean and Wallace Payne.

Subjects discussed were the new farm bill, changes in the social security law, farm credit, farm income tax, beef improvement program, feeder pig production, producing quality alfalfa, economics of silage and haylage production, corn silage, drainage, crop variety and quality, use of commercial fertilizer for small grain and forage production.

Agriculture instructors also urged dairymen in the area to attend the dairy seminar to start in Thief River Falls December 15. Information on the new farm bill will be presented at the Goodridge school as soon as it becomes available, Shodean and Payne said.

Fitzsimons Meets In St. Paul on Reapportionment

Unanimous decision to reactivate the House reapportionment committee was made at a meeting of the Minnesota House rules committee Friday in St. Paul. Attending the meeting was Rep. Richard Fitzsimons, Argyle, a member of the reapportionment committee.

The committee is composed of 21 members and was instructed to begin immediately to compile a report of criteria used by other states in the nation that have reapportioned their legislatures in the past six months. One of the major problems confronting the Minnesota legislature in its efforts to reapportion has been a lack of guidelines on ratios for new population variations among different districts, Rep. Fitzsimons said.

Since the federal supreme court ruled on the principle of one-man, one-vote, neither the federal court nor the state supreme court has given the legislature any guidelines to follow.

"In view of the fact that the Minnesota supreme court in a recent decision sustained the right of the governor to veto reapportionment legislation in Minnesota", Fitzsimons said, "the state of Minnesota at the present time does not have any legal legislative districts.

"The action of the rules committee in activating the House reapportionment committee was taken with the idea this would speed up the preliminary work necessary before a special session on reapportionment would be called. It will also lead to a much shorter session if and when the governor calls a special session," the legislator said.

Dr. Joseph Norquist

Dr. Norquist To Show Films Here Saturday Night

Dr. Joseph Norquist, former Thief River Falls physician who spent six years as a medical missionary in Tanganyika, Africa, will speak and show movies and slides Saturday at 8 p.m. in the Thief River Falls city auditorium. The public is invited to attend the program.

Dr. Norquist left Thief River Falls in 1958 for the mission field. He has completed his commitment at the 100-bed Kiomboi Lutheran hospital in Africa and is now practicing medicine in St. Paul.

Among the films to be shown Saturday will be pictures of new progress in Africa, public health work, a number of wildlife photos and a native Burabaig funeral dance and ceremony which is believed never to have been filmed before.

While in Thief River Falls, Norquist will speak Sunday at the 9 and 10:30 services of Redeemer Lutheran church. A pot-luck dinner in the church parlors will follow the second service, according to Rev. Dennis Rodin, host pastor.

Attorney General Rules on Liquor Sales for City

Minnesota Attorney General Robert Mattson has issued an opinion to a question from the city of Thief River Falls regarding the on sale of liquor under private licenses in the city. The opinion was given at the request of Robert Wurst, city attorney.

In noting that the city has operated an on and off sale municipal liquor store for approximately 20 years, Wurst asked, "Would it be permissable under the statutes for the city to cease operating the on sale department of the municipal liquor store and to issue private licenses for on sale while retaining the municipal off sale operation?"

Attorney General Mattson quoted Minnesota statutes which provide, "No retailer's 'on sale' or retailer's 'off sale' license shall be directly or indirectly issued with respect to any place in any municipality maintaining an exclusive liquor store, nor to any person or for any place for which a license of another class has been granted."

Giving reference to prior opinions on the same question, the attorney general said, "In accordance therewith, it would not be permissable for the city to issue private licenses while retaining the municipal 'off sale' operation.... Your question is therefore answered in the negative."

County Offices Not Ready For ASCS Signups

In response to a number of inquiries, Marcel Dahl, chairman of the Marshall County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation committee, said today that the ASCS county office is not ready at the present time to sign up participants in program authorized by recently-enacted farm legislation. Programs for which signups will be conducted—probably early in 1966—include feed grains, wheat and cropland adjustment.

"It is gratifying that farmers are showing so much interest in these diversion programs," the chairman said. "However, there are many details to be taken care of before field offices are in position to answer questions about how any of the pograms may apply to a specific farm and to accept applications showing the grower's intention to participate.

"When the signups do start, farmers will be reminded in plenty of time to file program applications before a stated deadline. Normally, such signups continue for about six weeks."

Legion Members Attend Minnesota Fall Conference

Three members of Eklund-Holmstrom Post 117 of the American Legion in Thief River Falls attended the fall conference held Friday and Saturday in Minneapolis. Attending were James Cuppet commander, Robert Reeve, adjutant; and M. R. Leverson, service officer.

Object of the conference was a school of instruction for officers and many speakers were present at the session. Chester Moeglein, state adjutant general, spoke on changes in the National Guard and Dr. R. J. Salk, Albany, reviewed the blood donation program and urged all members to join a blood bank.

Rehabilitation and child welfare are still among the first interests of the Legion and auxiliary, and were given heavy emphasis at the session.

Major Donald W. Gluck, officer of the Fifth Army at Chicago, Ill., presented a talk entitled "From One Who Was There." Now commander of the ROTC program at Loyola university, he had recently returned from a tour of duty in Viet Nam. He told of problems from disease and rats, restated the necessity for the United Stated to battle communists in the country and reviewed his assignment to advise how to build hospitals and schools, train the people for agriculture, nursing, preventive medicine and rodent control.

Harvey Taylor spoke on the U. S. O. and said that $2,159 has been received in a request for funds with response from 159 auxiliary units and 41 Legion posts. It is planned to build six U. S. O. units in Viet Nam by Christmas. They are surrounded by barbed wire and guarded by soldiers on their off-duty hours.

The Friday night banquet was held in honor of Carl Granning, retiring after 18 years as department adjutant, and Miss Lillian Miller, member of the department adjutant's staff. Granning will be succeeded January 1 by Frank Monsen, assistant adjutant. Dan Foley, former national commander, was master of ceremonies and Stafford King, state auditor and former department adjutant and commander, was the banquet speaker. A special guest was Mrs. Walter Glynn, Des Moines, Ia., national auxiliary resident.

Linda Stoops spoke on timely comforts provided by the American Legion and auxiliary for hospitalized veterans. The budget has increased from $52 when the program started in 1933 to $30,000 this year and covers patients in all states and federal hospitals and soldier's home in Minnesota.

The gift shop provided hospitalized veterans with two gifts for each member of their families to be given as if the veterans themselves had purchased them. Money provided to the gift shop is used to purchase these gifts at cost and can be used more efficiently than contributed gifts in themselves.

District Basketball Shakedown

Basketball ratings in District 31 have been in a state of flux since the jamboree held at East Grand Forks a couple of weeks ago. But the schedule in the next week or 10 days should do much to provide fans with an inkling as to the teams that can be rated as title favorites.

On Friday night the district's "big four" are in action, with the Warren Ponies playing the Prowlers here; and Crookston Central invading East Grand Forks for a game against Larry Selk's Green Wave.

Coach Irv St. John will bring a veteran Warren squad over here on Friday night, with Peter Gilbert being the club's sparkplug. Last year the Ponies won the Pine-to-Prairie conference title and according to coach St. John, the Ponies will have better all-round size than last season's club. If the Ponies get consistent scoring from Dave Knutson, their six-foot four-inch center, Warren will be a strong club.

In the Ponies recent win over the Climax Vikings, by four points, Knutson tallied 14 points. In addition to Gilbert and Knutson, other key performers on the Pony squad are Bruce Ranstrom, Leo Honas and Dick Engelstad.

The Ponies haven't defeated the Prowlers in basketball since early in the 1961 season when Warren, by a 54 to 48 score, defeated coach Jack Junker's squad. Later that season the Prowlers, co-captained by Wayne Bjerken and Gary Kelly, defeated the Ponies, 67 to 60, at Warren.

Since that time the Prowlers have recorded six consecutive wins over the Ponies, but this winning streak will be in jeopardy on Friday night.

An over in East Grand Forks Central gymnasium on Friday night coach Craig Johnson's Crookston Central Pirates, on the impetus of their overtime win over the Bemidji Lumberjacks, will attempt to side-track the Green Wave. Coach Selk's East Side squad, since its upset loss to Red Lake Falls in a jamboree segment, has been playing good basketball. The Green Wave has registered wins over the Fertile Falcons and the Fosston Greyhounds of District 30. The Green Wave should enter Friday night's game a slight favorite, and only because of the home floor advantage.

And in spite of the fact that coach Bun Fortier's Bemidji Lumberjacks have lost a pair of games, to Moorhead and Crookston, the defending Region Eight champions must be rated highly, perhaps number one, in regional play. The Ada Vikings are entitled to be ranked as the runner-up.

Regional Wrestling

I received a publicity release from Al Shaff, former Prowler wrestling coach who is now on the staff of Cooper high school in New Hope, Minnesota, and as member of the state wrestling coaches association he forwards the state ratings.

Albert Lea, Coon Rapids and Robbinsdale are rated as the state's top wrestling powers. But giving these three squads strong competition are such teams as Hopkins, Fridley, Grand Rapids and St. James.

Says Shaff, with regard to Region Eight: "A real dogfight shapes up in Region Eight with Park Rapids as the favorite and Bemidji and Thief River Falls pushing. The situation with districts could change the outlook in this region drastically."

And Al is right when he names the Park Rapids Panthers as the regional favorite. The Panthers have such veteran wrestlers as Jim Carey, Charles Bishop, Dennis Cheney, Charle Pike and Barry Blanchard returning for this season's wrestling. Carey and Bishop are co-captains. Carey won the Region Eight title in the 145-pound class last year, and Cheney and Pike were runners-up in regional 138-pound and 165-pound, respectively. And Bishop, at 154 pounds, and Blanchard, at 112 pounds, were Mid-State conference champions in their respective classes.

Incidentally, the Park Rapids A and B squads will meet the Prowlers here on Friday night, January 14.

It's Doubtful

Unless there is a drastic drop in the temperature tonight (Wednesday) or Thursday, it's doubtful if the ice sheet in the arena rink here will permit the Red River Mixers of Grand Forks to play the Warroad Lakers in a Manitoba senior hockey league game on Thursday night. The game, which is listed as a "home" game for the Mixers, is slated for 8:30 p.m.

But the ice-makers at the arena said that the ice sheet would not stand up under the strong skating of a senior hockey game. The lines have been put in, but it has been impossible to put enough "floods" on the ice to build up the ice sheet.

Cal Marvin, who is the general manager of the Lakers, called in and said that the Lakers would be on hand if the ice was available. And he added that the Laker roster would find Julian Klymkiew in goal; Keith Brandt, Dayton Grafstrom Tom Marshall and Jerry Swenson as defensemen; and Billy Christian centering for Roger Christian and Bruce Gillie, and Murray Balagus centering for wings Reg Morelli and Sam Grafstrom. John Hopkins, coach of the Warroad high school Warriors, and who was doing his practice teaching at Lincoln high school last year, is also on the Laker roster.

But as of Tuesday evening the arena ice wasn't available for hockey.

Lumber Mill at Red Lake Burned

Believed to be caused by sparks from a waste burner, fire destroyed the new lumber mill on the Red Lake Indian reservation last Friday. The loss was estimated at $300,000 with most of that amount covered by insurance.

Dedicated only a couple of years ago, the new mill had increased production of the lumbering operation on the reservation to a large extent. Plans are being made to rebuild the mill, according to officers of the tribal council.

Student Union at BSC Is Approved By College Board

Minnesota's State College board, at its meeting in St. Paul Saturday, gave the green light to the construction of a student union building on the Bemidji state college campus.

The board increased the BSC student union budget by $272,895, giving the college a total of $861,494 for construction. The building is financed by a $5 per term fee paid by the students. It is planned in two phases, and according to Dr. Harry F. Bangsberg, BSC president, Saturday's board action should allow construction of both phases.

The first phase of the construction will include a dining area seating 430 people. This area is so devised that it can be used for special events such as cabarets and banquets. This phase will also house recreational areas for table tennis and billiards, a main lounge, two television lounges, a student organization room, a student senate office and a social board office plus a conference room.

The second phase of construction will include a multi-purpose room to be used as a ball-room or for a small theatre. It contains a "quiet" lounge for studying, music listening lounges, bowling lanes, card room and office space for student organizations.

The building will be located on the lakeshore between Sattgast and Bridgeman halls overlooking the Minnesota Viking practice field.

Newfolden Cage Team Beaten in Two Encounters

Newfolden Nordics basketball team will entertain the Warren Warriors cagers in a conference game at Newfolden on Friday night. The Nordics will be looking for their first win of the season after absorbing a pair of losses.

In their season's opener at Karlstad, Newfolden dropped a 52 to 18 decision to the Rabbits. And last Saturday night, playing at Roseau, the Nordics were beaten by the district champion Rams, 51 to 50.

Against the Rams, the Nordics held the point advantage at the period stops, being ahead, 17 to 23 in the first period, 32-31 at the intermission, and 46 to 41 entering the fourth period. The Rams put on a 10-point burst while holding the Nordics to but four points in the fourth period to gain the win. John Rokke and Leon Elseth tallied 15 points apiece for the Nordics. The Rams' Dave Nelson scored 21 points to take the game's high-point honors.

In a basketball jamboree encounter at Argyle last week, the Nordics, by a 28 to 23 score, defeated the Kennedy Rockets in a two-period tilt. The Nordics held a 15 to 9 lead at the end of the first period of play. Elseth's 16-point effort placed the Nordic scoring.

Medical Doctors Now Covered by Social Security

Self-employment income of a medical doctor is covered by social security under the 1965 amendments to the Social Security act, advises Clifford Kittelson, district manager for social security.

A doctor's self-employment income is covered for taxable years ending on or after Dec. 31, 1965. This means that a medical doctor who files income tax returns on a calendar-year basis will be reporting self-employment tax on his 1965 income. The self-employment tax rate for 1965 is 5.4 per cent.

$4800 is the maximum in 1965 on which social security tax is payable. If a doctor has wages covered by social security of $4,800 or more in 1965, he will pay no self-employment tax. If he has covered wages of less than $4,800, he pays self-employment tax on the difference between $4,800 and his covered wages.

Some Changes Made in Fishing Regulations

There will be some changes in Minnesota fishing regulations next year, it was revealed today by the conservation department. The department's announcement said the synopsis of the 1966 fishing regulations would be available from most license agents shortly before Christmas.

The so-called aggregate bag limit" has been eliminated so that the daily bag limit of each species will also be the possession limit. The species, opening dates and bag limits respectively for inland waters are as follows:

Northern Pike, May 14, three; Walleye and Sauger (either or both in aggregate) May 14, six; Muskellung, May 14, one; Largemouth and Smallmouth, Black Bass (either or both in aggregate) north and east of U.S. Highway 53 and in Ash and Pelican lake, St. Louis county, May 14, Balance of the state, May 28, six, Trout (including Splake but not lake trout), April 30, 10 (only three may be 16 inches or over);

Lake Trout, Jan. 1, three; Pink (Humpback) Salmon, April 30, three Kokanee Salmon, April 30, 10; Crappies, continuous, 15; Sunfish or Bluegills, continuous, 30; Rock Bass, continuous 30; White Bass, continuous, 30; Catfish, continuous, five; Bullheads, continuous, 100; White fish, continuous, 100; Rough Fish (Carp, Dogfish, Redhorse, Sheepshead, Suckers, Burbot, Gar, Perch, Tullibees, Goldeyes, Buffalofish and turtles), continuous, no limits.

The early trout season on portions of all North Shore streams, regardless of natural barriers, will open April 2. All streams are being posted with new signs to establish the up-stream boundary for the early trout fishing season.

Purpose of the regulations limiting the number of trout of 16 inches or more which can be included in the limit is to distribute the available large trout among more anglers.

Beginning January 1, the only non-resident fishing license will be the individual license; the husband-and-wife combination non-resident license has been dropped.

However, said the Department, a new non-resident two-day angling license will be available at a fee of $3.

All of the changes in the regulations and the licenses were authorized by the 1965 legislature.

Indians Permit Winter Fishing

Permits for darkhouse fishing on the Red Lake river and inland lakes on the Red Lake Indian reservation are now available at the tribal council office at Redlake, according to Dan Needham, treasurer of the council.

Cost of the permit is $5 for the season. The reservation has many inland lakes which offer excellent fishing but have very little fishing pressure, Needham said.

L. J. Lee of Bagley was elected district vice chairman. Lee spoke on reapportionment of the Minnesota legislature and urged party support of Gov. Karl Rolvaag in his position on the question.

Pennington county was cited as one of six counties in the district to have reached its quota in the fall finance campaign. The six counties were listed by Robert Irvine, district finance chairman.

Speakers at the meeting were George Farr, state DFL chairman, who spoke on party unity, and Sen. Walter Mondale, who discussed action of the last session of Congress and effect of the Economic Opportunity act.

Mixer-Warroad Game Canceled

The contest, scheduled as a league home game for the Mixers, will be played on the local ice at a date to be announced later.

U of M Operating Cost Totals $125,778,748

Operating costs of the University of Minnesota for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1965, totaled $125,778,748.70 for all campuses and stations, according to a summary of financial operations released recently by L. R. Lunde, business vice president. Of this total, the state of Minnesota provided 31 per cent.

In addition to its operating expenses, the university paid out $11,003,912.66 for the construction and remodeling of buildings and the purchase of land. In the 12-month period to meet construction costs, the sum of $3,474,730.26 was withdrawn from funds appropriated by the state legislature for that purpose.

Largest operating outlay, Lunden reported, was the $33,577,029.57 spent for the instruction of students at collegiate level and for departmental research on all campuses. An additional $17,020,858.95 was expended for organized activities relating to instructional departments such as university hospitals and libraries.

Budgeted and sponsored research expenditures amounted to $28,027,679.48. The cost of extension and public service activities such as the general extension division, agricultural extension and the Minnesota Museum of Natural History totaled $10,049,367.57.

The university's over-all operating costs were $125,778,748.70 while transfers, increases in obligations and other adjustments added $3,202,125.37 for a total of $128,980,874.07, Vice President Lunden pointed out. Of this total, the State of Minnesota provided $40,572,903.12 or 31 per cent. State support funds consisted of the Legislative maintenance appropriation of $33,364,149.00, a special appropriation of $4,633,894.03 ($2,406,691.91 of which was charged to the counties) for the care of indigent patients at university hospitals and a legislative allotment of $4,981,552 for special projects carried on by the university for the general benefit of Minnesota's citizens.

These "special projects" include agricultural extension work and research, business and economic research, medical research, operation of the Minnesota rehabilitation center, the child psychiatric hospital, the multiple sclerosis clinic, the institute of child development, the schools of agriculture student aid fund and several others.

Sources of the university's operating income other than the state, the report indicates, are: appropriations from the federal government, $3,502,548.65; student tuition and fees, $12,727,274.12; self-supporting auxiliary enterprises, $19,470,448.11; trust funds, $30,948,557.87, of which $22,688,141.84 represents federal contracts and grants; and intercollegiate athletics, $1,496,963.54.

Income from intercollegiate athletics included $1,394,017.51 from the Minneapolis campus, $87,173.98 from the Duluth campus and $15,772.05 from the Morris campus. Expenditure for the operation of intercollegiate athletics and that part of physical education expenses paid from athletic receipts totaled $1,639,502.25 for the fiscal year 1964-65. Involved was an outlay of $1,531,817.34 in Minneapolis, $90,456.64 in Duluth and $17,228.27 in Morris.

Other highlights of the report released by Lunden are as follows:

Over-all total current fund receipts of the university for the fiscal year amounted to $128,980,874.07. The free unencumbered balance as of June 30 was $2,741.20.

Expenditures for building and remodeling and land purchases, totaling $11,003,912.66, were distributed as follows: Minneapolis campus, $7,537,715.92; St. Paul campus, $845,448.77; Duluth campus, $1,897,483.09; Morris campus and station, $279,183.61; outlying schools and stations and off-campus plant, $444,081.27.

At the close of the fiscal year, the university total endowment fund, including the permanent university fund—which amounted to $46,798,977.92—totaled $70,759,766.50.

University-owned land as of June 30, 1965, consisted of 17,493.40 acres which cost $12,510,022.00, while the university's 919 buildings had a book value of $143,890,110.55, representing original cost. University equipment was valued at $63,853,435.91 and included $358,268.39 in livestock and $13,480,252.11 in books and museum collections.

Will Distribute Fact Sheet on Reseal Program

To clear up any possible misunderstanding, a fact sheet about the commodity reseal program will soon be mailed to all producers who have reseal loans, according to Marcel Dahl, chairman of the Marshall County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation committee. Several program changes have been made this year, and these especially are being brought to the attention of farmers.

The chairman stressed the fact that grain may not be removed from a sealed bin unless the farmer has delivery instructions or prior approval from the county ASCS office.

Grain under a reseal loan may be redeemed at any time by paying the principal amount of the loan plus interest. The storage payment to the producer will be based on the quantity released and the length of time it was stored. While the total quantity eligible for storage payment from a bin will normally be limited to the quantity measured or estimated, there are two exceptions to this rule:

1. If the farmer furnishes satisfactory evidence that a greater quantity measured or estimated, was actually removed from the reseal bin, the storage payment will be based on such greater quantity.

2. When there is evidence that the quantity removed is less than the measured quantity or estimate, the storage payments will be based on such quantity. If the grain is continued under reseal, the annual storage payment will be made after the end of the storage period (a storage period is the 12 months immediately following the original loan maturity date or the anniversary of such date.)

This payment will be based on the actual loan quantity, not necessarily the estimated or measured quantity. A final adjustment of the storage payment will be made when all the grain in a bin is completely redeemed or delivered.

Reseal loans may be called at any time at the option of the Commodity Credit corporation, and normally CCC elects to call in some of the older crops at the end of each storage period. Resealed grain which is not delivered will automatically be continued under reseal if the county committee is satisfied that it is safe to store for another year.

Producers who still have questions about the reseal loan program after receipt of the fact sheets are encouraged to get in touch with the County ASCS office for further details.

Land Lease Holds Key to Starting In Farm Business

Many young farmers have leased or rented land, equipment, buildings and livestock using their cash or credit for operating expenses. Renting has enabled some to quickly become competitive commercial farmers. This was the consensus of opinion among a number of young farmers interviewed by Farm Quarterly editors this past year.

Young growing farmers find dollars are worth more invested in the better productive assets such as field equipment, cows and other production items. They let those who can afford ownership keep the land and use leasing to tie it up for profitable farming.

Some farmers get into trouble by spending all their money on land and buildings and obligating all of the capital they can realistically hope to generate to the payment of interest and principal. They have no capital for expansion, or for replacing equipment which can become outdated quicker than expected.

One farmer was able to rent land only from year to year. Although this short term was not the total answer, he rented the land for four to six per cent of land cost. It proved profitable with field crops such as wheat, oats, flax and corn.

When a farmer gets further along, he can get into the consolidation stage by beginning to buy land. In addition, he may be able to take advantage of the inherent advantages of leasing with options to buy with a set price in the future. As leased land proves profitable, he can set aside its earnings to make the purchase at his option. Once he has acquired the land, if it has appreciated above the option price, and it usually does, his ability to borrow is tremendously enhanced.

It's a two-edged proposition that landowners are reluctant to sell and that would-be operators are limited to the amount of capital which they can apply to farming. And the situation is not likely to change its direction; indeed, the trend may well continue to such an extent that the line between investor and operator becomes more distinct and many farm operators will lease now for profits and buy later for investments.

Permit Farmers To Spread Farm Program Payments

During December, farmers who face the prospect of having to pay federal income tax on two years' farm program payments in a single year can get help from the Internal Revenue service. If farmers apply right now, they can get permission to spread one payment over a 10-year period."

The above information comes from Hyrom (Jack) Sorenson, Production Credit association manager in Thief River Falls.

"This recent ruling was made under Revenue Procedure 64-16 and farmers should write directly to the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, T.I.C., Washington, D.C., and request permission based on Technical Information Release No. 762," Sorenson said.

Sorenson indicated that investigations showed IRS has ruled that farmers who wait until 1966 before applying for their final 1965 wheat diversion or feed grain payments must still count such payments as 1965 income.

'We are relaying this information to all PCA members since the year is almost ended and fast action may save farmers considerable money". Sorenson said.

Dr. Jack Booren Named to Denver YMCA Position

Dr. Jack C. Booren, son of Mrs. G. W. Booren and brother of Charles Booren of Thief River Falls, was named the first chief of the Sioux Tribe of the YMCA's father-son Indian guide program recently in southeast Denver, Colo.

Dr. Booren, who received his medical degree from the University of Minnesota, has lived in Denver since 1951. He became interested in the YMCA and directed the Schlessman "Y" membership drives in 1960, 1961 and 1962. Since then he has served as co-chairman of the Metro Denver YMCA drives.

Remind Nurses To Get Licenses

Minnesota registered nurses and licensed practical nurses who are currently renewed for 1965 and who intend to practice in Minnesota next year are reminded to renew their licenses prior to Jan. 1, 1966, if they have not already done so.

The 1966 renewal fee of $2 and the renewal application are to be returned promptly to the Minnesota Board of Nursing, 530 Minnesota Building, St. Paul 55101, so as to assure receipt of the 1966 renewal certificate by January 1.

Applications postmarked after Dec. 31, 1965, must be accompanied by an additional dollar penalty fee. Requests for placement in the nonpracticing status may be made instead of renewal request by those who do not intend to practice in Minnesota for any time in 1966.

State Specialist Lists Best Buys During December

Look for specials on beef—particularly chuck roasts and hamburger—if you want to take advantage of good buys in meat this week. Poultry is another good buy in the meat department, according to Mary Ryan, extension consumer marketing specialist at the University of Minnesota.

An abundant supply of chicken will provide good eating at low cost during all of December, since broiler-fryer marketings are expected to be 10 percent greater than they were a year ago. The ample stocks of turkey left after Thanksgiving will provide festive fare for the Christmas holidays as well as at other times during the month.

Apples, oranges and orange products will be the best values in the fruit category during December. Since the 1965 apple crop is larger than the average of the past five years, prices are particularly attractive this year, Miss Ryan says. With stocks of frozen orange concentrate 50 per cent greater than a year ago, specials on frozen orange juice should continue to be more frequent.

Abundant fruits this week, besides apples and oranges, are bananas, red Emperor and green Almeria grapes, grapefruit and tangelos.

In the fresh vegetable section look for values on carrots, dry onions, radishes, potatoes and cabbage. The big crops of onions and cabbage should make these two items among the best vegetable buys in December.

Shelled and in-the-shell nuts are also priceworthy this year, Miss Ryan says. A bumper crop of pecans is arriving at food stores in time for holiday baking, and peanuts will continue to be plentiful for holiday confections.

Consumers who buy mixed nuts in the shell can be assured of getting a mixture of at least 10 per cent but not more than 40 per cent of almonds, pecans, filberts, Brazil nuts and walnuts if the bag is marked U.S. Fancy or Extra Fancy. These are new U. S. Department of Agriculture grade standards, Miss Ryan reports.

Nominations for Handicapped Are Sought by MiSSCA

Nominations for successfully employed physically handicapped adults for the Rose and Jay Phillips Awards will be accepted until December 31 by the Minnesota Society for Crippled Children and Adults (MiSSCA).

Five awards, consisting of a citation and $200 each, will be presented at the annual meeting of the Minnesota Society on Feb. 16, 1966. Art Heinze, occupational therapist at Northwestern hospital in Thief River Falls, was an award winner last year.

The awards were established by Phillips to give recognition to severely disabled employees who are leading independent, productive lives by overcoming their handicaps.

In addition, individuals nominated for the award must have been satisfactorily employed for the last three years. Contributions to community leadership will also be taken into consideration in the final selection.

Nominating blanks have been sent to various state agencies dealing with the handicapped. Anyone not related to a handicapped individual may nominate him for an award. Information may be obtained from MiSSCA, 2001 Lyndale Avenue South, Minneapolis 55403.

"There are no new ideas in education. The last and final one was thought of by James I, who shut up a boy from the age of one in a cellar to see if he would talk Hebrew when he let him out ten years later. Modern educational theories are no more than timorous adaptions of the same bold idea. The most advanced teacher of the most advanced school believes nothing more profound than that the best way of teaching a boy is to leave him to his own devices."

—Aubrey Menen

It's Light-up Time

Although it's hard to believe, Christmas is only a little over two weeks away. Festive lighting in the downtown area has been erected by city crews, stores have begun their Christmas opening schedule for evening shopping convenience and area residents are taking their card and gift lists out of mothballs once again.

Each year the residential area of the city blossoms out in festive finery as lights and scenes appear on homes and lawns. Few are the residents of the area who do not make at least one trip around town to view the lights and exclaim over the color and ingenuity.

This year the Thief River Falls Jaycees, under a project directed by Art Heinze, have arranged a Christmas lighting contest for the Thief River Falls residential area. The chapter hopes this will stimulate the practice of home holiday lighting and will also provide recognition to those who have achieved particular excellence in several contest divisions.

In order to be included in the judging, however, residents must notify the Jaycees that they would like their homes to be judged. Contest divisions include the best religious, best non-religious and most original. Entries containing the name of the entrant, address of the home to be judged and the division in which entry is to be made should be sent to Christmas Lighting Contest, P.O. Box 53, Thief River Falls.

We are sure the Jaycees would appreciate having a large number of entries in the contest. Plaques will be awarded to the first place winners in each of the three divisions and a number of runners-up will be given honorable mention. Deadline for entries is December 17.

A Bruised Cheek

The United States has taken a severe kicking in its foreign policy, not only from critics in the nation but from other nations in the world, many of which have received help from our country. In seeking to overcome criticism with kindness, the state department has been made to look like a den of fools. We must agree with the following comments from the Waseca Herald:

"The United States has rejected the request of Ghana for $100 million worth of surplus food. Asked whether President Kwame Nkrumah's book attacking the United States had any bearing on the denial of food aid, State Department Press Officer Robert J. McCloskey replied, 'No Comment.'

"Why give others the idea that they can go on tearing down this nation by such a reply? McCloskey should have replied, 'Certainly it has bearing.'

"Nkrumah's book said that the United States is the No. 1 representative of neo-colonist, imperialist powers. He describes the Peace Corps as a tool of imperialism, and the U. S. Information Agency as a vehicle for American "psychological warfare." He is also critical of the U. S. Agency for International Development (AID) and the World Bank—two agencies that have contributed heavily to Ghana's economic development in recent years.

"This is gratitude to this nation for the part it has played in building the Volta River Dam which Ghana is to dedicate in January. Ghana has received more than $166 million from the U. S. thus far and $47 million from the World Bank.

"We have turned the other cheek so often that U. S. thinking has become as lopsided as our cheek. Looks now like we have straightened out our thinking. Our cheek may also improve."

The Big Question

It will be a long time, if ever, before controversy over the deeds of the 89th Congress ends! And it will be a long time before the full effect, for good or ill, of the mass of unique legislation it passed is fully felt and understood.

But one thing is certain—the 89th has been a spender with a capital S. Time magazine reports succinctly: "In all, the 89th spent $119.8 billion—a total unprecedented in peace time and one that will require decades to pay off; interest on this year's national debt alone came to $11 billion."

It now remains to be seen what spending on this staggering scale will do to the dollar's worth. Federal deficits, as painful past experience tells us, are breeders of inflation. And, ironically, inflation is the worst enemy of the people of small means whom much of the new legislation is supposed to help.

If the government cannot come near to balancing its budget in boom times, when tax revenues are at enormous levels, when can it? The dollar's value has been degraded by about half in the postwar years. What will be left of it a few years from now? No more important question than that confronts the American people.

Selective Selling

When government moves in, the rights of private citizens are frequently moved out. Take, for instance, a situation down in the Tennessee Valley Authority area.

TVA is building a community at the site of a new dam. When the work is finished, there will be some land left over, it having been used for access roads and other purposes during the construction stage. Previously, this surplus land has been auctioned to the highest bidder.

But, apparently, that isn't going to happen this time. It has been announced that the government will hold the land and sell it only to buyers of its own selection. That caused the Richmond, Va., "News Leader" to say: "In other words, the federal government will decide who will and will not do business in the new community. . .The government's reasoning? In the past, it didn't like the use certain land was put to by its private owners.

"Now, quite obviously, it intends to dictate terms to those whom it selects as buyers. TVA spokesmen speak of improving the economy, achieving regional goals, producing more jobs as the motivation for their federal community. Their logic overlooks the existence of a free competitive economy and also the right of property owners to do as they please with their property. Such is not the concern of TVA or its parent, the federal government. Down in the valley, like Topsy, they jes' grow—and grow and grow."

Another Side

The following editorial appeared in a recent issue of the Truman Tribune:

"With Gov. Rolvaag and the rest of the metropolitan minded politicians pushing hard for reapportionment of our state on a one-man, one-vote, damn-the old-philosophy - of - no - taxation - without - representation, it is interesting to read what Congressman Gross of Iowa has to say about this new governmental concept born of the Great Society:

"RIDICULOUS SITUATION. There is a lot of talk about the need for reapportionment of state legislatures in line with the Supreme Court's "one man, one vote" decisions, but isn't it strange that we hear nothing from those who applaud the decisions about the voting power enjoyed by small countries in the United Nations?

"Today, delegates representing 10 per cent of the total population of U. N. members, and only five per cent of contributions to the organization's budget, can form a two-thirds voting bloc in the General Assembly.

"Just how ridiculous the situation is, was illustrated when three new members were admitted to the U.N. this year with total population of only one per cent of that of the United States.

"First, there is Gambia, population 316,000. The second new member is Singapore, population 1,800,000. And then we have that "powerful" nation known as the Maldive Islands, with a population of 100,000 natives who live on 200 islands in the middle of the Indian Ocean.

"Other newly independent nations with a vote carrying exactly the same weight as that of the U.S. (pop: 190 million) include Gabon (pop: 450,000), Kuwait (pop:322,000), Mauritania (pop: 850,000), and Togo (pop: 1,559,000).

"By joining with other African and Asian countries and the Soviet Union, these small nations have the power at any time to run roughshod over the United States in the U.N.

"With these odds against us, by what logic is it argued that the U.N. is of vital importance to U.S. foreign policy? And why no squawk about voting odds in the U.N. from the Supreme Court's Chief Justice Warren, the virtuous advocate of "one man, one vote" legislative apportionment?"

Stretching the Dollar

Whenever the federal government views improvement projects, the costs generally run into the millions of dollars. There is room for question as to whether or not dollar value is received for many of these expenditures. Perhaps some of the 4-H clubs in the state could give the federal planners some advice.

We read recently where several 4-H clubs in the state were given "citizenship in action" grants for community projects. Comparing the amounts given with the work to be done would make a federal efficiency expert blush in disbelief.

For instance, the Normanna 4-H club at Duluth was given $231 to develop a nature trail and wild flower sanctuary on a wooded area bordering the town hall. Included in the plans were the building of benches, picnic tables, fireplaces and a footbridge. If this were a federal project, that amount would be expended in postage and telephone calls just to get the funds processed.

The Watab 4-H club near Rice in Benton county received $185 to make a public wayside tourist rest area and public access to Little Rock Lake. The plans include a safe swimming area, swings and fireplaces. This also appears to be a dollar-stretching project.

When it comes to ingenuity and effort, it is pretty hard to beat an eager 4-H club. Under the direction of community-minded leaders, these youngsters take the task of citizenship seriously. They can accomplish in spare time what a federally-paid job corps might consider a full-time project. Their efforts should be recognized and encouragement given whenever possible.

Beef Production From Bulls Gains More Acceptance

Bull beef is no baloney. It looks good; it eats good; it is as tender as steer beef and the cutability of young bull carcasses is at least equal, if not superior, to steer carcasses. Besides this, bulls are more efficient converters of feed than are steers, according to an article in The Farm Quarterly magazine.

Much of this has been known since the early 1950's as a result of experiment station research. It remained for a commercial operation to prove the practicability of these findings on a large scale. A feedlot on the West Coast has fed out more than 600 bulls in a series feedlot on the West Coast has fed out more than 600 bulls in a series of tests started in 1962.

In a test during 1964 of a group of 172 head of cattle (86 bulls and 86 steers) of similar genetic background the bulls were worth $3.59 more per head than the steers at warning (largely because of their extra weight). They finished to a high Good, low Choice grade on $5.26 less feed per head; and they cut out $26.44 more per carcass on a retail basis.

Bulls feeding has its problems, though. One involves getting the bulls onto full feed at an early age, yet having them old enough to finish and grade well at slaughter. (The term "grade" is more or less academic as there are no official government grades for bull carcasses). Fourteen months and about 1,000 pounds is the maximum weight for quality bull meat.

Implanting suckling bull calves with stilbestrol seemed to keep them from riding. When the young bulls went on feed they were again implanted." These implanted bulls developed similar to the steers. Groups of bulls cannot be mixed; once they are put together no strangers should be introduced into the pen.

Marbling is one category in which the finished bull carcasses seem to run consistently behind the steers. This has prevented the bulls from grading as high as the steers. Dark-cutting meat is another factor in which the bulls seem to be at a disadvantage. Some of this has been attributed to holding the cattle in strange quarters for an unduly long time after leaving the feedlot.

While bull feeding looks good, marketing is still a serious obstacle. One feeder feels that "when this country gets to the point where we must have more efficiency in beef production we'll feed a high percentage of bulls". Until then, feeders, packers and retailers have some homework to do to solve the production and marketing problems and to convince the consumer of the quality of the meet.

Area Has Opportunities For Many Young People

(Editor's Note: The following is the first in a series of two articles concerning statistics of comparative interest in the Upper Midwest. The figures are taken from a current economic progress report of the Upper Midwest Research and Development council.)

The Upper Midwest, comprised of the states in the Ninth Federal Reserve Bank district, is not enjoying a fast enough economic growth to provide adequate competitive opportunities for its young people, but the opportunities for growth are there if taken advantage of.

This is the gist of a current economic progress report for the Upper Midwest written by Charles A. Stoerzinger. It was prepared by the North Star Research and Development Institute for the Upper Midwest Research and Development Council. The book is a study of a variety of economic factors in the area from 1960 through 1964.

The report, J. Cameron Thomson, president of the council said, confirms the basic factors of slow growth rate in the area. These include the extent to which resources are devoted to uneconomic agricultural units and the proportion of slow-growth industries.

He points up also the need for better education for younge people, particularly in technology and the sciences, and indicates that more attention must be given to service industries and undeveloped natural resources if full advantage is to be taken of human and natural resources.

"Our own self-interest," Thomson said, "requires that we reduce the continuing out-migration from the area by providing more and better jobs."

There is need, he added to increase the economic efficiency of farms, to apply urban planning and renewal in communities which have sound growth potential, to take advantage of undeveloped recreational opportunities, to make fuller use of research facilities.

Primarily, state budgets and tax practices must be examined to insure that they are sound and provide an atmosphere in which industry can thrive and remain competitive. There is need to develop industrial employment, recognizing that at least 75 per cent of it must come from within the area and not by imporation. Markets for our products and services outside the area must be developed.

The whole, Mr. Thomson said, calls for the cooperation of leaders in education, business, agriculture, government and labor to create a program which will stimulate the district to strive toward its potential.

The report follows up an earlier Upper Midwest study which was a painstaking analysis of the economy of the area. This former report made a series of neutral projections on population, employment and income through 1975. The projections were based upon the position of the economy in 1960, historical trends up to that time, foreseeable changes, national projections and the assumption that no new actions would be undertaken to stimulate economic growth.

The Upper Midwest council, jointly with the University of Minnesota, is ending a five-year program of research into reasons for the comparative lack of economic growth in this section of the nation. Steps are being taken now for an Action Program which will attempt to build for the future on the basis of data which has been developed, Mr. Thomson said.

Population for the Upper Midwest as a whole exceeded the projection of 177,000 between 1960 and the end of 1964 by 15,000. Minnesota's growth was 40,000 off from a projection of 147,000. The Dakotas and Montana exceeded the projection while Northwestern Wisconsin and Upper Michigan were about on schedule. Minnesota's outmigration through 1963 was about three times the projected rate. Montana's was about even while the Dakotas experienced less than the projection.

The region was behind national figures in personal income. Minnesota came closer with an average annual growth of three per cent compared with the national average 3.5 per cent. Montana's growth was 2.7 per cent, North Dakota's 2.7 per cent and South Dakota's minus 0.3 per cent.

In all four whole states (no figures for the part states of Wisconsin and Michigan), slumps in farming income in 1963-64 were responsible for the drop in total personal income below the national average. Growth in non-farm income was closer, even exceeding the national average in North Dakota. All states showed increases in income from government employment at about the national average or above.

In per capita income, North Dakota and Minnesota grew at the national average of nine per cent during the four-year period. Montana's rate was two per cent and South Dakota experienced a decrease of six per cent. Two factors accounted for South Dakota's loss: decreases in income from farming and from contract construction. North Dakota, on the other hand, kept pace with the nation's growth rate by reason of a 20 per cent increase in income from construction.

Employment in the Dakotas for 1961 was two to three per cent more than projected; in Minnesota and Montana, about two per cent less. The total 1964 nonfarm employment in the four states was 1,477,800 as against a projection of 1,493,000. Farm Employment for the four states was 453,000 in 1964 as against a projection of 450,000. In the Dakotas, transfer of workers from farm to industry was ahead of projections. In Minnesota, it was behind and in Montana about the same.

The less - than - projected rate for Minnesota, the report said, suggests a degree of underemployment in agriculture and probably contributes to pressures causing the state's high rate of out-migration.

Against a national average of 9.6 per cent, Mintana in 1964 had 20.9 per cent of its labor force in agricultural employment, North Dakota 36.8 per cent, Minnesota 34.6 per cent and South Dakota 34.6 per cent.

All states except Upper Michigan had general unemployment rates below the national average in 1964. Upper Michigan's rate was approximately double the national rate.

It snowed yesterday and when it stopped, I walked along the creek in a world of frosty splendor. The woods were hushed in majestic stillness, and I tread softly. A jay screeched overhead, and bending trees shivered stealthily, with squeaking, ice-coated branches. The falls at the curve of the creek stood immobilized with hoarfrost and icicles, but bending near I heard soft and surely the murmur of the moving creek beneath the icebound surface.

It came to me, how like that creek, my faith has been. At times this faith has been covered by rimes of doubt and selfishness. Often it has been embittered by anguish and despair. But always under that glacial exterior there coursed a stream of consciousness that knew no turning from God—and the things I had been taught from childhood.

How glad I am my parents took me to church and brought me up with such a sure knowledge of God's love that it sustained me even when I tried to turn from His ways.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL
ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Income Tax Questions Are Answered by IRS

The following questions most frequently asked by taxpayers on federal income tax matters with authoritative answers are provided by the office of the district director of Internal Revenue, St. Paul.

Q—I just started doing some traveling for my company. My firm reimburses me for what I spend. Do I have to report this reimbursement?

A—If you are required to account to your company for your expenses and the eimbursement received does not exceed expenses, you are not required to report the reimbursement in your return. If reimbursement exceeds your expenses, however, you must report the excess as income.

Q—I owe some taxes for last year. When I was called into your office about this, they said they would attach my salary unless I agreed to settle up. Could you really attach my salary?

A—Under the law, IRS may attach salaries and other property when it is necesary to protect the revenue. These measures are taken only when a taxpayer refuses or neglects to satisfy a tax liability.

Q—Can you tell me what a wash sale is? I've seen this term used frequently in connection with taxes.

A—A wash sale usually refers to the sale of financial securities such as stocks and bonds.

A wash sale occurs when you sell some stock and within 30 days before or after the sale buy that stock, or substantially identical stock. It is also a wash sale if the purchase was made by your wife or a corporation you control.

The tax significance of a wash sale is that any losses involved are not tax deductible but are added to the basis of the newly acquired stock. You cannot sell a stock to take a loss on your tax return and buy substantially the same stock within 30 days. Gains from a wash sale are taxable income.

Q—I inherited a small house and a little money from my uncle. Will I have to pay federal income tax on this?

A—No, inheritances are not taxable for federal income tax purposes. If your uncle's estate was over $60,000, however, there could have been a federal estate tax due on it. You might be liable for a part of that tax if it is not paid. Also, you should keep a record of the appraised value of the house when you received it. Then you will have a basis to figure your gain or loss when you sell or otherwise dispose of the property or for depreciation purposes if you should rent it.

Q—When will the new tax forms be ready? I'm due to refund and want to get started on my return as soon as I can.

A—Tax forms will be available by the first of the year. For most taxpayers, a 1040 or 1040A tax package will be mailed to their homes. Copies of all necessary forms may be obtained at IRS offices as well as from many banks, post offices and other public places.

Q—Every Christmas, I do some volunteer work for children at the hospital. Is there any deduction for this?

A—The value of your time or services is not deductible. However, you may deduct any out of pocket expenses you pay in connection with your charitable work. The fair maket value of merchandise contributions is of course deductible.

New State Parks Sticker on Sale

Minnesota state parks director U. W. Hella suggested today that the New 1966 state park vehicle permit would make a very nice Christmas gift. "Whoever receives this gift will have a year 'round ticket to enjoyment of the outdoor recreation available in Minnesota's 65 state parks," he said.

In addition to the summer-time uses of the parks for swimming, camping, boating, fishing and other activities, more and more persons are visiting the parks in the winter for skiing trips, winter camping, ice fishing and other winter sports, Hella said.

The new permit went on sale October 1, and will be valid until Jan. 1, 1967. The permit costs $2 and will admit the vehicle and its occupants into any state park during that time.

Marshall County Welfare Distributes Surplus Foods

Distribution of surplus food to eligible people in Marshall county has been authorized by the Marshall county welfare board, according to Earl L. Kallher, director. The county will have two distribution centers under the program—one at Warren for Western Marshall county and one at Thief River Falls for eastern Marshall county residents.

"The eastern area will be serviced at Thief River Falls on the same day that Pennington county eligibles receive their food items," Kallher said. "Marshall and Pennington county welfare boards are working out a cooperative agreement to share expenses, personnel and storage facilities for the benefit of both counties. It is expected that Marshall county residents will receive their first donated foods some time during the month of January, 1966."

Kallher explained the program to the Times as follows:

"Many of the people now receiving help from the Marshall county welfare department are automatically eligible for donated foods and they are receiving notices directly asking if they are interested. All other persons must complete applications to determine their eligibility.

"Single individuals are not permitted to have an average monthly income of more than $110 or liquid assets that exceed $750. The monthly rate has been scaled upward according to the number of persons in the family so that for two it is $160 a month, for six it is $310 and for ten $430 a month. The liquid resources for two or more persons in a family stays at $1,000 for each group.

"County residents who wish to apply for surplus foods may do so at the Marshall county welfare office in Warren. They are required to bring with them everything that is necessary to verify the amount of their income. This can be the most recent year's income tax forms, payroll records, unemployment compensation registration forms, social security or other pension award letters, statement form employers, etc. These same persons should have with them bank books, checking account statements and anything else necessary to verify the amount of their liquid assets.

"Two workers from the Marshall county welfare staff will spend at least one day in Middle River and one in Grygla to take applications for this program. This will make it unnecessary for most of the persons in those communities, and nearby to drive as far as Warren to apply. The dates will be announced later, but will be during the month of December.

"Not all surplus foods are given out each monty but there is a distribution monthly. The items which are available now include beans or peas, bulger, butter, corn meal, dry milk, flour, lard, peanut butter, rice, canned beef and rolled wheat or oats. Cheese, chopped meat and eggs ocasionally are distributed. Eligible persons are notified which will be available."

Mrs. H. N. Elofson left Friday night for Minneapolis where she was to take a plane Saturday for Chicago, Ill., to spend Sunday with her son, Rodger Elofson, and family. From there she will go on to Birmingham, Ala., to spend the holidays with her daughter, Mrs. C. T. (Marlys) McConnell, and family.

Newfolden Voters Reject Legalized Sales of Liquor

Citizens of the village of Newfolden decisively voted to remain "dry" at the election polls Tuesday. Out of a total of 165 votes cast, the count came to 113 votes against legalizing the sale of liquor as opposed to 44 in favor.

In the returns for village officers, Ben Nelson retained his position as mayor with 163 votes. Yngve Berggren drew 144 votes in his office of village treasurer. The only opposition was the bid of Elsworth Maki for a seat on the Village council. He was defeated by a vote of 105 to 39, as Stan Holmans retained his office.

An election upset almost occurred in Middle River. Although no choice of candidates appeared on the ballot, Mrs. Mildred Carriere polled enough write-in votes to come within three votes of defeating Mayor Joe Biskup. The contest between Trustee John Mickelson, incumbent, and John Meland, also a write-in, ended in a draw.

Although attendance at the polls increased slightly over the previous year, only 52 votes were cast. Mayor Biskup polled 27 votes against Mrs. Carriere's 24, and one vote was cast for John Meland. For councilmen, John Mickelson and John Meland each polled 25 votes and one vote was cast for James Carriere. Bernadine Collins collected 48 votes to retain her position as village treasurer.

From Holt comes the report that voting was light; in fact, only 13 votes were cast. Frank Smith and Bobbie Skoglund were reelected mayor and trustee, respectively. O. T. Ness, who was appointed earlier in the year to fill the vacancy created by the resignation of Randall Sannes, was elected as village clerk.

15 Area Farmers Selected To Gain Farm Knowledge

Fifteen area farmers are now engaged in an intensive farm management and training program and is administered through the state employment service.

Selection of the farmers was made by a local "Young Farmer Committee"—a group of area farmers and local business representatives—which was designated by R. S. Eidevik, manager of the Thief River Falls employment service office, to assist in the selection.

In order to qualify for the program, the farmers must have had income below a minimum stipulated by the manpower program during the past year. The committee further screened possible participants as to their abilities, interest in farming and potential to succeed in farm operation.

Participants in the program—which requires 450 hours of classroom instruction in addition to farm visits and group instruction—are paid a base stripend of $31 per week plus $5 per dependent up to a maximum of four dependents. This means that the maximum payment a participant could receive would be $51 per week. Payments are made with a federal gram administered by the state employment service.

Instructing the 15-farmer group is Kermit Kjolhaug who at one time was vocational agricultural instructor at Goodridge high school. Kjolhaug has five years of experience in teaching vocational agriculture and has been associated with various phases of agriculture in recent years. He was instructor a Goodridge from 1952 thru 1954. Salary for instruction is also 100 per cent federally reimbursed.

Objective of the program is to assist farmers to gain the techniques and knowledge to improve their operations, engage in a profitable farming enterprise and contribute more substantially to their community economy.

Kjolhaug stated that the program was off to a fast start here and is one of about a dozen similar programs in Minnesota. Several class sessions have been held to date with perfect attendance at every class, the instructor noted.

It is expected that about 300 of the 450 hours of classroom instruction will be held during the winter months when farmers have more available time. The remaining 150 hours will be scheduled throughout the remainder of the year. The program is designed to be a full 52-week plan.

Included in the classroom instruction is a certain amount of shop work such as welding and electricity. Class work is restricted to general farming practices with individual situations and interests supplemented by farm visitation and group instruction such as tours.

Participants in the program are James Erickson, Gail Rux, Lyle Jennings, Kenneth Poole, Julian W. Lendobeja, Ronald Moe, Raymond Nelson, David Schwartz, Marvin Hutchinson, Leonard Carlson and Clarence Wansnes, Thief River Falls; Harlie Drees, St. Hilaire; Gary Johnson and Dayle Kainz, Goodridge; and Boyd Wilson, Newfolden.

Serving on the young farmer committee which assisted in making the selection were John Burtness, Rufus Olson, Clyde Christensen, Fred Koop, Fred Sorensen, Marvin Lundin, Gene Belto, Joel Rosengren, Ed Sisler, Verne Spengler and Peter Probasco.

Molskness-Johnson Vows Spoken In Minneapolis

Marriage vows of Miss Muriel J. Molskness, daughter of Maynard Molskness of Thief River Falls and Dennis R. Johnson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Johnson of Minneapolis, were solemnized recently at the St. Keven's Catholic church in Minneapolis. The Rev. James McDonell officiated at the double ring ceremony.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a white floor-length gown of organza designed with a portrait neckline, short sleeves and an A-line skirt featuring a full back. Embroidery and appliques enhanced the bodice. An organza rose headpiece held the fingertip veil of silk illusion and she carried a bouquet of white sweetheart roses.

For her only attendant, the bride chose her sister-in-law, Mrs. Larry (Sharyn) Molskness of Silver Bay. She was attired in a moss green floor-length gown of French crepe with bell sleeves, slim skirt and a voltaire neckline dipping in the back to a cascade of tiny buttons. Her circular veiling was caught to a headpiece of full bloom roses with rosettes and leaflets and she carried a bouquet rust and yellow mums.

A close friend of the groom, Walter Macy, Jr., of Minneapolis was best man. Ushers were Larry Molskness of Silver Bay, brother of the bride, and Darrel Johnson of Minneapolis, brother of the groom. The men of the wedding party wore strollers, a semi-formal attire, consisting of oxford gray jacket, striped trousers and pearl gray vest. Their boutonnieres were white carnations.

Following the ceremony a reception was given at the bride's home in Minneapolis for intimate friends and relatives. The linen covered serving table, set with crystal and silver, was highlighted by a four-tiered wedding cake surrounded by a wreath of yellow and rust mums. The fourth tier, resting on swan pillars, was topped by three white satin bells joined by ribbons and lilies of the valley. The bride's personal attendant, Joyce Henry, registered the guests, arranged the gifts and presided at the silver service. Mrs. Harold Omstead, sister of the bride, was in charge of serving the punch.

For traveling to Pensacola, Fla., where the newly-weds spent two weeks, the bride wore a brown three-piece seersucher suit.

A graduat of Lincoln high school, the bride was employed by LeVander, Zempfer and Tierney, attorneys-at-law, in Minneapolis. The groom is a graduate of Roosvelt high school in Minneapolis and is employed by Midtown Electric in Minneapolis where Mr. and Mrs. Johnson are at home at 1905 East 38th Street.

Escorted to the altar by her brother; Gale Gonshorowski, the bride was attired in a ballerina length nylon lace over taffeta gown with fitted bodice, long tapered sleeves and a full skirt. Iridescent sequins enhanced the scallops of the gently scooped neckline. A coronet headpiece of seed pearls held the silk illusion veil and she carried a bouquet of tropicana roses and white mums. Her jewels were a single strand of pearls with matching earrings.

Mrs. Marlan Warne of Ardoch, N.D., attended her cousin as maid of honor. She wore a red velvet street length gown with a white hat and carried a bouquet of white roses. Her pearl pendant was a gift from the bride.

Following the wedding ceremony a reception was given at the North Star Pavilion by the parents of the groom. Approximately 200 guests were in attendance with cousins of the groom, Mr. and Mrs. Lester Nordhagen of Thief River Falls, as host and hostess.

The four tiered wedding cake was trimmed and surrounded by pink roses. Aunts of the groom, Mrs. Johnnie Forst of Strathcona, cut and served the cake and Mrs. Adolph Srnsky of Grand Forks, N.D., and Mrs. William Kusprick of Strathcona, poured. Cousins of the groom, Rosalie Forst of Strathcona, registered the guests and Mrs. Godfred Svler of Thief River Falls and Mrs. Vernon Waage of Greenbush, arranged the gifts. Waitresses were Dorothy Gust, Francis Kasprick, Arlette Gust, Linda Ellefson, Rose Ellefson and Beverly Forst.

Guests attending were from Winnipeg, Man., Canada, Grand Forks, N.D., Roseau, South St. Paul, Osseo and Thief River Falls.

For traveling on their wedding trip, the bride wore a blue sheath dress with white accessories. The bride is a graduate of the Greenbush high school. The groom, also a graduate of the Greenbush high school, is self employed at Strathcona. The newly-weds are making their home at 413 South Merriam in Thief River Falls.

Harold Sabo Herd Tops Pennington DHIA in October

Orville Peters, supervisor of the Pennington County Dairy Herd Improvement association, lists the following herds as the top ten in the association for the month of October:

	Milk	Fat
Harold Sabo	1,038	38.1
Wallace Rolerson	977	35.3
Mordy Morrison	1,039	35.0
Myron and Mylo Carlson	871	34.0
Paul Mockassel	819	33.9
Art M. Stenberg	802	32.8
Clyde Christensen	833	32.4
John Burtness	860	32.3
Curtis Johnson	847	32.1
Clarence Swanson	858	29.3

"Herd averages are affected by the number of dry cows in the herd. The amount of milk or butterfat produced is averaged out over all the cows, giving the farmer a record of the earning power of the herd for the month," Peters said. "If too many dry cows are included in the herd, the average for that month may be low even though the cows which are milking produce a lot of milk."

There were 24 herds on test with a total of 71? cows and an average of 29.8 cows per herd during October with the Pennington association; 78 per cent of which were milking. The average amount of milk produced per cow was 738 pounds which tested 3.78 per cent fat. This amounted to 27.9 pounds of butterfat per cow.

Six cows finished with over 500 pounds butterfat during the testing year, in a 365-day or less lactation. They were from the following herds:

	Days	Milk	Fat
Clarence Swanson	314	16,600	514
Curtis Johnson	365	12,370	523
Dale Svendsgaard	362	15,500	549
Martin Hanson	345	14,600	574
Myron and Mylo Carlson	251	12,530	528
Myron and Mylo Carlson	360	16,540	620

Mild Weather Is Spoiled by Fog Here Last Week

Despite relatively mild temperatures, weather conditions in this area and throughout the upper midwest have been severe during the past week. The conditions referred to are the kind that limit visibility and make cars spin around crazily on the street.

The area was enveloped in fog beginning Tuesday night and lasting until Sunday night, varying somewhat in density. Not only northern Minnesota, but a 15-state area was covered by the fog. Saturday, freezing rain began as a low moved from west to east several hundred miles to the south of this area.

This phenomen caused much damage to telephone and power lines in Minnesota and the Dakotas, and coated streets and highways with a sheet of ice, making driving conditions extremely hazardous. The rain changed to snow Sunday, which acumulated to four inches at the Thief River Falls airport.

Forecast calls for continued cloudy skies through tomorrow with scattered snow flurles. Colder temperatures are predicted today, with little temperature change tonight and tomorrow. Highs today will be in the 20's; lows tonight will range from 15 to 25.

Temperature and precipitation readings recorded since Wednesday are as follows: 32, 24 and a trace on Wednesday; 31 and 18 on Thursday; 27 and 9 on Friday; 28 and 24 on Saturday; 30, 23 and four inches of snow which melted down to .14 inch of precipitation on Sunday; and a low so far today of 20.

Remind Aliens To Register With Report Program

Joseph A. Cushman, district director of the Immigration and Naturalization service, St. Paul stated that all aliens are required to report their addresses in January under the federal alien address report program.

All noncitizens, except those in diplomatic status, foreign representatives of certain international organizations and those admitted temporarily as agricultural laborers, are required to file the address report.

In addition, aliens who are not in the United States during January must report their addresses to the service within 10 days after their return. Cushman said that address report cards will be available at immigration and naturalization service offices and local United States post offices beginning Jan. 1, 1966. Wilfull failure to do so may lead to serious consequences.

KITCHEN KARNIVAL

MRS. ARNOLD PETERSON

Christmas season is not only a time for remembering those whom we cherish by giving them tokens of our affection but it is also a time of recalling past holiday seasons. After obtaining the recipe for Krumkaker from Mrs. Peterson, I was reminded of the first time that I saw those Scandinavian delicacies. It was a custom in the Swedish settlement where I grew up to call on the neighbors and especially during Christmas. This particular day, Mother and I had trudged through the deep snow to visit a neighbor across the meadow. Among the various assortment of foods on the lunch table was a plate of Krumkaker which when passed to me, I politely refused. I recall asking my Mother on the way home, "Are those people so dreadfully poor that they have to eat cold, rolled-up pancakes during Christmas?"

KRUMKAKER

5 eggs
1 cup sugar
1 cup rich cream
¼ cup melted butter
½ teaspoon vanilla
1½ cups flour

Method: Beat eggs and add sugar and mix until creamy. Add cream melted butter and vanilla and mix well. Gradually add flour to make a thin batter. Mrs. Peterson heats her krumkake iron on a medium high burner, using about a teaspoon of batter for each krumkaker. Bake until a golden brown, remove from iron and roll while warm. Makes about 50 or 60 krumkaker.

For krumkakers made using this recipe, Mrs. Peterson received a ribbon at the Pennington county fair last summer. Besides cooking and baking, Mrs. Peterson also enjoys crotching, embroidering and sewing.

Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Peterson live on a farm four miles northeast of Thief River Falls. They have three children. David, age seven, attends second grade at Washington school while Rickie, five and Julie, three, are at home. The family attends the Silverton Lutheran church and Mrs. Peterson is a member of the Silverton homemakers club.

In addition to farming, Mr. Peterson is a mail messenger between Thief River Falls and Warren.

More Acres Harvested In Minnesota in 1965

(Editor's Note: The following is the second in a series of two articles concerning statistics of comparative interest in the Upper Midwest. The figures are taken from a current economic progress report of the Upper Midwest Research and Development council.)

Through 1964 there was a downward trend in the number of acres harvested on the region's farms. However, this trend is apparently showing a slight reversal upward in 1965. The decline in crop values from 1963 to 1964 had a marked effect in North Dakota and Montana where wheat is a major crop. Minnesota and South Dakota suffered less. Minnesota's loss was compensated by increased government payments, but the other states suffered a net drop in total farm receipts, even with higher government payments.

Farm consolidation, indicated by a decrease in the number of farms and an increase in the average farm size, has proceeded at a rate greater than projected the past five years in Montana and the Dakotas but at the projected rate in Minnesota. Montana has 30,000 farms now against 32,000 in 1960. The average size is 2,220 acres as against 2,084. North Dakota has 49,000 farms now with an average acreage of 857 against 56,000 farms and 752 acres; South Dakota has 52,000 with an average acreage of 863 as against 58,400 in 1960 with an average acreage of 777; Minnesota has 144,000 farms with an average acreage of 225 as against 156,000 in 1960 with an average acreage of 208.

Manufacturing employment in the region over the four year period grew 7.9 per cent in Montana, 13.8 per cent in North Dakota and 6.6 per cent in Minnesota. It remained about the same in South Dakota. Minnesota accounted for most of the manufacturing employment in the region with 245,000. Montana was the next highest state with 22,000.

Government employment exceeds the total manufacturing employment in every state but Minnesota. In magnitude, it amounts to about half of the employment in agriculture in each state.

North Dakota in 1964 raised 15.7 per cent of its state and local revenues from sales and excise taxes; South Dakota 15.9 per cent; Montana 10 per cent; and Minnesota 8.8 per cent. Income taxes accounted for 3.4 per cent in North Dakota, an insignificant sum in South Dakota, 6.6 per cent in Montana and 13.3 per cent in Minnesota. Property taxes brought 28.2 per cent of the total to North Dakota, 34.3 per cent to South Dakota, 35.1 per cent to Montana and 37.4 per cent to Minnesota.

North Dakota devoted 37.9 per cent of its revenues in 1964 to education and 27.6 per cent to highways. Totals for South Dakota were 38.6 per cent and 33.3 per cent, for Montana, 38.8 per cent and 30.1 per cent; for Minnesota 41.6 per cent and 18.6 per cent.

The Upper Midwest states tend to rely more on property taxes than the country as a whole. Per capita taxation rose in all of the states, along with others in the nation, over the four-year period. Minnesota and Montana exceed the national average (Minnesota by about 13 per cent) with the Dakotas somewhat below the national average.

Expenditures for education will rise in the future, as they have in the recent past in the area, the report predicts. Public school elementary and secondary grade enrollments are above the projections for 1964 in all states. In the Dakotas, they exceed the 1975 projections.

College enrollments are also increasing rapidly, exceeding projections in all states. Larger college-age populations and greater attendance rates account for soaring enrollments.

Except in South Dakota, rates of increase in both total and per-pupil expenditures for public elementary and secondary schools have exceeded the national rate for the schools years of 1962-1963 and 1963-1964. The national rate was 6.4 per cent total and 3.6 per cent per pupil. Montana's was 7.8 per cent and 6.9 per cent, respectively; North Dakota's seven per cent and 4.6 per cent; Minnesota 8.4 per cent and 4.5 per cent and South Dakota's 5.8 per cent and 2.8 per cent.

There is more to be done in the matter of teachers' salaries, however. Only Minnesota in 1964 topped the national average of $5,531 per annum for elementary and $5,929 for secondary teachers. Montana came close but the Dakotas, it was indicated, have a problem in this area. North Dakota paid an average of $3,888 for elementary and $4,795 for secondary teachers; South Dakota an average of $3,984 and $4,866, respectively. A heartening factor reported was that progress is being made in the elimination of the one-teacher schools in all states.

The study showed a "striking positive correlation" between education and income. As education increases, so does income.

Two indirect indicators were emphasized as measures of educational achievement for students in the area—percentage of ninth-graders going on to complete high school and the percentage of selective service registrants failing mental tests.

For the nation, 72.7 per cent of ninth-graders finished high school in 1963. Montana's percentage was 73.8 per cent, North Dakota's 82.2 per cent, South Dakota's 82.4 per cent and Minnesota's 85.8 per cent. In this respect, Minnesota ranked second among all states, South Dakota sixth, North Dakota eighth and Montana 25th.

Selective service gives draft registrants a "mental test", confined largely to reading and understanding ability. Scores are correlated with school years completed. For the nation, 24.5 per cent of the registrants failed this test in 1962. Minnesota, with only 2.7 per cent failing ranked first in the nation. South Dakota with 4.1 per cent failures ranked fifth; North Dakota with 6.4 per cent failures ranked 13th and Montana with 3.9 failing ranked fourth.

AIRMAN Wayne L. Rood, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dewey W. Rood of rt. 4, Thief River Falls, has been assigned to Lockbourne AFB, Ohio, after completing air force basic training. The airman, a 1964 graduate of Lincoln high school, will be trained on the job as an air policeman with the Strategic Air Command.

Wife of Former Resident Authors Magazine Article

(Editor's Note: The following article from the "ADA Forecast" is reprinted under special permission from the American Diabetes association, Joseph H. Crampton, M. D., secretary. Carol Nasby Embury, author of the article entitled 'Diabetes in College", is married to Steve Embury, son of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Embury of Thief River Falls.)

My diabetes was discovered in 1959, when I was a sixteen-year-old high school sophomore. After a two-week adjustment period in the hospital, I returned to the life of a teen-ager, almost normal except for the careful weighing of everything I ate, and the daily injection of insulin.

When it came time to go to college, I was a little apprehensive. I had been on many short trips from home, but had always returned to the food scale and the watchful eye of my family. I wondered how I would be able to eat in the college cafeteria, with no scale for weighing my food and no one to guide me on what to eat. I was afraid that I might not be able to maintain good control of my diabetes.

My doctor and my family gave me plenty of encouragement, though, and urged me not to let my diabetes interfere with my college ambitions. I applied to St. Olaf, a liberal arts college in Northfield, Minnesota. On my application I made it clear that I had diabetes.

When I arrived at St. Olaf in the fall of 1960, I discovered that I had been thoughtfully assigned a room right across the hall from a kitchen, where I could keep my insulin in the refrigerator. From that moment on, I knew the school's Health Service had a special eye on me. I never hesitated to go to the health people with any problem, from forgetting to buy an extra bottle of insulin to more serious matters such as the time that neglect caused my diabetes to get out of control. The promptly put me in the college hospital until my condition was again balanced.

As far as eating was concerned, it did not take me long to discover what and how much food was good for me. I found that most of the menus were well balanced; and when they had rich desserts I passed them up in favor of some fresh fruit, which could always be obtained at the student snack bar. I had become accustomed to eating something before bedtime, so I kept a package of crackers and some fresh fruit in my room.

Exercise was no problem. What I didn't get in my physical education classes, I got running to and from classes, on bicycle hikes, and on Sunday walks.

As I have mentioned, I had been concerned about leaving home and the watchful eyes of my family. They had been my "watch-dogs," and I wasn't sure that I found, however, that I cared deeply about the responsibility that had been given me, and that it was a good lesson in growing up. I saw my doctor every time I returned home for a visit, to make sure that I was handling things in the right way. All he did was to make occasional changes in my insulin dosage as my needs changed.

I had a few special problems, such as the three-week tour I made with the St. Olaf Choir. (I am at the far right in the second row in the picture on this page.; That called for special watching on my part. The calorie-rich meals they served on the trip were not planned for a diabetic, and I had to be my own judge. Another problem was "Finals Week" which can be frustrating for anyone, but which became a real challenge for me as a diabetic. No all-night sessions for me—and no meal-skipping, either. I think the discipline which I exercised over myself then would have raised anyone's grades.

Of course, I made sure that all my college friends knew I had diabetes, and told them what to do in case I should have a reaction. The boy I dated all through college took a special pride in watching out for me. We both graduated from St. Olaf in June, 1964. I am now a Graduate Student in English, and my husband—we were married last September!— started Medical School the same month.

My college career was happy and productive. The summer of 1963, I was privileged to attend the International Summer School in Oslo, Norway—a story in itself. The trip was as educational to me as a diabetic as the Summer School sessions were as a student. It helped me learn how to control my diabetes under conditions very different from any I previously experienced. The School operated on a very low budget, and consequently at meals we had plenty of bread and potatoes, but relatively little protein or fruit. Indeed, fruit was difficult to obtain in many of the European countries I visited after the six-week summer session.

In Norway, the Summer School served three meals a day—Breakfast and lunch, and what the Norwegians call middag, a kind of dinner served in the late afternoon. Eating dinner at this early hour made it necessary for me to keep some food in my room for an evening snack. Away from the school itself, I discovered that the people were constantly eating—and here I had to exercise special control so as not to "go overboard" and break my diet.

After the six-week school session in Norway, I visited Denmark, Germany, France, and England. I traveled alone for the most part, so I had to supervise myself. I kept a card with me at all times, identifying me as a diabetic in case I had a serious reaction, but it was never needed. I even avoided the more common digestive problems of Americans traveling abroad by choosing my foods very selectively.

While I was in Oslo at the Summer School, I was able, as a music student, to spend an evening with Norway's leading composer, Harold Saeverud. The students at the school, myself included, also visited the Royal Palace and met the King. And one week end I went to Bergen, in Norway, which is one of Europe's oldest seaports. It was developed by the Hanseatic League during the Middle Ages. It was also the home of Norway's greatest composer, Edvard Grieg. Whenever I went on trips such as this week end, I always carried extra food in a handbag that I kept with me. I could never be sure when the next meal would be, and with my snacks available I was sure not to have any insulin reactions.

My biggest problem traveling abroad came on the flight home from London to Chicago. It was a seven-hour flight, and we gained seven hours between London's regular time and Chicago's daylight saving. Thus I left London at 9 p.m.— and arrived in Chicago at 9 p.m.! This threw me off balance in many ways, and it took me several days to get back on schedule.

I found the trip exceptionally valuable not only as a test of my ability to live with my diabetes under unusual conditions, but also as an exercise in getting along with people with backgrounds and beliefs different from my own.

My last year in college, 1963-1964, I was honored by being elected Secretary of the St. Olaf Student Congregation. Upon graduation in June, I began graduate work in English at Roosevelt University in Chicago. Then, in September, I was married, and almost at the same time my husband, Steve, began his medical studies at Northwestern University Medical School. From then on, my own studies had to become part-time. I should receive my Master's degree in 1968, about the same time my husband graduates from Medicine in American literature of the Twentieth Century, and I hope to teach in college sometime in the future.

One more observation about college life—which applies, of course, to life in general for people with diabetes. I found that whenever I let myself get out of control, it became more difficult to concentrate, and as a result my studies suffered. I found it both good practice and pleasant relaxation to take a walk each day. This helped me keep my diabetes under control, and it also gave me a chance to get away from the "busyness" of academic life for a brief while.

My major in college was Music Theory and Composition, and I wrote much of the music for my own wedding. I enjoy singing and playing the piano. As far as sports are concerned, I love to play golf with my husband, and I enjoy swimming and walking. Indeed, I find that long walks are the best exercise for keeping my diabetes in good control and myself in good shape.

To sum up: Growing up with diabetes need not be something to fear. Indeed, it can help to build character, if you look at it the right way. As my husband said when we were married, "Your diabetes has been good for me. It has made me a more stable person in my own living habits." And that has been the lesson of diabetes for my husband and me.

To young people with diabetes who are anticipating going to college, I would like to say: You yourself will be your best own doctor for your four college years —and for the rest of your life, as a matter of fact. Go to your doctor regularly, but rely on yourself for careful management of your condition. Study hard, play a little —but do not neglect your diabetes. If you learn to discipline yourself in this part of your life, all the rest will reflect that good control.

Local Students Selected to BSC Band Ensemble

Phil Jorgenson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Jorgenson, and Lance Davies, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde S. Davies, both of Thief River Falls, have been selected to membership in the Bemidji State college concert band ensemble, according to Dr. Edgar B. Gangware, director of instrumental music.

This band consists primarily of music majors although some non-majors are accepted when openings occur. This is the select instrumental music organization on campus, and was the first wind ensemble in the state of Minnesota. A student's acceptance into this group, Gangware said, is a distinct honor and indicates high achievement on his instrument.

Highway Head Has Conference With Detroiter Staff

John R. Jamieson, Minnesota commissioner of highways, conferred with officials of Detroiter Mobile Home, Inc., at Red Lake Falls last Tuesday in regard to the highway ruling restricting movement of large mobile homes on state highways. The conference was arranged by Rep. Andrew Skaar of Thief River Falls.

Jamieson and his administrative assistant, Don Marion, flew to Thief River Falls in the highway department's plane. Attending the Red Lake Falls session in addition to the commissioner, Marion and Skaar were Carl Larson, district highway engineer; Glenn Ellinger, maintenance supervisor; Core Woodard, Detroiter vice president and general manager; Charles Folett, Detroiter sales manager; Charles Kleven, Commercial club president; Millard Dailey and Neil Prenevost of the Red Lake Falls development corporation; and Mike Barrett, head of a Mobile home transporting company at Moorhead.

At present the department enforces a 50-mile limit for movement of mobile homes 12 feet wide on state highways. Detroiter, which is faced with a problem of transporting its manufactured trailers to a wider market area, is seeking to have the distance restriction removed and replaced with specified routes and times.

Relaxing of the restriction should benefit the economy of the area, Detroiter officials said, since easier movement of the homes would permit greater sales of the units in the state.

Two State Sites Named National Landmark Areas

Conservation Commissioner Wayne Olson expressed pleasure today that the first list of registered natural landmarks issued by the federal government includes two unique areas in Minnesota.

Olson said recognition by the National Park Service of the sites means Minnesota has been assigned two of the original 37 landmarks selected for registration by the federal government.

In September, Olson had written to the national park service requesting that a 2,000 acre portion of Itasca state park and the 22,000 acre Myrtle lake bog be included among the landmarks being given national recognition and designation.

Purpose of the designation as natural landmarks was to identify representative examples of the nation's natural heritage which had escaped intrusion or alteration by man.

In July, 1963, the Minnesota conservation department had renamed the Myrtle lake bog the "Lake Agassiz Peat Lands Natural Area" and ordered its preservation in its natural state for scientific observation and study.

Its high scientific value lies in the fact that while similar areas have been altered by drainage, ditching, extensive timber cutting, peat removal and other activities, the bog has developed in a natural and undisturbed fashion since the recession of glacial Lake Agassiz 10,000 years ago. Ancient beaches of this extinct lake may still be seen in the bog area.

Both the Itasca park site and the peatlands area remain in state ownership since registration as national landmarks do not require ownership to be transferred to the federal government.

Langen in Tour Of Puerto Rico Sugar Cacilities

Congressman Odin Langen took time out from his tour of the Seventh Congressional district recently to fly to Puerto Rico with members of the House subcommittee on agricultural appropriations.

The Congressmen, at the invitation of the department of agriculture, will inspect food distribution activities in San Juan, will visit agricultural areas, will tour wholesale food markets, visit the research and extension services of the University of Puerto Rico, inspect agricultural schools and research projects and tour sugar plantations. The lawmakers have been inspecting similar installation in the United States.

"Food distribution activities in Puerto Rico are considered among the best and most modern in the world," said Langen, "and federal funds are involved in many such centers. We on the appropriations committee want to see how such funds are spent and how such distribution centers benefit the American farmer and consumer. We hope to learn much that will be of value to our agricultural economy as the United States faces the future problems of feeding a hungry world."

Congressman Langen said he is particularly interested in the Puerto Rican sugar industry. "The government attitude toward overseas producing areas is of great concern to our own domestic sugar areas such as the Red River Valley of Minnesota and North Dakota."

With taxpayer money being spent to support the various research, food distribution, sugar development and other agricultural activities in many areas of the world such as Puerto Rico, we want to see the results of such expenditures. Such knowledge will be of great assistance when similar requests come before us in the future," Langen said.

Senator McCarthy Studies Foreign Trade in Europe

Senator Eugene J. McCarthy is in Europe consulting on questions of foreign trade and international monetary policies [illegible] attending the biennial meeting of the Food and Agriculture Organization in Rome.

"The export market is of great importance for improving United States farm income," Sen. McCarthy said. "Exports of United States farm commodities have expanded steadily, rising from $3.9 billion in 1959 to $6.3 billion in 1964, and will undoubtedly go over $6 billion in 1965.

"We must continue to meet the growing demands for feed grains in the industrial nations and for food in the developing nations.

"The central United States remains the greatest feed grain producing area of the world and we should develop a variety of procedures to assist the continued expansion of exports of United States agricultural products," Sen. McCarthy stressed.

The Senator has proposed that the question of tax revision designed to encourage foreign exports "be given priority of study and action" by the Senate committee on finance next year.

He also proposed that priority be given by the finance committee, of which he is a member, "to examination of proposals and possibilities for more equitable and constructive distribution of federal revenues with state and local units of government."

Elect Erickson To State Sheriff Association Board

Oscar C. Erickson, Marshall county sheriff, was elected to serve on the board of directors of the Minnesota State Sheriffs' association at the annual meeting held in St. Cloud December 6.

The state law enforcement organization elected Sheriff R. J. Potter of Hubbard county as president; Russell Broberg, Otter Tail county, first vice president; Bernard J. Coulaf, Steele county, second vice president; Ralph Talbot, Anoka county, third vice president; Harvey Spaulding, Kandiyohi county, secretary-treasurer; and Paul Knochenmus, Roseau county, sergeant-at-arms.

The sheriffs voted to seek federal funds to help operate periodic training sessions, it being reported at the convention that federal funds are available for this purpose.

Regulations for Ice Fishing Are Noted for State

While most veteran winter fishermen are acquainted with the ice fishing regulations, newcomers to the sport may not be so well informed, according to the Minnesota conservation department.

In addition to the regular fishing license, the use of a fish shack or darkhouse requires the purchase of a separate license. There is also another special license, costing one dollar, required of anyone wishing to spear.

Licenses for shelters and darkhouses are two dollars if the shack is for private use, or three dollars if it is for hire. The shelter license must be fastened to the interior of the shack. The name and address of the owner must be painted on the exterior of the house in letters at least three inches high.

The door of the shelter or darkhouse must be constructed so it can be opened from the outside at any time it is occupied.

Although the same shack may be used for both spearing and angling, it is unlawful to have a spear within a fish house or darkhouse while it is being used for angling purposes. This means the fisherman must decide whether he is going to angle or spear; he can't do both at the same time.

Northern pike, rough fish, catfish and whitefish are the only species which may be legally taken by spear in Minnesota. No spearing is alowed after February 15.

Ice fishermen may use their shelters after February 28—the usual deadline for removing them from the ice—only if they remove them by 7 p.m. each day and do not put them out until 7 a.m. On Minnesota-Canada boundary waters, shacks may be left on the ice until March 31, until March 1 on Minnesota-Wisconsin boundary waters and until March 5 on Minnesota-South Dakota border waters.

Annual Creamery Meeting Slated In City Friday

Tom Johnson, regional ADA fieldman, will show a film and the annual operating report and statement of condition will be reviewed.

Each family is to bring one main dish (either hot dish, salad, etc.) bread, and Christmas goodies for dessert. Homemakers are, therefore, asked to try make foods which are a part of their own nationality or their husbands. Following the supper together, Gladys Person will show her slides and talk of her recent trip to Eruope.

LHS Defeats Warren 60-43 Friday Night

Coach Whitey Olson's basketball Prowlers moved into the win column on Friday night by scoring a decisive 60 to 43 win over the Warren Ponies in a game played on the Lincoln high school court. The game was a District 1 conference game, and this week, on Friday night, the Prowlers will continue in district competition when they meet the Crookston Central Pirates at Crookston.

The result of Friday night's game against Warren did not remain in doubt for more than a couple of periods. The Prowlers, utilizing a zone press defense to good effect, and hitting on a high percentage of their shots, skipped away to a 20 to 7 lead at the end of the first period, and a 40 to 17 margin at the half-time intermission.

Tommy Cummings tossed a jump shot into the west basket in the opening seconds of play. Bruce Saustad followed with a field goal. Cummings added a free throw, and after Bob Brodin had hit on a field goal, Cummings notched a pair of fielders and the Prowlers held a 11 to 0 lead. Dick Engelstad marked up Warren's first point on a free throw, and then followed with a field goal.

With Cummings scoring three field goals, and Mark Stromberg tallying a pair of field goals and two free throws, the Prowlers put another 20 points on the scoreboard in the second period to gain a commanding 40 to 17 lead.

The Ponies played the Prowlers on even terms in the third period, with each squad scoring 10 points, and in the final period, with Bruce Ranstrom and Lee Hoaas scoring five points apiece, the Ponies outpointed the Prowlers, 16 to 10.

Cummings gained the game's high-point honors with nine field goals and a free throw. Warren's Hoaas had six field goals and four free throws for a 16-point effort for the Ponies.

Plummer Defeats Alvarado 48-42

Coach Larry Perkins' Plummer Cardinals basketball team boosted their season's mark to two wins and one loss by scoring a 48 to 42 win over the Alvarado Indians on Friday night in a game played on the Plummer court.

The Cardinals won their season's opener by defeating the Oklee Bobcats, 24 to 7, at Oklee. Darrell Martell teallied 16 points for the Cardinals. In a game played at Oslo last week, the Cardinals dropped a 47 to 41 decision to coach Orv Bergman's Oslo squad. Martell again led the Cardinal scorers, getting ten points. Oslo had a pair of players in double figures, with Greg Farder notching 22 points, and Doug Farder adding 17 points.

In Friday night's win over Alvarado, Milt Peterson, with seven field goals and a free throw, was the high scorer for the Cardinals.

Plummer will meet the Goodridge Huskies at Plummer on Friday night, December 17.

APPEARING to have three arms for this rebound in Friday night's basketball action between the Lincoln high school Prowlers and Warren Ponies is Peter Gilbert (25) of the Ponies. The third arm was no help to Gilbert, however, as it belongs to Tom Cummings of the Prowlers who is actually tipping the ball back into the hoop after a missed free throw attempt. The tip-in was one of several sparkling plays for the Prowlers who won 60-47. At right are centers Dave Knutson (45) of the Ponies and Mark Stromberg of the Prowlers.

Escapees From Fargo Jail Are Caught Thursday

Two escapees from the Cass county jail in Fargo, N.D., were apprehended Thursday afternoon after having stolen a car, rossed the state line into Minnesota and traveled north. Lee Bestman and Darwin Coryell were arrested near Orleans by Kittson County Sheriff Trygve Ingebrigtsen and Highway Patrol Officer Harold Rosten and have been returned to the Fargo jail.

Bestman, 26, had previously escaped from the state mental hospital in Anamoose, Ia., and was also wanted in Kansas. He and Coryell, 25, Fargo, escaped from the Fargo jail at 8:50 p.m. Wednesday. The two men departed in a stolen car, the description and license number of which were broadcast over radio and television that night.

Thursday morning a general alarm was sent out to all law enforcement agencies in the area. Polk county authorities received calls from two parties in the Crookston area stating that two men in a car fitting the description had asked directions of them. The succession of the calls indicated that the fugitives were traveling north. Law enforcement officials from Pennington county aided in the search.

At about 4 p.m. Sheriff Ingebrigtsen received a call from a party in the Orleans area stating that a car had gotten stuck and that its occupents were in need of help. The car proved to be that of the jailbreakers, who had travelled mostly on back - country roads throughout the day. About a half-hour later, the two men were apprehended.

Bestman and Coryell were taken to the Polk county jail in Crookston. After waiving extradition, they were returned to the Cass county jail in Fargo, where they are currently held on charges of jailbreaking and auto theft.

The Prowlers' Hockey Opener

Coach George Schlieff's hockey Prowlers will begin play on their 1965-66 season Wednesday night when they meet coach Ed Thomlinson's East Grand Forks squad on the arena ice. Weather and ice conditions permitting, there will be a preliminary game, starting at 6:30 p.m. between the Prowler and Green Wave B squads.

While coach Schlieff's squad is well-supplied with veterans from last season's campaign, the Prowlers will be handicapped by lack of ice time. The Prowlers have had to resort to a couple of turns on outdoor rinks as the ice in the arena rink is not, or was not, set for skating.

Returning for this season's schedule are the following, who were on the Prowlers' state tournament squad: goalie Jeff Noel, defensement Wayne Smith, Merle Sampson and Reddy Carlson, and forwards Billy Poole, John Olson, Bill Dicken, Dan Brouse and Monte LeMoine. Graduation took such boys as Buzz Olson, Paul Peterson, Dennis Sullivan, Jerry Forsberg and Bobby Stordahl.

Last season, in 26 games, the Prowlers marked up a record of sixteen wins, six losses, and four ties. The locals gained a berth in the state high school tournament by scoring a 2 to 1 win over Duluth East in a playoff game to determine the Region Three representative.

Following Wednesday night's game here, the next hockey action for the Prowlers will be a game against Duluth East at Duluth on Saturday, Dec. 18. Faceoff at Duluth is slated for 8 p.m.

He Was a Great One

While it is true that the style and tempo of high school and college basketball has changed greatly in the past 50 years, it is perhaps a fact that Francis (Doble) Stadsvold, who died last week in Crookston at the age of 74, would have been a star during the present era.

Stadsvold played his high school basketball at Fosston, and he finished high school just a year or so before the Greyhounds of 1913 won the first state high school title. Doble, with his quick reflexes and low-arching shot, was a sensation in high school, and he went on to greatness as a Minnesota Gopher basketball player.

While Stadsvold's athletic fame is centered on his basketball prowess, as a player and later as a coach at West Virginia, he was also a capable football player. I can recall a season, some year after the end of World War I, when an independent football league was organized in this area. The league was short-lived, but while it was in existence, Stadsvold was a quarterback of the Fosston team.

The Thief River Falls team was coached by Perry Johnson, who played at Minnesota, where Bernie Bierman was a teammate. Perry's younger brother Guy was also a member of the local club, along with Al Holzknecht, Les Hendry and others. As I recall the game it was played on the fairgrounds field, and the locals, keeping Stadsvold in check, won the game. But he was a threat whenever he attempted to sweep the ends.

Making Haste Slowly

It is inevitable that the district and regional basketball set-up in the state will be re-shuffled, but it is apparent that the State High School Board of Control is making haste slowly.

According to the reports that have been released, it appears that the school representatives in Regions Six and Eight are opposed to any drastic change. But with the concentration of student attendance in the metropolitan area, it is just a matter of time before basketball districts will be re-apportioned according to high school student membership. And the big schools are in the Twin Cities area.

A preliminary plan indicates that Region Eight will be beefed up by the addition of Moorhead, Detroit Lakes, Hawley, Wadena and other schools from Region Six.

But while the Board of Control is discussing the basketball situation they should spend a moment or two on the state high school hockey set-up. Why should the Twin Cities have five entries in the state tournament while northern Minnesota is limited to but three berths! That's a good question, and it deserves a good answer.

Wrestlers Second In Invitational

The Moorhead Spuds won the Class A title in the Sioux Invitional wrestling tourney held at UND at Grand Forks on Saturday, edging out the Prowlers of coach Ed Krystosek, 85 to 83. Other team totals in the Class A competition were Park Rapids, 67; Fergus Falls, 58; Crookston Central, 40; Rugby, N.D., 37; Fargo North, 25; and Devils Lake, N.D., 12.

The Spuds gained their title by the margin of a split decision by the officials, 2 to 1, in the championship match in the 127 pound class. Les Nordhagen of the Prowlers and Dick Callender of the Spuds ended their match in 0 to 0 draw, but Callender was given the decision.

In third place, or consolation competition, Luke Kaushagen defeated Moorhead's Jim McCabe, 4-0, in a 154-pound match; Don Hanson scored a 4-2 win over Crookston's Kent Charron in 175-pound match; and Bruce Parnham pinned Fargo North's Larry Anderson in a heavyweight match.

In winning the 112-pound title Myles Olson pinned Moorhead's Greg Granrud in a first round match, and then scored a 2-0 decision over Park Rapids' Roger Pihinja in a semi-finals match. In the finals, Olson beat Rugby's Tom Lavik, 7-5.

In 120-pound wrestling the Prowlers' Steve Furuseth scored a 6-5 win over Crookston's Rick Kaltenberg in a first-round match, and then bested Park Rapids' Jim Costello, 3-1 in a semi-finals match. In the finals, Furuseth defeated Moorhead's Mark Braille, 3-0.

Rod Collver scored a first-round win, by a 8-3 score, over Moorhead's Ron Peterson in the 133-pound class. Collver then defeated Fargo North's Dave Rhinhart, 3-0; and won the championship finals by scoring a 7 to 1 win over Crookston's Jack Christensen.

Schaefer Elected Marshall County Fair Secretary

William Schaefer and Harveydale Maruska were elected secretary and treasuere respectively of the Marshall county fair association at the reorganizational meeting of the board following the annual stockholders meeting Wednesday night.

Schaefer, Warren postmaster, who has served as the treasurer of the association for many years, was elected secretary to succeed Ken Nelson, who has served in this capacity during the past 15 years. Nelson will continue to serve on the board.

Succeeding Schaefer as secretary is Senator Maruska, presently of Angus, who will move to Warren as soon as his new home, now under construction, is ready for occupancy. Maruska has announced that he will retire as senator from the 65th district, Polk and Pennington counties, at the close of his present term and will devote his time as a representative of Investor's Diversified Services.

O. M. Mattson, Warren, was reelected president and Peter Grant, Stephen, was reelected vice president of the organization.

The annual report presented by the secretary and treasurer revealed that the 1965 operation of cess with receipts totaling $17,219.10 and expenditures totaling $18,356.48. The year started with a balance of $2,033.30 and ended with a balance of $895.92. However, the association has an additional $2,700 from its county levy which was not included at the time the report was made. This, added to the $895.92, brings the cash balance to more than $3,700. A state reimbursement for premiums paid will bring in another estimated $2,100 or more, the retiring secretary pointed out. The association reduced its debt by $1,000 during the year.

The stockholders also reelected Rep. Richard Fitzsimons, Argyle; Milton O. Sands, Alvarado; Warren A. Saetre and O. M. Mattson, Warren; and Peter Tandberg, Newfolden for three-year terms and Charles Nelson, Marshall county agent, to a one-year term on the board.

Directors elected Jesse Filipi, Harveydale Maruska and William Schaefer as delegates and Dr. W. L. Lamb, Milton O. Sands and O. M. Mattson as alternates to the annual meetings of the Minnesota State Agricultural society and Minnesota Federation of County Fairs which will be held in St. Paul January 16-19.

May Appy for Naval Academy

Sales Tax Proves Biggest Producer In Many States

Role of the sales tax as the most important single source of revenue for state governments is strengthening, according to Charles P. Stone, executive director of the Minnesota Taxpayers association.

Stone cited statistics reported by the U. S. Department of Commerce in its publication "State Tax Collections: 1965, GF No. 1", which show that:

Thirty of the 37 states then employing the sales tax found it to be their best revenue producer.

Nation-wide, state revenues from sales taxes increased 10.3 per cent over the preceding year, while revenues from all other tax sources were up 6.8 per cent.

Sales taxes produced nearly 26 per cent of the $26,100,000,000 total of all tax revenues collected by all 50 states.

Stone noted that since the period covered in the report New York and Idaho have incorporated the sales tax in their tax structures, leaving only 11 states—including Minnesota—in the "no sales tax" category.

"The penalties imposed by political unwillingness to enact a replacement sales tax, coupled with continuing increases in the costs of state and local government, will be felt throughout Minnesota in 1966," Stone said.

"From the standpoint of property owners, the tax bills on most homes, farms and business properties will climb to record highs.

"From the broader economic viewpoint, the lack of a modern tax structure will continue to discourage the industrial and commercial expansion needed to provide full employment at industrial wage levels."

To Direct Roseau County Welfare

Thomas Lindquist, presently working with the Dakota county welfare department, has been hired as the new director of the Roseau county welfare department effective December 13. Lindquist, married and the father of three children, will move to Roseau where he has rented the house formerly occupied by Al Main, who is welfare director at Walker. Lindquist is a graduate of St. John's University.

Small Business Firms May Seek Gov't. Contracts

Action by the Small Business administration to increase small business participation in government research and development work continues to show results, according to Harry A. Sieben, Minneapolis' SBA regional director.

The SBA official said that qualified small businesses are constantly being added to the agency's list of those seeking research and development work, either as prime or subcontractors.

"This makes it possible for us to build up our nationwide referral system under which we submit data on these small companies to both government and private research and development purchasing officers," Sieben stated. "We also keep on the alert for upcoming procurements of work so we can pass this information on to the small firms listed with us.

"Despite increases each year in the amount of government-generated research and development work, the small business share remains at a low level," Sieben added. "Federal agencies last year spent about $15 billion on such projects, compared with $13.5 billion the previous year. Less than five per cent of the dollar value of the contracts went to small businesses."

Sieben urged small firms in this locality which are interested in registering with SBA for possible contract referrals to contact the office located at 603 Second Avenue South, Minneapolis.

Plummer FHA Has Installation for 1965-66 Officers

On December 2 the Plumer chapter of the Future Homemakers of America installed its 1965-66 officers. The new President, Janet Martell, opened the meeting. The F.H.A. prayer song was sung and Suzanne Mandt directed the installation ceremony. The new officers are Janet Martell president; Jane Linder, vice president; Mary Schjeldrup, secretary; Vickie Hanson, treasurer; Karen Eskeli, song leader; Marie Frulland, parliamentarian; and Jolayne Greenwald, historian-reporter.

After the installation of officers, the president presented F. H. A. pins to the senior girls and the F. H. A. creed was recited.

The meeting was closed and a movie on Camp Courage was shown. Added entertainment was given by several junior and senior girls who presented two humorous skits.

Lunch was served to the members and their mothers by the freshmen girls.

Pedestrians Must Be Extra Careful During Winter

For pedestrians, winter is generally the most dangerous time of year, but many of them continue to walk as if they were a match for any car, in spite of slippery streets and blowing snow, according to Elgton Cummings, Thief River Falls police chief.

Slippery streets, high collars blocking vision, visibility limited by falling snow and every walker trying to keep warm these are some of the factors that contribute to pedestrian accidents, he said. The walker, trying to keep warm and in a hurry, often forgets about the slippery street or the falling snow, and that cars take up to 10 times more distance to stop on icy surfaces.

For his own welfare, the pedestrian has to realize that the only means of protecting himself, in any season, is alertness to the dangers he faces in traffic.

At this time of year there is also that particular danger for the Christmas shopper, who is carrying a load of packages across streets in heavy downtown traffic doesn't always see the car that sends him to the hospital or kills him.

"We hear a lot about driving carefully, but we have to walk carefully, too," Chief Cummings said. "For this holiday month, and the rest of the winter, walk as if every car you see and every car you don't see is a threat to your safety."

"Here is the secret of inspiration. Tell yourself that thousands and tens of thousands of people, not very intelligent and certainly no more intelligent than the rest of us, have mastered problems as difficult as those that now baffle you."
—William Feather

Learning from Nature

Park rangers in national parks in the western United States caution visitors against feeding the animals. They explain the reasons for their requests as follows:

Deer grow accustomed to visitors' handouts and lose the ability to feed for themselves. Bears come to believe that free food is their due—and become grouchy and violent if they don't get it. Chipmunks and squirrels congregate where handouts are supplied and thus upset the balance of nature.

Man could learn a little from nature along this line, for man's temperament parallels that of the animals mentioned. When government doles out funds to all who seek them, some men become dependent upon them and lose the ability to take care of themselves. Others believe they deserve the funds and—like the national park bears—"become grouchy and violent if they don't get it". And certainly, man crowds around government handout sources.

For man, just like the rest of God's creations, disaster strikes when the balance is upset. It's the wise animal—and the wise man—who stays away from the handout and maintains his independence. Life is better that way.

Saving Money?

George Farr, state DFL chairman, would have citizens of the state believe that Governor Rolvaag's insistence on prior agreement in reapportionment would save thousands of dollars in the event of a special session. Farr notes that a legislative session costs $10,000 per day and that reapportionment could be accomplished in a two-day session with prior agreement.

Without prior agreement the session could last much longer, adding to expense which must be paid by the state. Lloyd Duxbury, speaker of the house, has estimated that a bill could be passed in 10 days without prior agreement. Farr says this could cost Minnesotans an unnecessary $80,000.

Everyone is tax-conscious these days, and Farr's news release has been given considerable publicity around the state. The governor is being made to appear as a money-minded man who wants to save the state some money. This makes good propaganda but, like all propaganda, overlooks a very obvious point.

If a special session is called after prior agreement and that session takes two days at $10,000 per day, the state would not save $80,000. It would lose $20,000 since the special session would not have been necessary at all except for the governor's veto of the reapportionment bill passed by the 1965 legislature. It would also lose the expense that went into preparation of the initial bill which the governor rejected.

We are not optimistic about a special session. If the governor and his liberal backers in the legislature can gain enough concessions to swing reapportionment their way politically, such a session is possible. Without such concessions, the liberals would just as well take their chances with the federal courts which are not beyond being a little partisan in such matters.

And he fact still remains that many liberals—and particularly their union backers Minnesota. This would enable the unions to concentrate efforts on a slate of candidates from their own ranks or sympathetic to their cause, campaign heavily in the metropolitan areas and—with the voters confused and vote divided in the rural areas—gain virtual control of the state governing body. Few will argue that Gov. Rolvaag is not indebted to the unions and is inclined to comply with their requests.

Therefore we believe that whatever cost of a special session is incurred, it may be morally billed to the governor and his earlier veto. (And we imagine there was also no little cost to the state to determine if the veto was legal.) Furthermore, whatever expense of a special session to accomplish reapportionment will be money well spent from the standpoint of rural Minnesota.

Is It Worth It?

We recently received a report from Washington by Stewart L. Udall, secretary of the interior. In this report he comments on efforts by the department's program to benefit "endangered species" of wildlife—some 78 different birds, mammals, reptiles, fishes and amphibians considered to be in danger of extinction.

Emphasis will be placed on research with up to 12 biologists assigned to field investigations in the near future. Cited for immediate study are the California condor, black-footed ferret and ivory-billed woodpecker. The report notes that nearly 40 of America's native birds and mammals have disappeared during the past 150 years—almost half of them since the turn of the century.

While there is an element of regret in noting the passing of these wild creatures into extinction, there is also some question in regard to just how far the nation should go in efforts to prevent it. For instance, how badly missed are the 40 species which have become extinct in the past 150 years? How much will the nation miss the California condor, black-footed ferret and ivory-billed woodpecker? For that matter, how many people can list even several of the species which have become extinct in the United States?

We are sure there are conservationists who will severely criticize such a cold approach to the question. They will argue that such species must be preserved at all cost. Why?

It is nature's law that some species are dependent upon others. The black-footed ferret began to decline when prairie dogs—its principal source of food—were exterminated as nuisance varmints to agriculture. The ivory-billed woodpecker declined when logging took the forests from swamps in southeastern states. Extinction of the species has come about because of their loss of a place to live, food to eat or a mission to fulfill in nature's cycle.

Unless vast changes are made to revert huge areas of land to their original state—and this is neither practical nor possible—we will have to resign ourselves to the fact that some of the creatures which the nation has known will disappear entirely. They will be no longer needed, and nature is harsh on her creatures who do not perform a needed task.

We believe the interior department would do better to devote its efforts toward preservation and increase of wild creatures which perform a significant role in the nation. These are the birds and mammals which hundreds of thousands of sportsmen seek out each year. Habitat of these species is still available in many cases, and the species themselves have shown ability to adapt to the encroachment of man upon their domain.

Work with the antelope disappearing from the Western plains and declining populations of grouse, pheasants (not native) and other game would have more real value than expending any large sums on anything so insignificant as an ivory-billed woodpecker. In this case, we believe practicality is stronger than emotion.

Current Events Christmas

It seems that toy manufacturers have a knack for capitalizing on whatever happens to be a current fad—and in many cases they create a fad through their own extensive promotions. Never is this more evident than at Christmas when store displays, gift catalogs, and circulars proclaim the articles in displays, pictures and glowing words.

There has also been a trend toward the "educational" type of toy which is designed to stimulate the imagination or develop coordination, knowledge or interest of the child. If these toys can be combined with is likely to strike a productive—if short-lived—gold mine.

With these facts in mind, it will be stran if we do not see some of the following items advertised for Christmas giving:

DRAFT CARD BURNING KIT. This kit contains 20 authentic-looking draft cards, a book of matches and a 32-page book on "How to Avoid Helping at Home". Imagine how the kids in the neighborhood will crowd around when you announce that you are going to burn your draft card—just like the big kids do on TV. Watch their look of envy when you produce the card and set it afire. The 32-page booklet, complete with 26 illustrations, shows how to avoid helping at home by hiding, running away, pretending to be ill, "hiding" tools, stalling, throwing temper tantrums and many others. Be an individual—join the crowd! From $1.99.

LET'S PLAY PRESIDENT. Here is a real fun game, designed for children of action. It contains a colorful board with easel back and holes labeled "Poverty", "Votes", "Viet Nam" and "Civil Rights". Also included is a large supply of play money. Blindfolded players take turns to see who can stuff the money into the four holes in the shortest time. Winner gets to wear the LBJ badge (included) until the winner of the next game is decided. Wearer of badge can be a consistent winner, for set contains a pad of blank paper to be used for the winner to write his own rules. $2.79 (plus federal tax).

UNITED NATIONS. Excellent party game for as many as want to can play. All players sit around in a circle. Object of the game is for everyone to talk at once so that none of the others can be heard. New players can be admitted at any time during the game. Play ends when all players can agree on dissolution. Complete with list of subjects for players to discuss and small red flags for three-fourths of the players to wave while talking. (Price open to negotiation).

CIVIL RIGHTS GAME. This game contains a plastic container with 100 white balls one inch in diameter and 100 black blocks one inch square. A large board with 100 round one-inch holes forms the playing field. Players use tongs to pick up the balls and blocks and drop them through the holes, alternating between black blocks and white balls. Players shout "discrimination" each time they find a black block won't fit. Those successful in forcing the square blocks through the round holes may wear Martin Luther King badge (included). Also marketed under name, "Great Society". Price: 98 cents in silverless coin.

More people, better highways, better income and more leisure time add up to a rather strong potential for Minnesota's tourism business during the next 10 years.

Research economist Donald E. Lodge, with the North Star Research and Development institute, comes to that conclusion in the current issue of "Tourist Travel Notes", an extension publication of the University of Minnesota. North Star conducted a research study, "The Development of Outdoor Recreation in the Upper Midwest," during 1964 for the Upper Midwest Research and Development council.

He bases this outlook on these factors:

1. Better Highways. Completion of the interstate highway system will allow people to cover more miles per day. This will mean enlarging the potential market area radii from the present 500 miles to 625 miles. Thus, the Bemidji, Brainerd, Grand Rapids, Park Rapids and Walker areas will see almost a nine per cent increase in potential market population when the interstate highway is completed. The Twin Cities area will have a five per cent increase as a result of this factor.

2. More People. The expected population increase between 1960 and 1976 is also a significant factor in the growing potential for tourism. Coupled with the effect of the completed interstate highway system, the total result is estimated to be a 42 per cent gain in potential market population for Bemidji and the surrounding area, and a 44 per cent increase for the Twin Cities.

3. Expected Increase in Income Levels. More families will be in higher income brackets allowing for more spending on nonessential items, which include outdoor recreation and travel. Per capita personal income in Minnesota's potential market area is expected to increase by 47 per cent between 1960 and 1976.

4. Expected Increases in Leisure Time. This increase will come in the form of shorter working days, shorter work weeks and longer paid vacations. Each will have a different effect on the demand for outdoor recreation at any geographical location. Shorter working days will probably have little effect on demands for any recreational facilities except those in or near urban areas. And, of couse, such changes will have no important effect on demand for overnight lodging.

On the other hand, more people with weekends of two and one-half or three days duration will benefit the southern portion of the Minnesota north woods. Longer paid vacations will increase the market potential of all areas of Minnesota.

Lodge cautions, however, that market potential is the measure of the size of the market available to all firms in the industry lying within a given geographic area. This potential does not ensure any individual resort operator or group of operators a specified level of business. How this potential pays off for various states and operators will depend on the relative efforts of each on product development, advertising and promotion expenditures, and so on.

Research on how chemicals are taken up and held by soils will be accelerated at the University of Minnesota, as a result of additional funds from the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

A new project is being launched to investigate the uptake of the chlorinated hydrocarbons by clay and organic soils, and to learn more about the nature of soil pesticides themselves.

Chlorinated hydrocarbons include the insecticides DDT, aldrin, dieldrin and methoxychlor. Such chemicals tend to be the most persistent and therefore raise some of the most crucial problems of residues in soils.

The research is under the direction of Russell Adams Jr., soil chemist, and is supported by a $104,000 grant from the U.S. Department of Agriculture. It will be co-ordinated with similar research at the University of Wisconsin.

Adams will study a wide variety of Minnesota soils, working with both surface and sub-surface samplings. He will attempt to characterize them chemically to determine what might influence renention of chemicals.

He will study the up-take of these compounds by clay and organic materials under controlled laboratory conditions, and then seek similar effects in fields.

These retention characteristics will also be studied in terms of the chemical's effect on some particular insect or insects.

Adams has done similar research in the past on herbicides, such as atrazine and simazine, which tend to persist from one season to the next in soil. In general, less is known about insecticide residues than about herbicides.

Results on persistence on chemicals vary. A 1961 study in the state of Washington indicated that 23 to 33 per cent of the DDT remained in the soil after 10 years. This is a "half life" of about 5.4 years.

Studies in Mississippi and in New Jersey showed that DDT had a half life of under a year.

In one study, trace amounts of aldrin and heptachlor were detected either as the parent compound or in a toxic, but broken down form, nine years after being applied.

The Library Corner

BY Virginia Gjernes

It's just like Christmas at your library! Boxes and boxes keep arriving, but there's not a sign of a "do not open before. . ." sticker. So the boxes were opened and what did they contain? Books. Lots just waiting for you to take home and enjoy.

Here's just a partial selection: why not cut out the list and stick it in your purse or pocket so next time you're in the library you can pick up a few of the new ones?

"A Crack in the Sidewalk" by Ruth Wolff. This novel tells a heartachingly beautiful story about a little girl, who possesses a lovely singing voice. The little girl grows up and the book is about that phase of her life, too. Other characters include a frail father, a little, speechless brother and beautiful sister, and a mother who is busy living other people's lives because she seemingly has none of her own.

If the years following the Civil War are filled with interest to you, you'll enjoy "The Beloved Invader" by Eugenia Price. A novel about the South, (St. Simons Island, Georgia) and the people who inhabit it. Their trials become your very own and you also share their happiness, all of it, whenever and however they find it.

Western fans will pick up "Backtrack" and won't be able to put the Million Loit volume back on the shelf until they've read every single word of it. This portrays the wild American West at its very best.

Philip Wylie Devotees will hasten to read "They Both Were Naked". Those who know Wylie are familiar with his ability to dig beneath the surface of his characters and bring forth the "why's and wherefores" of their actions.

Little lovers of literature (be it good, bad or in-between) will be simply delighted with "The King, The Mice and The Cheese" by Eric and Nancy Gurney; teen-agers will please note "Mystery at Love's Creek" by Betty Cavanna. (She seems to be the favorite of every teen.)

Nathaniel Benchley tears at your heart strings in "A Firm Word or Two", which is a story of paternity and parenthood. Fathers, of any age, and mothers, of every size, will be the better for having set aside the time to enjoy this novel.

Pamela Frankau captures the readers attention with the first words of her newest, "Slaves Of The Lamp". The setting of the story is Britain, namely London. The main character is Thomas Weston. There is also an American girl ("Rab") so you take it from there! Oh, yes. . the 'time' is 'before the War'! Just a little before.

"A Family Affair" by Mel Helmer is a dramatic story, one you're not likely to forget. . at least not soon! There is Gordie Harris, the father, who is 'movie-star-big-time'; there is his alcoholic wife, who is also the mother of their two sons, One, Slade and the other Chad. The story revolves around Chad, a genius who becomes a convict, and the conflicts, both inner and outer, which bewilder him.

Mystery fans! Calling all mystery fans! Here's one you're sure to like. The author is that wonder of the mystery-tale world Doris Miles Disney. You'll be sitting on the edge of your easy chair all the while you read this one behind locked doors. You won't even be able to trust your best friend after you've turned the last page!

Non-fiction - shelf - searchers will go home happy if they tuck John Peer Nugent's new "Call Africa 999" under their arm. The author survived beatings, firing squads, cannibal attacks and, well, just name it, he lived through it and was able to write it all down for you!

How's Your Health?

(Prepared in the public interest by the Minnesota Medical Ass'n)

A child falls down and bumps his nose. A nosebleed results but bleeding stops in a matter of minutes. This is a form of bleeding which is easily explainable and unless the nose appears to be flattened or disfigured in any way there is usually no reason to call the doctor.

Such simple nosebleeds can usually be stopped by pressing the front part of the nose together with the thumb and forefinger and holding it there for five or ten minutes. If such simple measures do not control the bleeding there is the possibility that the bleeding is further back in the nose and stopping the flow of blood in such instances will require forms of treatment which only a physician can give.

For most people it is not necessary to worry that each time their nose bleeds they are going to have a stroke or that their blood pressure is up. Actually, the great majority of nosebleeds do not have these factors as an underlying cause. For example, with the coming of winter a great many of the nosebleeds can be traced to the lack of moisture in the air.

A greater cause for alarm is bleeding from the bowels which may occur for a number of reasons. Structurally, the bowel has blood vessels on its inner surface and any time one of these blood vessels is broken, bleeding can occur. The usual cause for rectal bleeding from the bowel is a break in the skin. Hemorrhoids constitute another common cause for rectal bleeding. However, it is always wise to bring bleeding from the bowels to the attention of a doctor so that more serious causes can definitely be ruled out.

Bleeding in the bowels may be caused by tumors - both malignant and benign - also ulcerations, inflammation and infections.

Blood in the urine may have a simple cause such as a mild infection in the bladder. But, it can also be the first sign of a tumor of the kidney or of the bladder. Such bleeding most certainly should be investigated.

How long should a person delay in seeing a doctor if rectal bleeding or the presence of blood in the urine is noticed? There should be no delay, at all, says the Minnesota State Medical association. That is only common sense because it is much easier to find the cause of bleeding if it is fresh and occuring at the time of the examination, rather than waiting until a week or two has passed concludes the association.

Does that extra helping of holiday turkey and dressing, followed by sweet potatoes, cranberry sauce, salad, pumpkin pie and all the other trimmings give your stomach that uncomfortable upset feeling?

Indigestion? Perhaps in this instance, reports the Minnesota State Medical association. However, repeated complaints of gas on the stomach, heartburn, bad taste or pain may be the symptoms of a more serious digestive disorder which can be helped if recognized and treated early. Except when indigestion is obviously due to overeating or drinking the trouble may be a symptom of a variety of conditions ranging from indiscretion to ulcers or even cancer.

Contrary to popular belief gas is rarely found in the stomach. If there should be gas in the stomach, it is present in small quantities that the only symptom may be a small belch at long intervals. Loud and repeated belches are usually due to the habit of swallowing air and bringing it up with varying degrees of force.

Taking alkalies like bicarbonate of soda to relieve stomach disorders merely produces carbonic acid, which is the result of combining the bicarbonate with natural stomach acids. This chemical action produces large quantities of real gas. When the patient belches it up he thinks he has got rid of his stomach gas, when all that has been actually accomplished is to produce gas artificially and then push it up.

Because of the physical structure of the heart and its surrounding area it is impossible for gas to form around the heart, another popular misconception. Heart distress may result if the intestines are blown up with gas or even if the stomach is full of swallowed air, with the result that there is pressure on the diaphram. If a person already has heart trouble this could upset heart action.

The burning sensation under the breast bone, known as heartburn, also has nothing to do with the heart. Heartburn is due to stretching of the lower end of the swallowing tubes by food or stomach juices. Occasionally a little of this material may travel upward into the mouth and throat, accompanied by a sour acid taste. Many times this condition is mistaken for hyperacidity or too much acid in the stomach.

It is important that persons who complain of hyperacidity should get away from the idea that everything can be solved by taking an alkali or another medicine. The symptom may mean a more serious disease which can be best diagnosed and treated by a physician. Pain in the stomach or surrounding region may also indicate real trouble.

If you have what appears to be real indigestion don't rely on self-diagnosis or home remedies. Go to a physician and find out what is the matter, the association concludes.

QUESTIONS Answered for VETERANS

Q—May a 100 per cent disabled veteran take out a loan on the new GI "J" insurance, and if so, how much may he obtain?

A—After a veteran has held the policy for at least one year, he can borrow up to 94 per cent of the cash value of the policy. However, if not repaid, it will reduce the face value of the policy by the amount borrowed, plus interest.

Q—Will dividends be paid on the new GI "J" insurance as on the original NSLI policies issued during World War II?

A—No, the new "J" insurance is not issued as a participating type policy and does not pay dividends.

Q—My pension was discontinued when I received an extra large dividend which put me over the ceiling. Does this mean I am no longer able to receive a pension?

A—If this was a one-time payment, your pension will only be discontinued for the current year. Next year you will again be eligible, providing your income reverts to the status it was prior to being discontinued.

Q—I am a disabled veteran and am receiving additional compensation for my 17-year-old son. He has enlisted in the U. S. Navy. Must I report this event to the VA, and will this action stop the additional compensation for my son?

A—The answer to both questions is "no", as the additional compensation will continue until your son reaches 18, regardless of his military service.

S—How much longer do I have to apply for reinstatement of my GI insurance under the new program for disabled veterans?

A—You have until midnight May 2, 1966. However, you should keep an eye on your own next birthday. Since insurance premiums are based on the age nearest your birthdate, you may wait too long and find that for insurance purposes you are a year older than you really are and the premium will be higher.

Q—Will my son, now serving in Korea, be able to obtain the new GI insurance?

A—A new law provides insurance coverage for servicemen. This insurance is automatic, unless the serviceman signifies in writing that he does not desire the insurance. A small monthly sum will be deducted from his pay.

Q—Will the Veterans administration give families of veterans the right to make purchases at military commissaries?

A—The Veterans administration has no connection with military commissaries and cannot grant purchase privileges.

Q—My husband is receiving a nonservice-connected pension from the VA. I would like to know if I start working would it have any effect on the amount of the pension that my husband now receives.

A—In determining the veteran's income for a nonservice-connection pension, none of the earned income (wages, salaries, etc.) of a veteran's spouse will be counted as the veteran's income.

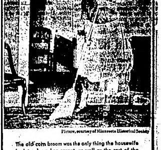
REMEMBER THE "GOOD OLD DAYS"?


Picture, courtesy of Minnesota Historical Society
The old corn broom was the only thing the housewife had to clean her carpet, as well as the rest of the house. Today's versatile electric vacuum cleaner cleans faster, better, and covers a wider scope in cleaning. Carbon Monoxide May Be Factor in Mystery Crashes

Nobody knows how many people are killed annually by carbon monoxide poisoning but many believe that it is a major factor in the approximately 14,000 so-called mystery car crash fatalities each year, according to Anthony Madunich, president of the Pennington County Safety council.

The mystery crash is the one-car traffic accident resulting in the death of the occupants of the car and where no apparent cause of the accident can be determined, with drivers running off the road and overturning or crashing into a fixed object. It is believed that many hundreds of these fatal accidents are caused each year by carbon monoxide.

The threat of carbon monoxide poisoning is worse in the winter, when many people drive with all the windows rolled up, Madunich pointed out.

Carbon monoxide has neither odor, color nor taste. There is no way the driver can detect its presence except, perhaps, when he is becoming dizzy or drowsy—and then it is usually too late to do anything about it.

There is, however, a simple measure to avoid carbon monoxide poisoning. Whenever driving, open the side windows of the car slightly to keep fresh air coming in and any carbon monoxide going out. Also, make certain your car has a mechanically sound exhaust system, Madunich said.

He pointed out that even in a motor vehicle with a good exhaust system the poison can seep into the car, particularly when that car is parked with motor running to warm them up as so many are during winter.

Care Urged in Storing Guns To Avoid Accidents

State firearms safety supervisor Don Murray of the Minnesota conservation department today urged hunters to store their guns preferably locked up—to lessen chances of shooting accidents in the home.

Murray said that if all guns are checked carefully to make sure they are unloaded and then stored away with the ammunition confined in another place, the chances of children loading and firing the weapons will be greatly reduced. "Ideally," he said, "both guns and ammunition should be under lock and key".

Nationwide statistics show that the majority of accidents involving firearms stored in the home occur among children between the ages of five and 12 who often don't know the difference between a toy gun and the real thing.

Murray said that recomended safety precautions on storing guns should be applied to revolvers and pistols as well as to shotguns and rifles. About one-fourth of all home shooting accidents involve handguns, he said.

Driving Skills For Winter Are Noted in Test

1. Is it enough, for the sake of safe driving, to clear frost and snow completely from the windshield and rear window?

NO. The law, your safety and the safety of others demands that you also clear the front side windows of any frost or snow that prevents proper vision.

2. Is it true that stopping distance is doubled on ice?

FALSE. Stopping distance may be increased TEN TIMES when making an emergency stop in ice. At 20 miles per hour it takes only 21 feet to stop on dry pavement. But it takes 195 feet to stop on glare ice at the same speed.

3. Is the best way to stop in an emergency on any skippery surface to pump the brakes rapidly?

TRUE. Braking hard with the brake pedal held to the floor will increase the skidding and send you out of control.

4. If you should get stuck in snow, does it help to let some air out of the tires in order to get out?

NO. With today's low pressure tires this does not help. If you get stuck, first clear a path in the snow in front of the car. Then try getting out by feeding the gas slowly with the car in "Drive" or in second gear if a manual transmission. If this doesn't work, try to rock your way out by alternating from low to reverse. To make things easy in winter, use snow tires, studded tires or tire chains, or at least carry in the trunk of your car a shovel, a box of sand or a metal mat to place under the rear wheels in case you should get stuck.

5. If your car skids on a slippery surface, is it the best thing to immediately apply the brakes and FALSE. This would only increase the skidding. First steer the car in the direction the rear of the car is skidding in order to straighten out. Then, apply the brakes with a rapid but moderate pumping action to slow the car.

6. Is it true that the colder it is the more slippery ice becomes?

FALSE. Ice is dangerously slippery at any temperature but it is twice as slippery at 32 degrees than at zero. When traveling on ice, allow additional room between you and the car ahead as temperatures approach the melting point.

Minnesota Offers Good Success in Hunitng of Deer

Statistics show that the chances of a hunter bagging a deer in Minnesota are far greater than they are in either Wisconsin or Michigan. The Minnesota Conservation Department today released figures showing that the percentage of hunters bagging a deer in Minnesota for the years 1961 to 1964 averaged 42 per cent over the four-year period.

During the same period Wisconsin hunters averaged only 18 per cent and Michigan hunters only 20 per cent. Both of these states have far more deer hunters than Minnesota. In Wisconsin this figure rose from slightly over 300,000 in 1961 to 383,000 in 1964.

Michigan deer hunters increased from 420,000 in 1961 to 500,000 in 1964. The number of deer hunters in Minnesota during the four year period has varied from 244,000 to last year's record 279,000.

Since 1961 Wisconsin has never approached Minnesota in the number of deer taken by hunters. In 1961 Wisconsin hunters took 38,772 deer while their more fortunate fellow nimrods across the river to the west were taking 106,763.

During that same year Michigan hunters took only 57,000 deer and it was not until 1963 that Michigan finally overtook Minnesota in the number of deer taken.

But by 1963 Michigan had 497,000 hunters in the woods and in 1964 there were 500,000 while Minnesota had only 258,000 hunters and 279,000 during these two years.

FIRE burned a large hole in the wall in the Godfrey Carlson home located 3½ miles northwest of Thief River Falls Tuesday morning. The fire started in a stovepipe connection to the chimney which had been closed off on the living room side of the wall and packed with asbestos. Smoke was first noticed at about 11 a.m. and a call to Thief River Falls was answered by the Town of North Fire truck. Damage was confined to this area, and smoke damage was kept to a minimum. No damage estimate has been made, but Carlson said he expects that his insurance will cover it.

Boxcar Shortage Curtails Shipment Of Grain in Area

Thief River Falls and area communities are feeling the pinch of a shortage of boxcars on railroads serving this area. A recent Associated Press dispatch noted that railroad officials in Minnesota described the shortage as the worst in history.

Vern Erickson of the Soo Line railroad in Thief River Falls noted that there is a very definite need for additional boxcars for grain movement in this area with "a lot of plugged elevators" along the line.

A Soo Line official was quoted "We feel that the boxcar shortage has never been as bad as this for an extended period of time." A Great Northern official, Harry J. Surles, said, "We're running about 4,000 unfilled grain orders. Most of those orders involve government shipments of Commodity Credit corporation grain."

The Soo Line, Great Northern and Northern Pacific railroads own a total of 51,500 boxcars, but now have the use of only 32,270, including cars owned by many other railroads. The shortage is said to be general throughout the country and has apparently become worse with shipment of grain to India through West Coast ports and increases in supplies for Viet Nam.

Shortage of cars has been a problem since the start of the fall the Interstate Commerce commission has issued an order "that's supposed to supply us with additional cars", but "so far the order has been ineffectual."

The railroads at this time of the year normally have use of 80 to 85 per cent of the cars. They own, but the Soo Line now has 72 per cent, the Great Northern 65 per cent and the Northern Pacific 56 per cent.

Car loss occurs when cars owned by a particular railroad are in transit on other lines and used by those lines for shipment before being loaded for return to the railroad which owns them.

Architect Is Hired for Vocational School Plans

Initial action toward possible establishment of the Thief River Falls area vocational-technical school on its own site was taken by the Thief River Falls board of education Monday evening. The board hired the architectural firm of Jyring and Whiteman of Hibbing to serve as architects for the vocational school project.

Official action of the board on a unanimous vote of the six members present followed lengthy discussion of the vocational school situation with Eino Jyring and Richard Whiteman of the architectural firm. The architects have been retained for about 75 school projects in northern Minnesota, including the industrial arts buildings at Bemidji State college and the University of Minnesota at Duluth and vocational schools at Hibbing and Bemidji.

Board members expressed concern Monday night about the operation of present vocational welding and auto body classes in "substandard" rental facilities. The Minnesota department of education had previously notified the school that no additional vocational school courses would be approved in rental quarters.

The board informed the architects that approximately $100,000 is now available for vocational school improvement with district funds. It was also generally agreed, in accordance with existing programs, that a similar amount could be obtained through state and federal sources for planning, fund acquisition and building construction.

Members of the board also voiced the opinion that any new vocational school construction should be carried out with coordination between the local school district and the state junior college board. Jyring, a member of the junior college board, stated that he could see no reason why architects for the two entities could not confer with regard to a master plan for a specified area.

Much of the discussion was in generalities and questions of possible procedure. Manner and method of qualifying for government funds complicates the situation, as does the coordination between the local district and the junior college board the latter of which must have many of its decisions formally sanctioned by the state legislature. The school board expressed the thought that hiring an architect would provide a sound basis for future decisions and action.

Supt. M. R. Hankerson was instructed to write Phillip Helland, executive secretary of the junior college board, asking the board to cooperate with the local district's architect in exploring the possibility of coordinated planning between the local and state bodies.

Set Dollar Levies

The board also set dollar amounts for the tax levy for various school purposes. Mill levy for these purposes were approved earlier by the board. Levies set include $113,000 for maintenance, $11,000 for capital outlay and $173,900 for debt redemption—a total of $629,900. The mill levy will remain the same as the previous year at 162.2 mills for non-agricultural land and 137.2 for agricultural land.

Supt. Hankerson was also instructed to secure information on several new programs which might be introduced through the vocational school under the Manpower Development and Training act. Courses proposed are radio announcing, electrical lineman and law enforcement training.

Several other matters were discussed and referred for study with no definite action taken.

Art Heinze, chairman of the Christmas lighting contest sponsored by the Thief River Falls Jaycees, has reminded Thief River Falls residents that the deadline for entering the contest is Friday, December 17. Entries postmarked Friday will be eligible for competition.

Homeowners may enter any of the three contest divisions best religious, best non-religious and most original. Plaques will be awarded for first place in each division and several honorable mention awards will also be presented. There is no entry fee to compete in the event.

Only individual homes will be judged in the contest, Heinze said. Group or neighborhood projects will not be considered. A panel of three judges will make the selection of division winners on the basis of a judging criteria established by the Jaycee committee.

An entry form was published on page 1 of the December 13 edition of the Times. Contest entrants may clip and use that entry blank or include the information requested on a card or in a letter addressed to Christmas Lighting Contest, P. O. Box 53, Thief River Falls. Entries should include the name of the entrant, address and signature, as well as noting the appropriate division in which the lighting is to be judged.

"We are hopeful that a number of entries will be received for the contest although no similar event has been held in recent years," Heinze said. "The Jaycees feel that persons who exert considerable effort and expense to decorate their homes and yards should be given public recognition.

We believe the contest will accomplish this, and also encourage others to help beautify the city with home lighting projects."

Veterans Should Check Beneficiary On GI Policies

Many veterans in Minnesota and North Dakota are neglecting to keep up to date thir listing of a beneficiary for the GI insurance policy and proceeds may not be paid to the desired individual nor in the manner the veteran would wish.

John R. Parrish, Fargo VA center director, said a divorced wife or wealthy parent may take precedence over a present wife or children since the VA must pay the proceeds of the insurance policy to the beneficiary-designated by the veteran himself.

Parrish said that recent sampling in which a group of veterans were asked if they wished to change the beneficiary brought six out of 10 affirmative replies. Necessary form for these changes may be obtained from the VA center, Fargo, N.D. in person or by correspondence.

A similar workshop is being conducted by SBA today in Detroit Lakes.

"It is not enough to have savings and a desire to be your own boss," the group was told at the Tuesday session. "You should have, or acquire, both technical and management experience. You need an understanding of what is required in the fields of financing, law and management. You need to know where to go for advice and assistance.

"Have you itemized what it will cost to buy equipment and inventory, and to run your business until it can show a profit? Location can be all-important. Community conditions, competition, traffic patterns, parking needs, rental requirements and other factors must be considered."

Speakers also covered local, state and federal regulations, zoning laws, licensing requirements, health regulations and local, state and federal taxes. Information was also given as to where prospective business owners can go for advice and assistance. Mentioned were bankers, accountants, lawyers and trade associations.

Fog Dissipates But Cold Moves Into Times Area

Fog which blanketed the area last week has disappeared and colder weather is descending on the Times area this week. North Central Airlines personnel at the Thief River Falls municipal airport report a forecast calling for highs near 25 today but lows from -5 to 5 degrees tonight.

High and low temperatures and precipitation during the past several days included 29 and 17 with four inches of snow on Monday, 20 and 13 with one inch of snow Tuesday and a low last night of eight degrees—the coldest reading since the seasonal low of 2 degrees December 6.

Lowell Vran, station manager for North Central, said that the fog last week resulted in the cancellation of 31 scheduled boardings, retarding the local station's drive to set an all-time record for boardings in one year at the Thief River Falls airport.

Dickson Barley Is Not Approved

Malting Barley Improvement association has announced that the new North Dakota barley variety Dickeson has not yet been adequately tested for its suitability as a malting and brewing barley. This variety cannot be classified until adequate plant scale testing has been completed.

Plant scale tests on a single carlot of 1964 crop Dickson were inconclusive. More extensive plant scale malting and brewing tests will be made on a number of carlets grown in North Dakota in 1965.

On the basis of industry tests over a period of years, some concern has developed over the apparent susceptibility of Dickson to kernel blight. Samples not heavily blighted often had an unattractive color. It has also been noted that Dickson, under average growing conditions, has a lower per cent of plump kernels and a higher per cent of thin kernels than the present popular malting varieties, especially Larker. This lower per cent of plump kernels could put Dickson at a disadvantage in the market place.

Because of the length of time it takes to carefully evaluate a new variety in plant scale malting and brewing tests, a decision on the acceptability of Dickson will not be possible until after planting time in 1966 and probably not until the fall of that year.

The Association now has assets amounting to $698,280.16 with member equities reaching $571,103.92.

Attendance prizes were awarded to James Muzzy, Clarence Peterson, William Rupprecht, Mrs. Harry Solberg, Lloyd Nelson and Mrs. Gene Halvorson. Lunch was served by Mrs. Harry Solberg.

QUESTIONS Answered for VETERANS

Q—My son is leaving for military service. Can he purchase a government life insurance policy?

A—Yes. Under recent legislation, he will be automatically covered by a $10,000 policy and a certain sum will be deducted from his monthly pay unless he specifically states in writing that he does not want all or part of this full $10,000 insurance coverage.

Q—What is the age limit (deadline) for applying for the total disability income rider on National Service Life Insurance policies?

A—Until Jan. 1, 1966, application must be made before the insured's 55th birthday.

Q—I receive a pension from the Veterans Administration as well as Social Security benefits. I have received a special check covering the adjustment payment due for January through August, authorized by the Social Security Agency. When must I report this to the VA?

A—Report it immediately if it makes your income for the year excessive for the pension rate you are receiving. You may wait until the regular end of the year if the increase is not enough to make your income excessive for the pension you receive.

Q—A veteran friend of mine died with a $10,000 GI insurance policy in force. Will his widow have to accept the proceeds in monthly installments?

A—Lump sum payments can be made only if the insured had selected payment in one lump sum. from 36 to 240 months, or select one of two options providing for a life annuity, payable monthly.

Q—What is the best way to find out if I am still eligible for GI loan benefits for which I have never applied?

A—Apply to the VA regional office in your state for a Certificate of Eligibility for a GI loan. That office will supply full information.

Q—Does the government bury all soldiers, including World War I, World War II and Korean Conflict veterans?

A—Burial is available to deceased veterans of wartime or peacetime service whose last period of active service (other than for training) terminated honorably. (Reservists who die on active duty for training also are eligible.) Burial, except in certain cases of individuals with reserve peace time service alone, is also available to eligible veterans' wives, their children and under certain conditions, to unmarried adult children. Gravesite and actual interment, including opening, closing and marking the grave, is provided without charge. Application is made at time of death only to the superintendent of the national cemetery in which burial is desired.

How's Your Health?

(Prepared in the public interest by the Minnesota Medical Ass'n)

A stroke has been described as an "accident" which occurs in the blood vessels which serve the brain, observes the Minnesota State Medical association. That is why strokes are sometimes referred to by physicians as "cerebral vascular accidents".

Fundamentally, there are three types of strokes: One caused by thrombi, one by emboli and the third by the splitting of a blood vessel followed by bleeding.

Why do strokes occur? In the presence of age, diabetes, obesity and many other conditions, deposits of fats and minerals form within the inner lining of the arteries. These white waxy and thick deposits are known as "plaques". These plaques cut down the size of the artery and the flow of the blood is slowed. When the flow of blood slows down, clots or thrombi form producing one type of stroke.

Sometimes roughened and cracked areas may occur if the plaques are in the larger arteries. As the blood flows over these areas, corpuscles cling to these roughened patches. If a group of these corpuscles breaks off it may lodge in a narrowed or end artery. These are known as emboli.

Sometimes the presence of these waxy plaques can so drastically change the growth and nourishment of the artery wall that it splits and bleeding occurs. Marked shock and more extensive paralysis are usually produced in such cases.

The paralysis occurs because the blood flow to the vital nerve centers in the brain is impaired. The degree of paralysis resulting from a stroke will be determined by the location and the size of the arteries involved.

Usually strokes occur after the age of 50 and commonly after some physical exertion or emotional stress. There is no known way to guarantee the prevention of strokes. However, the danger can often be lessened by control of weight, moderation in all things including worrying, also in recreation and general mode of living.

The best prevention against strokes is to live in an atmosphere of temperance and moderation. Actually, the body should be treated with the same care and respect as business machines, farm equipment or work-saving appliances in the home the association concludes.

Prowlers Open Hockey Season Here Tonight

Coach Ed Thomlinson will bring a near-veteran East Grand Forks Green Wave hockey squad here this evening, Wednesday, for a Region Eight conference game against coach George Schleff's Prowlers. It will be the season's opener for the local squad. East Grand Forks opened play last week by scoring a 4 to 3 win over the St. James Eagles of Grand Forks.

In last season's games between the Prowlers and the Green Wave the local sextet scored three triumphs. In the opener the Prowlers defeated East Grand Forks, 5 to 2. In a mid-season game played at East Grand Forks, the Prowlers notched a 2 to 1 win. And in a subregional tournament game played here in February, the Prowlers were forced into an overtime period before, on Paul Peterson's goal at the 1:08 mark, won by a 3 to 2 score.

From that Green Wave squad, coach Thomlinson has lost but four players—Tom Lealos, Jerry Hughes, Don Schroeder and Jerry Brokke. Such boys as goalie Verdell Olson, defensemen Lee Hearn, Gary Mack, Dick Hanson and Jim Lealos, and forwards Dan Stauss, Gary Bratvold, Rick Farstad, Gary Bridgeford, Jim Lealos and Curt Monson are available for this season's competition.

The Prowlers, too, are well-supplied with lettermen, having Jeff Noel, Wayne Smith, Merle Sampson, Roddy Carlson, Billy Poole, John Olson, Bill Dicken, Monte LeMoine and Dan Brouse on the roster. Last season's tri-captians — Buzz Olson, Paul Peterson and Dennis Sullivan—have been graduated as was defenseman Jerry Forsberg. Olson is at Bemidji state, Peterson is attending Wisconsin, Sullivan is in the service and Forsberg is attending North Dakota U.

A preliminary game, between the Prowler B squad and the Green Wave B squad has been slated for 6:30 p.m. The varsity game will face-off at 8 p.m.

"The Reason for Christmas" is the theme of the Christmas program to be presented by the Sunday school of Faith Lutheran Brethren church in Thief River Falls Sunday at 8 p.m. The program was written by Lois Blanchard.

LUNKER northern pike fell victim to Leslie Swanson's skillful handlin of a wooden minnow decoy and fish spear shortly after 2 p.m. Saturday. The pike which weighed in at 11 lbs. 6 oz., was speared through a hole in the ice under a fish house on the river between Tindolph park and the Eighth street bridge. The ice in that portion of the river is now about a foot thick, Swanson reported.

Insurance Plans Are Available to Service Veterans

"The finest Christmas present is future security for the family," according to John R. Parrish, of the Fargo Veterans administration center. He pointed out that service-connected veterans have less than five months to take advantage of the reopening of GI insurance.

The final deadline for application is midnight, May 2, 1966. These World War II and Korean conflict veterans who failed to buy GI insurance or who bought it and later dropped it now have the chance to buy a new form of GI insurance provided they have a service-connected disability. They do not have to be receiving compensation payments from the VA to be eligible.

Parrish said that the insurance is available in a variety of plans ranging from a low cost modified life plan to 20-year endowment. Further details may be obtained at the Veterans Administration center, Fargo, N. D.

PENETRATING the zone defense set up by the Warren Ponies Friday night, Karl Poppenhagen of the Prowlers drives the lane for a lay-up. After a hot first half in which they scored 40 points, the Prowlers cooled off in the second half but won the game quite handily 60 to 43. Peter Gilbert and Dave Knutson of the Ponies are on the defense in the above photo with Mark Stromberg (54) and Tom Cummings (34) also shown on the picture.

Should Provide a Tip

A couple of basketball games on this week's slate should provide the fans in Region Eight with an inkling as to regional strength. On Friday night, at Ada, the Henning Hornets of Region Six will meet coach Denny Anderson's Vikings. The Henning team won the Region Six title last season, and four of the starters on that club, including the renowned Peterson twins, are returning for this season's play.

Stan Cockrell, who is the local publicity agent for the Henning Hornets, advises me that coach Opheim's squad will be favored to earn a berth in the state tournament again this year. And to prepare for that eventuality the Hornets have scheduled games against the state's top-ranked teams.

And in inviting the Ada Vikings the Hornets will be up against a squad that has eight returning lettermen including six-foot five-inch Jim Stadum, and six-foot four-inch Mike Sheridan. Ada, too, is playing an independent schedule this season, having withdrawn from the Pine-to-Prairie conference.

Coach Anderson feels that Ada will gain more experience and poise by playing an independent schedule against strong teams. Last year the Vikings won the District 30 title, but were beaten by the Goodridge Huskies of District 31 in the Region Eight first-round tournament game. This was the game in which the Huskies' Lon Szymanski scored 50 points as Goodridge won, 75 to 53.

Local fans will get a look at this Ada club on Wednesday night, Decmeber 22, when the Vikings invade the Lincoln high school court for a game against the Prowlers. In their two-game series last season, the teams were even-stephen, with the Prowlers winning the game played here, 74 to 65, and losing the game at Ada, 62 to 54.

Fans in Districts 30, 31 and 32 shouldn't be misled by the early-season troubles of the Bemidji Lumberjacks, the Region Eight champions. It's true that the Jacks took a trouncing from the Moorhead Spuds, and lost to the Crookston Pirates at Crookston. But the fans must not shed any tears for Bun Fortier's "here li'l boys". Come tournament time and the Jacks will be right up there, the team to beat.

Hockey Notes

The Manitoba Senior hockey league game between the Grand Forks Mixers and the Warroad Lakers which was slated to have been played here last week was postponed because of poor ice in the arena. It is hoped that the Grand Forks officials, and it was a Mixer "home" game, can make arrangements to have the game rescheduled for the arena ice. Hockey fans, I am sure, would like to see the Mixers tangle with the Lakers.

The two teams played at Warroad on Sunday afternoon, and the game ended in a 4-all draw. The Mixers, coached by Don Ross, and well-stocked with former North Dakota U players, as well as having Dale Wennberg and Jerry Westby from here, is proving a surprise in the league. The Mixers are currently leading the league, having six wins, two ties, and one loss. It is probable that the league championship will develop into a three-way battle, with the Mixers, the Winnipeg Maroons and the Warroad Lakers in contention. The other two teams in the league, the Selkirk Fishermen and the Dryden Rockets need help.

The Russian national hockey team is in Canada playing a series of exhibition games. On Friday night the Russians scored a 4 to 0 win over the Canadian nationals; and on Sunday afternoon the Soviet team marked up an 8 to 6 win over the Canadian club. The two teams, the Russians and the Canadians, have four more exhibition games on the schedule, with one of the games being slated for the Winnipeg arena.

Said the Russian coach, following Sunday's game: "Canada plays a rougher game than European team and it was very rough today. However, we don't believe in rough play and we won't change our style regardless of how the opposition wants to play it." He added that his club would like to play all the teams in the NHL even though he expected to lose some games by 6 to 0 or 7 to 0 scores. But the Russians would like the opportunity to play the best, and of course the teams in the NHL are hockey's best.

The Prowler varsity will participate in a triangular match, against Moorhead and Ada, at Ada on Saturday. The matches are scheduled to begin at 12:30 p.m.

State Employment May Reach Record Average in 1966

Minnesota jobs will have swelled by over 100,000 in three years, if estimates prepared this week by the Minnesota Department of Employment security for expected employment in 1966 come to pass.

Department Commissioner Robert J. Brown predicted a record average of 1,108,300 nonagricultural wage and salary employment in 1966, based on the expectation that current economic trends will continue. Comparable average employment figures for the past four years are as follows: 1962, 985,600; 1963, 1,002,800; 1964, 1,029,100; and 1965, 1,072,700.

Announcement this week of the intended reactivation of part of the production facilities at Twin Cities arsenal added 600 to the next year's total estimate, averaging out for the whole year (employment at the arsenal is expected to increase to 1,000 by next fall).

At the same time, Brown estimated that the average number of unemployed persons in Minnesota in 1966 would decrease to 49,800. The final 1965 figure will average out at about 54,000, he predicted.

Percentagewise, this would be 3.2 per cent of the work force in 1966, a drop of .4 of one per cent from the 1965 rate of 3.6 per cent. This latter figure compares with a 1965 national "average" unemployment rate of 4.6 per cent.

Brown also said that average weekly earnings of manufacturing production workers is expected to reach $115.50 in 1966, compared to $111.85 (estimate) per week in 1965. Minnesota's nonagricultural wage and salary employee will earn about $5,450 in 1966, compared to $5,275 in 1965; and the total of Minnesota's nonagricultural wage and salary payrolls is expected to climb from $5 billion, 660 million in 1965; to $6 billion, 35 million in 1966.

Employment increases in manufacturing firms will figure heavily in the expected increase, Brown predicted, to the tune of an average of almost 8½ thousand additional workers in 1966. The bulk of this is expected to occur in durable-goods producing industries (6,200).

The bustle of activity in taconite areas is expected to reflect an increase of only 400 in mining employment in 1966. The following years should show heavier increases in mining employment as taconite plants are completed. Continued increases in employment in construction of taconite facilities, highways and building generally will continue to swell average employment in construction trdaes by approximately 3,800 next year. Other categories expected to affect the employment increase in the state next year are: retail trade (5,400), service industries, (5,900), local government (5,100), state government (3,600) and federal government (400).

Statistics Given On Use Of Seat Belts in Nation

Number of cars equipped with seat-belts increased by 50 per cent during 1965, a nationwide survey of 2.2 million cars has shown, according to the Auto Industries Highway Safety committee (AIHSC).

The survey revealed that 30 per cent of the cars checked had seat belts, compared to 19 per cent in 1964 and only nine per cent in 1963.

However, the survey indicated that too many motorists are reluctant to always fasten seat belts when they get into their cars, as the following shows:

	Percent Local Travel	Percent Long Trips
Always use	44	67
Sometimes use	38	25
Do not use	18	8

The increase in seat belt installation is due to the fact that more than 30 states, including Minnesota, have passed laws requiring seat belts in new cars.

In Minnesota, 10,010 cars were surveyed by the AIHSC and it was found that 43.8 per cent had seat belts. It was also found that in Minnesota 33.7 per cent of the persons interviewed always use seat belts; 43.1 per cent sometimes use them; and 23.2 per cent do not use them. For long trips, 51.1 per cent always use seat belts, 30 per cent sometimes use them and 18.9 per cent do not use them.

The survey showed that nationally 56 per cent of the motorists having seat belts in their cars do not always use them in local travel, yet this is what most accidents happen—within 25 miles of home. Also, more than 50 per cent of the serious accidents occur at speeds of 40 miles per hour or less.

Veterans Asked To Return Income Questionnaires

Minnesota veterans on Veterans administration pension rolls have received annual income questionnaires with their November checks. These questionnaires must be filled out and returned to the VA by Jan. 31, 1966, or payment of pension will be suspended.

John R. Murphy, manager of the VA center, St. Paul, said the forms are released annually to determine continued eligibility for pension payments. The three card-type questionnaires were sent to certain disabled veterans, to dependents of deceased veterans on the VA's nonservice-connected pension rolls, and to parents of deceased veterans who are receiving dependency and indemnity compensation.

Murphy said the questionnaires are machine-punched and should not be folded or mutilated. They should be returned to the VA office indicated.

Assistance and information relating to completion of the questionnaires can be obtained by contacting the VA center at St. Paul.

H. Bonde, member of the executive board of the newly formed association and manager of the fluid milk and ice cream division of Land O'Lakes Creameries, Inc.

Editorials . . .

"When one is comfortable and well off, it is easy to talk high talk. I remember just before the battle of Antietam thinking and perhaps saying to a brother officer that it would be easy after a comfortable breakfast to come down the steps of one's house pulling on one's gloves and smoking a cigar, to get on a horse and charge a battery up Beacon street, while the ladies wave handkerchiefs from a balcony. But the reality was to pass a night on the ground in the rain with your bowels out of order and then after no particular breakfast to wade a stream and attack the enemy."

—Oliver Wendell Holmes Jr.

Save Rural Areas

The following editorial appeared in a recent edition of the Waseca Herald:

Laws have done more to retard the growth of rural areas than the automobiles, good roads and air travel. The most crushing was a "law" passed by the U. S. Supreme Court which says that state legislatures must be apportioned on a "one man, one vote" basis.

This was in direct contradiction to the policy established by the U. S. constitution of recognizing both area (each State) and population (representatives) in the Congress. There is much to be said for area representation but the high court weighed little of it.

Rural Minnesota and the rural area of every state will suffer greatly by this court decision. The Minnesota Farm Bureau in session recently passed a resolution which should be passed by every commercial club, community club, chamber of commerce and every service organization in rural Minnesota with copies of the resolution rushed to every Senator and Representative in the Congress. The resolution reads:

"We recognize that the U. S. Supreme Court has ruled that both houses of state legislatures must be based on population. Nonetheless, we do not believe this is right and believe it to be inconsistent with the federal pattern which bases the U. S. senate on area and the U. S. House of Representatives on population.

"To correct this unfortunate Court ruling before it is too late, we call upon the next session of the U. S. Congress to immediately take action to provide for an amendment to our U. S. Constitution which would allow states to base one house on factors other than population.

"Once this is done, we urge the Minnesota Legislature to ratify such an amendment and proceed to provide for an amendment to the Minnesota Constitution providing that one house be apportioned on an area basis and the other on a population basis."

It's Your Christmas

In recent years we have heard increasing complaint about the commercial aspects of Christmas and how the real meaning of the season has been pushed aside. It is true that Christmas and its attendant gift-giving has been used as a sales tool in ever-increasing proportion.

Whether the public wants to believe it or not, Christmas is being made commercial because the public wants it that way. If it was not profitable for merchants to erect Christmas displays in mid-November and advertise Christmas gift merchandise before Thanksgiving, they would not do so. Only sales to the public make these practices profitable.

To us it seems that Christmas is much more personal and intimate than a translucent Santa Claus hung on a post with a light blub in his belly, or a display of lingerie with a holly border, or a wide red ribbon wrapped around a washing machine. If this is the focal point for you when you look to Christmas, then it is you who is missing the point.

From the cold standpoint of sales and profits, Christmas is just another selling season for merchants. Their personal attitude toward the season and the way in which they observe it may not be reflected in their merchandising. Increasing competition is forcing earlier season changes in merchandise the year around—not only at Christmas. Buying spring clothes in the spring is almost as difficult as buying fall clothing in the fall.

What we are trying to say is that businessmen must be ready to sell when the public is ready to buy. If it is your choice to focus your attention on the commercial aspects of Christmas, that is your privilege. In so doing, however, you have not placed yourself in a position to criticize the merchants who erect their displays early.

Christmas should be a personal season. The spiritual emphasis need not be welded to the physical. It is entirely possible to recognize the birth of Christ and pay tribute to God for his Gift to mankind in a manner apart from the glitter of tinsel and rustling of wrappings. Christmas can be made just what the individual wants to make of it. After all, it's your Christmas.

The Kennedy Boom

Writing in "Punch", a London Publication, a writer must have penned the words which countless people have uttered recently. The article stated the following:

"The world is still hungry, no doubt—and the writers and publishers certainly have no doubt—for information on which side of his face Kennedy shaved first, or whether he had any views on the decline of the waistcoat. (I select the items haphazardly from revelations yet to come.) Personally, I am not. The nearest I ever got to the man was about five hundred feet when he weekended with Harold Macmillan and his U.S. Army helicopter flew over my front garden.

"All the same, and without the benefit of biographies, I think of him affectionately as a nice guy. These are rare in high places. In fact, looking rapidly round the world's statesmen at the moment, I don't immediately spot another that I'd care to file in the same top drawer. And if you press me for a political tribute, he also pinched out that smell of burning around Cuba.

"But if, with all these Kennedy books yet to come, I find I'm already saying 'Oh Lord, not again' every time he smiles out at me from the front of a color supplement, it can only mean that they are making a monkey out of him. I wish they wouldn't, however handsomely they are doing out of the posthumous performing rights."

With a mail order catalog offering for sale a John F. Kennedy edition of the Bible, we fully expect to see emotional historians listing the late President as one of the signers of the Declaration of Independence and a co-author of the Emancipation Proclamation. This is no discredit to the man, but an indictment of a people who will not permit a man the dignity of the finality of death.

Another Look Needed

If you haven't mailed your Christmas cards and packages yet, perhaps it would be safest to change the date to 1966 and mail them January 15. Under the new improved mail service to which this area of the state has been subjected, it is reasonably certain that cards and parcels will reach their destination by next Christmas.

No criticism is intended here of local post office employees, for we are sure they do their best to handle the mail both in dispatching and receiving for distribution. There is something radically wrong with the system, however, and dependability in mail service is about the same as the dependability of a three-year-old to do what he or she is told to do.

What is necessary is for the postal department officials in Washington to take another look at their glorified program of mail service. If their actions have effected better service elsewhere—which we are inclined to doubt—they have most certainly retarded service here. A return to what we had before the improved service was initiated would be most welcome.

From time to time we hear the postal department talking about changes in the service to provide one-day delivery to any point in the nation from any other point. This will be done, so they say, by sending first class mail in the fastest manner available, including air transport.

Frankly, we fail to understand how the postal department can provide one-day service to the East Coast or West Coast when it takes three days for a letter to reach Thief River Falls from the Twin Cities. And also quite frankly, we are more interested in the mail service between Minnesota points than we are in linking the two coasts with one-day mail.

Lousy service has not been evidenced only in isolated cases. It has been the general rule since trucks replaced the trains for carrying mail, shortening the time available to post mail and curtailing other conveniences which the area had long appreciated. Another look is needed by the hierachy in the postal department—and then action after the look reveals that the theory is different in practice than it is on paper.

Can You Afford It?

The National Litter index, published annually by Keep America Beautiful, Inc., indicates that littering is on he increase throughout the country. The index, which is arrived at by compiling vehicle miles traveled on primary highways compared to the cost of cleaning these same highways is six points higher than for the same period of last year.

The increase in the problem stems from more people, more cars, more drivers and a rising standard of living with more leisure time, according to KAB.

Part of the increased cost in litter pickup can be attributed to stepped up costs for labor and mechanical equipment used in removing litter from the highways. An additional factor is the growing awareness of the litter problem by both government and private citizens resulting in a greater effort and accent on litter removal. This results in more money being spent to do a better job.

Minnesota, however, shows a reverse of this national litter trend for the first six months of 1965. The cost for picking up litter during this period was $114,000, compared to $159,294 for the same period of 1964.

Publicity appearing in newspapers and in publications issued by organizations interested in keeping the state beautiful, and effective maintenance procedures probably have had at least something to do with reducing litter costs in Minnesota.

Even with the reduced rate of littering, Minnesota cannot afford to rest on this slight improvement, as the cost of litter pickup from January of 1958 to June of 1965 totaling $1,800,000 can well testify.

Littering is the product of thoughtlessness and can therefore be eliminated or at least reduced to a minimum. Highway maintenance crews assigned to remove litter from the highways not only represent an expense directly related to the problem, but show an indirect loss of time and money by being taken away from useful tasks in vital highway maintenance. Here then is a double loss which can be assigned to litter removal.

The next time you are tempted to discard that candy wrapper or crumpled cigaret package on public or private property, remember it is costing you money. Can you afford it?

Lodi Oats Gains Recommended List From University

Lodi oats, available for wide scare on-the-farm planting for the first time in 1965, has been placed on the University of Minnesota's recommended variety list.

The Wisconsin-developed variety yielded high at test locations throughout Minnesota over the past two and three years. At six University test locations, Lodi yielded an average of 96 bushels per acre, highest of some 16 varieties tested.

Seed of the variety is produced and grown under the certification program of the Minnesota Crop Improvement association.

Certified Lodi seed is processed and bagged by Minnesota approved seed processing plants and may be purchased by any farmer. It appears that seed supplies will be available to most who wish to seed Lodi in 1966.

At the university's Crookston trials, Lodi averaged 101 bushels per acre; at Lamberton, 90 bushels. Both reports were based on two-year averages. Three-year averages were reported from Morris where Lodi yielded 106 bushels per acre; from Rosemount, 86 bushels; from Waseca, 97 bushels; and Grand Rapids, 95 bushels.

Outstanding on-the-farm yields ranging well above the 100-bushel mark in some instances have been reported. The agronomists describe Lodi as having "lodging resistance with excellent yielding ability; late, tall and moderately susceptible to crown rust."

Lodi oats head out about a day or so later than Garry and about two days earlier than Rodney. In tests Lodi scored better than average in resistance to lodging and higher in test weight than Garry and Rodney.

The variety offers all resistance factors for stem rusts available in commercial varieties today, and is exceeded in crown rust resistance only by two other lower-yielding varieties. A white-colored grain, Lodi was bred from a cross between Richland-Bond strain and a Garry and Hawkeye-Victoria strain.

Other oat varieties showing promise in the University-conducted trials are Tippecanoe and Clintland 64. Tippecanoe, also on the recommended list, is one of the two earliest varieties in test. It showed excellent straw strength and better-than-average test weight. Clintland 64 produces a good average yield, bushel weight and straw strength. It also has moderate resistance to crown rust.

Farmers interested in planting Lodi or other certified varieties in 1966 should contact the nearest Minnesota approved seed processing plant while supplies are still available. Names of approved plant are available from the county agent or by writing to the Minnesota Crop Improvement association, University of Minnesota, St. Paul, Minn.

Traffic Safety Rated High in Highway Program

Traffic safety rates top consideration in Minnesota's total highway improvement program, according to MHD Chief Engineer John H. Swanberg. The department has been carrying on a safety-oriented highway improvement program, much of it with state funds, for many years, and a real effort has been made to advance its safety consciousness.

During the past year contracts totaling $1.178 million for projects eligible for federal-aid safety funds have been let. More than $1 million of this was for three large projects to correct hazards.

In addition, the department has awarded more than $500,000 in traffic safety improvement projects that will be paid for from state funds. These have consisted of channelization, traffic signals and lights and miscellaneous intersection improvements.

The three-year surveying program initiated earlier this year will afford Minnesota residents some other and safer driving on 484 miles of vital trunk highways throughout the state.

Interstate and expressway safety betterments, such as guard rail improvements, tree removals and median screening and planting will also make driving more pleasant and safer.

Overall, Minnesota is showing a keen interest in highway safety features and promises to keep present and future programs keyed on road safety within the financial capacity of these programs, Swanberg said.

'65 Highway Map Supply Depleted

A total of 620,000 copies have found their way into the hands of motorists, tourists and civic groups, mostly Minnesota residents but some from as far away as England, Australia, South America, Hawaii, Alaska, Canada and Indonesia.

Those wishing to obtain the 1966 map are asked to hold their requests until after January 15 in order to insure prompt delivery. These requests may be mailed to Minnesota Highway Department, Public Information Section, State Highway Building, St. Paul, Minnesota 55101. For greater ease and efficiency in handling these requests, those desiring maps should include their name, address and zip code printed or typed clearly on the post card or letter.

Senator Mondale Tells of Program On Reservation

One of the most significant developments in the War on Poverty is the creative contributions being made by communities in Minnesota and elsewhere, according to Sen. Walter F. Mondale.

"I recently made a tour of the anti-poverty projects in Minnesota", the senator said, "and was especially impressed by the programs developed by local communities to meet their own specific needs. Congress designed the Economic Opportunity Act with maximum flexibility to give local communities this type of opportunity, and some of the new ideas and imaginative local programs being developed here in Minnesota are so good that I believe they eventually may be applied in other parts of the country.

"Under the Red Lake program, for example, unskilled Indians are building new homes on the reservation. This program has a triple impact: it is providing desperately needed housing on the reservation at less cost than the government can build homes; it provides the Indian with a job and needed income while at the same time teaching him the home building trade under union authorization so that he will eventually be able to obtain a regular skilled job and become self-sustaining; and it uses timber logged and processed on the reservation, thereby providing more jobs and economic benefits for other Indian families.

"These programs typify the creativity and dedication of the people who are serving on community action councils throughout Minnesota," Sen Mondale added. "Minnesota programs are impressively creative in combining local resources with the tools provided by the federal government to meet specific local needs."

Tips Included As Income For Social Security

Tips are covered by social security starting January 1, reminds Clifford Kittelson, Grand Forks district manager for social security.

The law requires each employee to keep a written record of the tips that he receives in each month starting in January. If he receives $20 or more in cash tips in a month, by the tenth of the following month he must give his employer a written report of the amount that he received.

Starting in January, the social security tax rate will be 4.2 per cent. The employer will figure the tax on the tips reported to him and deduct that amount of tax from regular wages that he pays to the employee.

The employer pays his regular share of social security tax on the wages that he pays employees who receive tips. He does not pay the employer share of social security tax on tips received by the employee.

An employee who fails to report tips to his employer must report them directly to the Internal Revenue service. There is a 50 per cent penalty for failure to report. In other words, the employee who does not report to his employer will have to pay 6.3 per cent social security tax.

PUBLIC OPINION

Having been picked as one of the delegates from Pennington county to attend the National Farmers Organization convention in St. Louis, Mo., or better known as the N.F.O., I would like to bring you up to date on some of the progress that has been accomplished in the N.F.O.

There were delegates from 27 states, all farmers, with the same problem in mind: Too low prices for farm products to meet the higher cost of production.

N.F.O. originated in Iowa, Missouri and Indiana by men like Stale, Finston and many others, all farmers. These men had only one thing in mind, to bring to the American farmer 100 per cent of parity, a yard stick that is used by the federal government; which is supposed to be fair to the farmer, labor and industry.

But today labor, industry and other big business have by far surpassed that figure while the farmer is only receiving about 7.5 per cent of parity from our enormous growing economy. The farmer is only asking the cost of production plus a profit, which is the only way he can survive.

We have a lot of people that will tell you that supply and demand (or what I call boom and bust) will take care of everything, but it doesn't work in this day and age. Production must be controlled. The farmer by the tens of thousands have gone broke every year due to low income.

I am sure that Ford, General Motors and others could not and would not put their product in the show room and say what will you give me.

Mr. Benson, our farmer secretary of Agriculture, seemed to have the answer. He told the inefficient farmer to get out and join the laboring class.

But I am sure a farmer nearing sixty years old, after a lifetime of hard work, clearing and developing this land, would have a hard time to get a job when you almost have to be a college graduate to qualify.

How efficient does a farmer have to get? I think some of this should be applied to Washington. A farmer still produces a quart of milk delivered for less than 7 cents a quart. A dozen eggs for 30 cents and oats a little over 50 cents a bushel. And what he buys has gone up three fold.

Farmers are less than 3 per cent of our total population, and they tell us in the near future 1 per cent is supposed to produce food and fiber for the whole United States and share with our foreign countries. They say we have a large surplus, but we still have a lot of people finding their dinner in a garbage can.

Mr. Benson 10 years ago lowered the price of milk and almost every farmer built a bigger barn, milked more cows to get more income and the surplus got bigger and bigger. The grain farmer broke up more land, applied more fertilizer to try and increase his income, and what happened? Low income to farmers is not the answer to surplus.

We as farmers want to be counted as the needy and the needed, not as the greedy. All we want is our fair share of this growing economy, educate and raise our children, and enjoy some of the many luxuries we have in this great country.

Records will show that every laboring man can buy more food and clothing for a day's work than ever before. Industry, manufactured, railroad, telephone and many other businesses have chalked up the biggest profit in history. The reason, the way I see it, we pay what they want and take what we get. In other words, we buy at retail and sell at wholesale.

We as farmers in the past thirty or forty years have seen a lot of they are all for helping the farmers. We have sent bus loads and trains loads of delegates to Washington to try and increase the farmers price. But what have we accomplished? Absolutely nothing; we are in the worst mess in history.

We finally woke up the the fact that we, the farmers, have not been really organized together at all. We have been fighting a losing battle between ourselves. But on the other hand, the processor, the big chain and many others have all been organized to buy in large volumes or collective bargaining to hold prices down.

But I am sure that every dollar that was lost in farm income three or four dollars were lost to our national economy.

Orville Freeman, our Secretary of Agriculture, made the remark in one of his speeches that the only way that the American farmer could ever obtain 100 per cent of parity would be through collective bargaining, and that is what, we in the N.F.O. are doing. To gain control of production, leadership, membership and collective bargaining.

We realize that they have the market, but we have the product. We are willing to work with them at a price.

Our machinery is all set up and working. We have 125 collection points, where hogs and cattle are sold direct from farmer to processor. A lot of progress has been made to assure the milk and grain farmer a better price.

We are using the same weapon that has been used against us—free collective bargaining power, [illegible] to a lot of farmers and [illegible] that more interest has not been shown.

N. F. O. has been active for 7 years and I can only say the farmer who cannot think for himself or read what is going on, is only on equal terms with the man who cannot read or think. So in closing all I can say is N.F.O. is working and will continue to work. But we need your support to reach that goal which so many have worked hard for. A 100 per cent parity in the market place.

POINSETTIAS AND PUPPY DOGS

"'Tis the season to be jolly," carol the loudspeakers in the department stores, but each year it becomes harder. Days are frantic with shopping, wrapping, and addressing. There's too much to do, too many things to remember; Sally's school play, a white elephant for Joe's Scout party, the Kirby's gala on the twenty-second.

There's no time for thinking, but sometimes late at night, a moment for reflection. In the rush of doing all the right things have we forgotten our reasons for doing them? Have we come bearing gifts, like the Magi, with hearts empty of the wonder and awe that was theirs?

Perhaps we need to hear anew the age-old story of a tiny Babe wrapped and gently laid in a manger while shepherds quaked and angels sang. The door of your Church stands open. Worship there the newborn King this Christmas and every Sunday.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

New Farm Bill Studied By U of M Economists

University of Minnesota agricultural economists have taken a long look at the 1966 Food and Agriculture Act and how it will probably affect farmers and other citizens in Minnesota and nearby states.

They expect the new legislation to:

Contribute to an increase of about $23 million in gross returns to wheat farmers in Minnesota. The increase will be about $36 million in the area including Minnesota, North and South Dakota and Montana, and will leave wheat output at about its present level.

Boost the number of farms in maximum participation in the feed grains program, through added incentives. But changes in feed grain and wheat programs will have little if any immediate effect on livestock producers costs or incomes.

Improve incomes for Minnesota sheep producers in the 1966 marketing year and beyond, because of higher support levels for wool.

Maintain relatively stable food prices so that, with increasing average income to Minnesotans, per cent of income spent for food will continue to decline.

Make up a continually declining proportion of Minnesota citizens' average earnings and tax payments since average incomes are increasing faster than farm program costs.

Although the new bill contains some new dairy legislation, the economists explain that the impact on the dairy industries depends on extent of their adoption, since none is mandatory, and the methods of administration—which are not yet stated.

Agricultural economists who prepared the statement include Vernon W. Ruttan, department head, W. K. Bryant, R. P. Dahl, K. E. Egertson, J. W. Hammond, Paul Hasbargen, J. P. Houck, E. F. Koller, H. R. Jensen, M. E. Ryan and A. Waldo.

Commodity programs under the act which affect Minnesota directly include those for wheat, feed grains, dairy and wool. Observations from the economists on these programs include:

WHEAT—Most significant change for 1966 is that wheat for domestic food use will be supported at 100 per cent of parity. Parity as of July 1, 1965, was $2.57 per bushel.

Participating farmers will receive domestic marketing certificates worth about $1.32 per bushel—the difference between parity and the $1.25 loan rate—on about 45 per cent of their projected yield of wheat from allotted acres.

Another change is in the export certificate feature. Certificate costs to wheat exporters will be levied on a day-to-day basis rather than on a pre-determined annual value as in 1965. Exporters pay into the certificate pool when the world price is above the U.S. price, and draw from it when the world price is below the U.S. price. Any pool surplus at the end of the year would be distributed to eligible producers, but this is unlikely since the U. S. price probably will not fall much below world levels.

Participation in the wheat program, the economists say, is expected to increase for two reasons;

1) the gap between the average price received by participating and nonparticipating farmers will widen, and

2) the amount of wheat per acre on which domestic certificates are received will increase because projected rather thay average yields will be used. About 76,000 Minnesota wheat acres were diverted in 1965. The 1966 diversion will go up because of increased overall participation and new authorizations for additional voluntary diversion up to half of the farm allotment.

Upper Midwest wheat production will probably stay about the same as in 1966.

The act continues to shift farm income support for wheat away from high market price supports toward direct payments with lower loan rates. The market price, depending on quality, may not rise much above the $1.25 loan level since the Commodity Credit corporation still has authority to sell wheat in the market when the price is 105 per cent of the loan rate plus carrying costs.

The loan rate may be reduced below $1.25 after 1966, say the economists, to keep noncertificate wheat competitive in world markets and in domestic feed grain markets.

FEED GRAINS AND SOYBEANS—Major provisions of the current program remain in force. Participants are entitled to price-support loans and direct price support payments for diverting at least 20 per cent of their feed grain acreage base.

Changes in mechanics will probably make the program more attractive to farmers who wish to participate at the maximum level.

Unclear at present is whether Minnesota's total participation in 1966 will be above or below the 2.3 million acres of 1965. Attractiveness of the program to individual farmers depends on their land's productivity, their production costs and their opportunities to use their released labor somewhere else.

Under the new law, the Secretary of Agriculture has more leeway in deciding how and when to apply new program provisions, which include: (1) using projected rather than average yields as a basis for payments, (2) new flexibility favoring producers making large acreage cuts, (3) a loan rate reduction which may encourage participation by permitting open market price declines and (4) possible authorization (but probably not offered until after 1966) for raising soybeans on permitted feed grain acres without losing support payments.

The "projected yields" will be higher than average past yields and should be especially attractive to growers with rising output per acre. Minnesota's statewide average yield figure used in computations was 58.6 bushels per acre in 1965. The projected state average is 70.1 bushels per acre for 1966.

Carry-over feed grain stocks now at 54 million tons will probably continue to decline. Prices for feed grains may fall because of reduced 1966 loan rates, but net farm income from feed grains will stay about the same because of supports and diversion payments.

Nearly 61 per cent of Minnesota's eligible feed grain acreage was diverted in 1965, and the average payment was $1,193 per farm. With new incentives, the number of fully participating farms will probably go up during the next four crop years.

DAIRY—The new bill contains three additions to the current dairy program—(1) a Class I base program for federal order milk markets, (2) extension of the federal order program to manufacturing milk producing areas, and (3) authorization for the Secretary of Agriculture to purchase dairy products in commercial markets for domestic relief, foreign distribution or other government programs when CCC stocks are insufficient.

WOOL—Under a modified extension of the National Wool Act of 1954, wool prices continue to be supported via direct payments to producers. The support price is 65 cents per pound for 1966, compared with 62 cents in recent years. Assuming wool production about equal to the 5.6 million pound average for the past three years, the state's income from wool should in the feed grain and wheat programs are expected to have little, if any, immediate effect on Minnesota livestock producers' production costs or incomes.

One aspect of the wheat program may affect livestock prices. Some noncertificate wheat may move out of storage and on to the market at prices competitive with other feed grains. This may not affect overall feed costs, but may alter feed mixes. Thus, cattle and hog feeders need to consider wheat along with feed grains as a feed source. On the other hand, quality premiums usually paid here will prevent local wheat from being fed in large amounts.

CROPLAND ADJUSTMENT PROGRAM—This part of the 1965 Act is new. It is intended to help reduce surplus agricultural production and provide more open space for outdoor recreation. It has a long-term cropland diversion plan (resembling the old Soil Bank Conservation Reserve) and authorization for government land-buying.

Under the diversion program, $225 million is authorized annually for encouraging farmers to remove his feed grain and-or wheat base acreage from production for a 5-10 year period.

Participating farmers receive an annual payment of 40 per cent of the estimated value of the crop diverted, part of the cost of planting and maintaining the land in a new use. There may be an annual [illegible] if the public is allowed free access for recreational purposes.

The economists say this diversion program will be most attractive to farmers having small wheat and feed grain allotments as part of larger tracts of land. It may also attract land now being released by the Soil Bank Conservation Reserve. Few acres in the southern part of the state will be attracted.

A protection feature for local communities limits the amount of land to be put in the program to 10 per cent of county allotments in any one year and 25 per cent over the program's life.

Considering 1966 payment rates for corn and wheat acreage and past program experience, the economists expect less than one million Minnesota acres to be diverted by the Cropland Adjustment Program. It will facilitate retirement of some farmers and provide some public land for recreation.

While effects of the land purchase program are more difficult to predict, the economists expect cropland brought for public recreation to come from areas other than the Twin Cities Metropolitan area and places near other population centers.

EFFECT ON PUBLIC—Intent of the new bill appears clear, say the economists. The emphasis is on stability in consumer prices and financing of farm programs through direct payments from general tax revenues.

Effect of new legislation on food and clothing prices will probably be negligible. A possible exception is in milk and dairy products, where slight retail increases might occur, depending upon measures adopted.

However, as average incomes increase, stable prices mean that the portion income spent by Minnesota families after taxes will continue to decline—below the current one fifth.

Similarly, costs of these programs will make up a continually declining proportion of Minnesota citizens' average earnings and tax payments.

Expenditures for domestic agricultural programs currently represent about four cents out of each federal tax dollar. The nation's current average about $21 per person annually for these programs. Food expenses are about $500 per person per year.

"1966 Ford quieter than my Jaguar? Not jolly likely!" said Rob Walker

British automotive sportsman R. R. C. Walker knows cars. But one thing he didn't know was how quiet the '66 Ford is.

... then he drove the Ford.

"Astonishing ... I believe this Ford of yours really is quieter!" exclaimed Rob Walker, famed British automotive sportsman.

Ford's quiet ride is the result of built-in quality and overall engineering excellence. Other examples of this engineering magic from Ford are: ■ New Stereo Tape Player option with easy-loading cartridges. ■ New Magic Doorgate on wagons—swings out like a door for people and down like a tailgate for cargo. ■ Silent-Flo Ventilation, standard on Ford 4-door hardtops, gives open-window freshness with all windows closed. ■ Quiet-test a '66 Ford, at your Ford Dealer's.

Suggestions Made for Colorful Fireplaces And Treating Trees

Fireproofing Christmas trees is not possible, according to Miss Beverly Tvelto, Pennington county home agent. The best method to keep a tree green and fresh is for the home owner to cut about an inch of wood from the butt of the tree and put it into water immediately and keep it in water as long as it is standing.

Trees which have been flocked or treated while still fresh will be protected by the retardant material to some degree. The most important point is that the tree should be kept with the butt in water. The addition of sugar or asprin to this water does not increase the freshness of the tree.

The following are three chemical solutions which may be used as fire retardants. These will not fireproof the tree. Materials may be obtained from drug or hardware stores.

(1) 9 oz. borax and 4 oz. boric acid in 1 gal. lukewarm water. Dip greens or spray tree. This gives a colorless treatment.

(2) 8 oz. alum and 8 oz. baking soda in 1 gal. lukewarm water. Dip greens or spray tree. This gives a whitish coating.

(3) 9 pints waterglass (Sodium silicate) in 1 pint water with ½ teaspoon detergent added to water first. This gives a shiny, transparent colorless coating. Dip greens. For spraying, it may be necessary, to thin the mixture with water and spray the tree more than once. This method is messier than (1) or (2) but gives better protection.

Colors for the Fireplace

Evergreen cones, small blocks of wood or kindling, wood chips and sawdust, or even one inch diameter rolls of tightly wrapped newspaper or magazines, tied at both ends, soaked in chemical solutions and dried, will give off flames of various colors to add to Christmas cheer when they are burned in the fireplace. The following chemicals will produce the colors indicated: Copper sulfate, green; Calcium chloride, orange; Copper chloride, blue; Lithium chloride, carmine; and Potassium chloride, purple. DO NOT USE CHLORATES OR NITRATES, OR POTASSIUM PERMANGANATE.

Chemicals should be kept away from children and pets. To avoid storage, obtain only sufficient amounts for treatment. This job should be done out-of-doors. The solution ratio is one pound of chemical to one gallon of water, using one chemical per batch.

Rubber gloves should be worn and care used not to spill the chemicals or solutions. Since the chemicals will ultimately destroy metal containers, the chemicals should be dissolved in a wooden pail or earthen crock. A discarded five-gallon paint bucket serves admirably as a treating vat, mixing no more than a couple gallons of solution at a time. No need to cleanse it thoroughly for a change of chemicals. Extra-wide-mouth gallon glass containers are well suited to treating smaller items.

The materials to be treated may be placed in a mesh or porous bag and submerged in the solution. A stone can weight the material down. A day or so of soaking should be adequate. Lift out and drain over the container, then spread the treated materials out to dry. If the materials are allowed to dry on newspapers, the newspapers themselves, when dry, may be rolled and wrapped tightly to burn in the fireplace.

Manpower Business Class Gets Diplomas

First class for clerk-typists under the Manpower Development and Training act at the Thief River Falls area vocational-technical school was graduated Friday. Nineteen students completed the intensive course which met from 3 until 9:30 p.m. each day since August 2.

Students for the program were selected by the Minnesota Employment Service office in Thief River Falls which is managed by R. S. Eldevik. Instructors were Jerald B. Lydeen and Loren E. Weigand. The program was carried out under the supervision of the Thief River Falls public schools with M. R. Hankerson, superintendent, and Art M. Aune, director of the vocational-technical school.

All trainees have registered with the state employment service and are placed for employment only through the employment offices. Employers who are interested in securing any of the trainees for permanent employment should contact the employment office in Thief River Falls.

Designed to provide training to unemployed persons and thus make them better able to compete on the labor market, the program was entirely financed by funds from the federal Manpower Development and Training act. School budget for instruction and equipment was about $17,000 for the first class, and trainees received almost $13,000 in training allowances. MDTA funds provided the school with valuable equipment which is available for use to other business education students in the vocational-technical school.

Students who qualified were paid a base stipend of $31 per week plus $5 for each dependent up to a maximum of four while attending classes. In addition, commuters were allowed five cents per mile for travel to and from class. Subsistence of $5 per day was also available to some of the students.

Instructor Jerald Lydeen noted that a second class will be held under the program, pending final approval of federal authorities, with another 20 students needed for the course. The class would start about January 10 and continue until about June 1. Persons interested in the course are asked to contact the state employment service office in Thief River Falls. Preliminary approval of the second class has been given by federal officials.

Commenting on the program and the experiences of instructors in it, Lydeen stated: "We ordered the simplest high school texts available, believing we would be teaching low ability, uneducated, uninterested adults going to school only to receive the minimal allowances for going to school.

"Just the opposite proved to be true. They were a challenge not because of their low ability, or lack of interest, but because of their high ability and extreme interest. Eight students received no allowances or only transportation allowances, and money did not seem to be a factor in their zeal for knowledge."

Two Dogs Attack Sheep Flock in Wyandotte Twp.

Pennington county sheriff's department is investigating a case of livestock damage after two dogs attacked a flock of sheep in the Randall Culkins barnyard in Section 3 of Wyandotte township about 12 miles southeast of Thief River Falls last Monday morning.

According to reports, the dogs cornered the sheep twice in the barnyard, injuring about 30 of the animals, several of which have died. The dogs fled when Culkins returned after being gone from the farm only a short time.

Culkins stated that one of the dogs was large and dark colored, possibly part German Shepherd. The other was smaller and a light brown in color. The sheriff's office advises farmers with sheep in the area to keep a careful watch on their flocks and asks any information which could lead to finding the dogs involved.

Tracks left by the dogs were filled by drifting snow and could not be followed, the department reported.

S. E. Sinding of Thief River Falls was elected president of District 10 of the Minnesota Funeral Directors at the annual meeting held recently at the Elks club rooms in Thief River Falls. The business session followed a dinner with members present from East Grand Forks, Crookston, Red Lake Falls, Warren, Bagley, Bemidji and Roseau in addition to Thief River Falls.

Next meeting of the district association will be held next spring in East Grand Forks.

Ellickson operates a 400-acre farm in Equality township. His main enterprise is a flock of 180 breeding ewes. Small grain, flax, tame hay and pasture are raised on 350 acres of cropland. He has been a district cooperator since 1952.

He has planted a farmstead windbreak, dug a stock water pond and dug 3.7 miles of surface field ditches.

Marshall County Tax Rate Drops To 74.22 Mills

A reduction of 1.51 mills in Marshall county's tax rate for 1966 for county government purposes is noted in the new rate established during the past week in the office of Charles G. Cheney, county auditor.

The new county levy will total 74.22 mills in comparison to 75.73 mills in 1965. Rates required for townships, villages and school districts for the coming year are still being figured. Rates are figured on the assessed valuation of the taxing districts and the amount of money the taxing boards have requested for the operation of their units of government.

Police Department Investigates Two Hit-Run Mishaps

Two hit-and-run accidents were reported to the Thief River Falls police department last week. Parked cars were struck and damaged in both cases," police reported.

Wednesday afternoon a car owned by Arnold Patzoldt, city, was parked facing north on the west side of Arnold avenue in the 600 block when struck on the right front by an unknown vehicle which apparently turned from Seventh street on to Arnold avenue. Damage was estimated at $40.

The same afternoon a station wagon owned by Northwest Trails of Crookston was parked facing west on the north side of 10th street near LaBree avenue when hit on the left side by an unknown vehicle. There was no damage estimate. Both accidents are under investigation.

On Friday Emil Mellem, city, reported that holes had been punctured in his darkhouse on the river for the second time. He had repaired the first holes earlier.

Also on Friday a car driven north on Atlantic avenue by Courtney Nelson, Crookston, had stopped for the stop sign at Third street when struck from the rear by a car driven by Arthur B. Hanson, Plummer. Damage was estimated at $66 to the Nelson car and no apparent damage to the Hanson vehicle.

Elect Ron Alby As President of Sportsmen Club

Election of officers was the main item of business at the annual December meeting of the Pennington County Sportsmen club held Wednesday night in the meeting room of the city auditorium. Elected for the coming year were Ron Alby, president; Jim Wills, vice president; Gay Warnecke, secretary; and Steven Stokke, treasurer. Newell Ueland was elected to a two-year term as a director.

Following adjournment of the meeting, Vern Gunvalson of Bemidji, regional game biologist, spoke to the group on the subject of the state conservation department's deer conservation activities. He opened his talk with a plea to the club not to be "stampeded" by premature rumors of extensive deer loss by starvation in this area. With the exception of a few isolated areas, he said, winter-loss-of-deer in the state is not acute enough to cause any great alarm.

The department's deer conservation activities, Gunvalson said, consist of careful measurement of the amount and condition of snow in various areas and a constant record of temperature severity, taking the chill factor into account. Artificial feeding is practiced by the department in some areas of intensive deer concentration where a real danger of starvation is present, he said, but in general this method is impractical mainly due to the deer's feeding habits. Management of browse is the best method of insuring a healthy deer herd in the spring, Gunvalson said.

Following the biologist's talk, a free bean feed was served to all present.

City Bank Debits Up Eight Per Cent

Bank debits in Thief River Falls during November were up eight per cent from the same month a year ago, according to statistics released by the Federal Reserve Bank of Minneapolis. In dollars, the city's bank debits volume during November was $11,088,000. In the same month of 1964 the total figure was $10,264,000. During the first 11 months of 1965 bank debits amounted to $105,915,000, an increase of 8 per cent from 1964.

For Minnesota the November volume of bank debits for reporting cities increased 19 per cent from November of last year. Debits for the first 11 months of 1965 increased 8 per cent the same period in 1964.

Volume of bank debits reported by the total sample of Ninth Federal Reserve district cities for November increased 18 per cent from a year ago. The cumulative total for the first 11 months of 1965 indicated a 10 per cent increase from the comparable 1964 period.

Bank debits are mostly checks against depositors' accounts and thus represent payments for goods, services, debts, etc. They also include transfers of funds which of themselves have no business significance. Bank debits mainly include all debits against checking accounts of individuals, partnerships, and corporations, and of states and political subdivisions. They do not include debits to the accounts of other banks, the United States government or savings accounts.

CLUTTERED with pop bottles, barbecues and wrapping paper, the basement of the Salvation Army citadel was probably the busiest place in town Saturday morning and early afternoon. Members of the Thief River Falls Jaycees and Mrs. Jaycees conducted 40 underprivileged youngsters from throughout the county on a shopping tour for Christmas presents for their families Saturday morning. At about noon, they returned to the citadel for lunch and package wrapping, and at 2 p.m. were treated to a free movie at the Falls theatre. Money for the tour was collected by the Jaycees through a door-to-door solicitation Tuesday evening. Chairman Neil McEwen reported that with a little over half the town canvassed, a total of $280 was accumulated. Response of the public to the drive was generally good, McEwen said.

School Census Shows Increase in Children

Number of children under age 21 in the Thief River Falls school district increased by 14 from 4,176 in 1964 to 4,190 this year, according to the annual school census taken by Mrs. Margaret Race, school nurse. About 150 of the children reside in eastern Marshall county and the remainder are in Pennington county, Mrs. Race said.

The increase is in the division for children from 17 through 20 years of age, where the total number increased from 582 a year ago to 632 this year. Number of children age 0 through 5 dropped from 1,224 a year ago to 1,188 this year - a decrease of 36. Students in the age 6 through 16 group remained constant at 2,370.

With school attendance required through age 16, all children in the 6 through 16 age group were attending school. In addition there were two five-year-olds in school attendance. (An exception listed by Mrs. Race was the case of two 16-year-old children who are mentally retarded and not attending school.)

Only four of the 210 children 17 years of age were not attending school. Twenty of 186 18-year-olds were not attending, nor were 61 of 127 19-year-olds and 60 of 116 20-year-olds.

Census figures for 1964 and 1965 are shown in the comparative tabulation below. The census is used by school officials in predicting needs of the school system in the immediate future.

FFA Members To Discuss Mallard Release Program

Plans for next year's expanded mallard rearing program will be the chief item on the agenda when the Future Farmers of America hold a workshop on wildlife conservation at the University of Minnesota farm campus Tuesday, December 28.

Last year 79 high school FFA chapters, involving 400 members, raised and released into the wild over 9,000 wild mallard ducklings. Plans for 1966 call for increasing the project to nearly 20,000 birds.

Cooperating with the FFA were 84 sportsmen clubs, civic and business groups who purchased the ducklings for the FFA chapters from private game farms. Mallards were obtained by the conservation department who received wild mallard drakes from the U. S. Fish and Wildlife service which were mated with game farm hens.

Suggestions on how the program can be improved, reducing the losses of young ducklings and other matters, will be discussed at the workshop.

The meeting will be held at the student center, North Star ballroom, beginning at 6:30 p.m. Representing the conservation department's game and fish division at the meeting will be Don Ledin, assistant supervisor of game.

Legion Auxiliary Sends Newspapers To Servicemen

"I am still reading a hometown newspaper of two months ago. A friend of mine received it wrapped around a package." Comments like this and the feeling that our servicemen in Viet Nam should not be forgotten has prompted the American Legion Auxiliary to announce "Operation Hometown Newspaper".

In cooperation with the Department of Defense, an announcement has been made to the servicemen in Viet Nam that if they request copies of their hometown newspaper, the 14,000 American Legion Auxiliary units will make provision for this "bit of home away from home".

The one million members of the American Legion Auxiliary have launched this project in cooperation with the American Society of Newspapers Editors and a flood of requests is already being received. First announcement of the project appeared in the Pacific edition of "Stars and Stripes" in mid-November.

Mrs. James Cuppett president of Unit 117 of the American Legion Auxiliary in Thief River Falls, announced that the unit has received its first request for a subscription from A1c Gene S. Sannes, presently stationed in Viet Nam. The Times will soon be on its way to Viet Nam with the good wishes of the local American Legion Auxiliary unit.

Christmas Gift Foods Need Care in Storing

Christmas gifts of food may present the problem of spoilage unless the recipient cares for them properly. The trouble comes because the larder is usually full at holiday time and often considerable time elapses before the gifts of food are used.

Verna Mikesh, extension nutritionist at the University of Minon how to care for specific food gifts so they will not spoil:

Ham. Remember that ham, smoked shoulder butts and picnics are all perishable and should be treated as fresh meat—refrigerating immediately and using as soon as possible. If left tightly wrapped, these meats will mold after a period of time even if they are kept in the refrigerator. If you cannot use ham within a short period, freezing will preserve it for up to two months. Be sure to wrap it in moisture-vapor-proof material to keep out the oxygen that hastens rancidity. Polyethylene bags do not provide sufficient protection.

Canned hams, three pounds or larger, should be refrigerated. It's best not to freeze canned hams because freezing changes the texture. In the refrigerator canned hams will keep for an indefinite period. Small cans of cured meats usually need no refrigeration—but check the label.

Cheese. Cheese molds after a time even in refrigerator storage. Freezing will preserve it for six months or longer, although the texture may change somewhat after freezing.

Success in freezing cheese depends on variety and on freezing the cheese in small amounts. Cut the cheese into half-pound pieces or smaller and wrap in aluminum freezer foil, pressing the foil tightly against the cheese to eliminate air pockets. Small cheses may be left in their original pack-aluminum foil. When freezing a salty cheese like blue or Nuworld, use another wrap between the cheese and the foil or the salt may eat through the foil. Chedder, Brick, Swiss, Provoloni, Port du Salut, Liederkrapz, Camembert, Parmesan, Romano and Mozzarella will freeze satisfactorily.

When you are ready to use the frozen cheese, thaw it in its wrapper in the refrigerator. Once it is thawed, let it stand at room temperature an hour before serving it.

Apples. If possible, storr in perforated plastic bags in the refrigerator or in a cool basement—but above freezing temperatures.

Oranges and grapefruit. Store in a cool room (60 to 70 degrees). If citrus fruits are held too long at too low temeratures, the skins become pitted.

Candy. Almost all candies keep fresh for a year or longer when frozen and kept at zero. Spun candy chips, chocolate covered nuts and candy with hard centers may crack or split. Marshmallows freeze well. Overwrap boxes with a good moisture-proof freezer wrap to prevent damage from moisture condensation when the candy thaws. When you take the candy out of the freezer, don't remove the moisture-proof wrap until the candy has warmed to roo mtemperature—from four to eight hours.

Nuts. They may be frozen to prevent rancidity. Salted nuts will keep in the freezer about six months, unsalted nuts from nine to 12 months. Package in moisture-vapor-proof freezer wrap.

Fruit cake. When tightly wrapped or kept in a tin can and frozen fruit cake will keep indefinitely.

During the present school year, more than 750,000 boys and girls will drop out of school without having attained a high school diploma.

BOILER fireman Engvald Geving of Plummer is one of over a thousand Minnesotans employed by the various contractors engaged in building one of Minnesota's newest taconite plants. Parking Meters Being Removed In Many Cities

Constant search for nickels and dimes to feed that curbside monster—the parking meter—may be phased in the not too distant future, according to the Minnesota AAA.

In a survey just completed by the association, a definite trend toward elimination of parking meters in U.S. cities is indicated, both in large and small communities. (Recently, two Minnesota cities removed their parking meters. Hopkins and White Bear Lake took out their parking meters whith no apparent ill effects reported, and several advantages cited).

"While the majority of communities taking the action are in the 50,000 and under population category," said Erling Berg, Duluth, president of the Minnesota AAA, "several cities in the 50,000 and up population range are also beginning to remove parking meters".

According to the survey, motorists did not remain longer in parking spaces after meters were removed. The turnover rate remained about the same both before and after removal of the meters, thus spiking the belief that meters increase parking turnover.

In most of the cities where parking meters were given the axe, the meters were removed from the downtown business districts, while in several cities, meters were taken out of both the downtown and outlying business districts. Some communities removed them from residential areas as well.

"Most of the cities indicated the reason for removal of parking meters was to expedite traffic flow and spur shopping in the downtown business districts," Berg added, "and a number of cities reported a definite increase in retail sales in the downtown area after the meters had been removed. None of he cities reported a decline in sales."

Bjornson Writes State History In Two Volumes

State Treasurer Val Bjornson is writing a two-volume history of Minnesota. Arrangements for the work were made early this year by the Lewis Historical Publishing company. The history, supplemented by two volumes of biographies, is scheduled for publication in 1968.

"It is just 30 years since a similar history was published, with the late Governor Theodore Christianson as author," Bjornson observed. "The American Historical Society, Inc., issued the Christianson history, which ran to five volumes, including biographies."

The treasurer, with whom history has been a life-long hobby, cited Theodore Christianson's 1935 foreword, declaring: "Dr. W. W. Folwel's 'History of Minnesota' in four volumes, is a monumental achievement by a man who not only wrote history but made it. It would be presumptuous to undertake to write a better history than he wrote."

Bjornson added, in his foreword to a prospectus already prepared for the new work: "Sharing the Folwell tradition and rank as historian, Dr. Theodore Blegen has since completed his excellent one-volume history of the state, published in 1963. No effort is here under way to duplicate works such as these. Again, bringing Theodore Christianson's aim up to date after the lapse of three full decades, 'The purpose of the present work is to present the story of our comonwealth in a different way for another and different audience. I feel the work can be valued source for schools, libraries and Minnesotans in general."

RRV Winter Shows Slated Feb. 19-27

On Saturday, February 19, the show will open with a gigantic "Youth Day." Almost all of the youth activities have been arranged for this day. The show management expects more than 1,500 4-H'ers and high school F.F.A. members to participate in the educational events.

Show activities will continue on through the late afternoon of Friday, February 25. Horse clubs will take over on the evening of the 25th and "wind up" the nine-day exposition with a horse show continuing through Sunday afternoon, February 27.

Paul Brekken, general superintendent of the Red River Valley Winter shows, states that concession space is selling fast. He has indicated that if concessioners expect to purchase display space for the 1966 show, it would be well to get their reservations in immediately.

The winter shows premium list book for the crops and livestock show will be available the last week in December.

Fine Red Lake Man On Fish Charge

A Red Lake resident, James A. Beaulieu, was fined $100 or 30 days in jail in Bemidji recently after game wardens arrested him on a charge of possessing over the limit of walleye pike.

Game wardens searched Beaulieu's car and found 42 packages of walleyes. Total weight of the dressed fish was 82 pounds, which Beaulieu admitted represented some 200 fish.

Economic Activity In 9th District Has Brisk Pace

As measured by most statistical business series, economic activity in the Ninth Federal Reserve district has moved at a brisk pace during 1965, the Federal Reserve Bank of Minneapolis reported today in its monthly economic review.

Perhaps of major significance to the region's economy has been the higher trend in farm commodity prices, particularly for livestock, and the record or near record farm outputs. Final crop production estimates, with the exception of corn, show shop increases over 1964 as well as from 1959-63 averages.

Nonagricultural employment data available through the first 10 months of 1965 indicate about a three per cent rate of growth from the same period of year earlier, the bank said. Also, the existence of a relatively tight labor situation has been spotlighted by a spectacular increase in the area's "help wanted" advertising index.

Regional industrial output also has registered growth. The district's index of industrial use of electric power and the index of production worker man-hours are up about five per cent and three per cent respectively from year-earlier data.

The bank debits indicator series, reflecting the dollar value of checks written against depositors' acounts, through October was up nine per cent from the same period in 1964.

One business indicator which has dropped is that of total valuation of construction contracts awarded. For the first 10 months of the year this indicator registered 20 per cent below the year-earlier level.

The bank said that a brisk demand for loans in 1965 has characterized the district's banking picture. Activity in commercial and industrial loans has been particularly strong although most other loan categories, including agricultural loans, also have increased. Bank deposits, especially time deposits, have increased but not at a sufficient rate to prevent a moderate further increase during the year in the loan-to-deposit ratios at both "city" and "country" bank In mid-November these ratios sto at 63 per cent from the so-called "city" banks and 53 per cent for the "country" banks. (City banks are the larger banks that report certain banking data on a weekly basis while country banks report bi-montly.)

vice office, with much of the success of the program. "Only because of his careful selection and guidance of these students," he said, "were we able to assemble such an excellent group." Six-hour classes were taught by Weigand and Lydeen in three-hour shifts, alternating weekly over the five-month course.

High school texts were returned to the publishers and the students used the same college texts used in the regular vocational school business curriculum. The students can now operate a keypunch, sorter and know some fo the principles of the tabulating system for processing data. They were also taught fundamental skills in business English and correspondence, business mathematics, filing and general office procedures, as well as given instruction in electric typewriters and a number of modern office machines.

Roseau School Board Decides On Bond Issue

A $500,000 bond issue has been called for vote January 25 by the board of Roseau Independent School District 682, Superintendent R. J. Halvorson reported, following a final planning meeting with architects and bond consultants last week.

The original cost estimate on needed building and remodeling was $710,000, which was pared to $590,000 by action of the board. Speaking of the overall proposals, Halvorson said, "The board considered the proposed improvements very necessary and desirable in entirety, but decided the total cost estimate would be rather high for this school district at this time." Polls for the election will be open in the high school auditorium from 3 to 8 p.m. on election day.

Remodeling in the present high school building will include creation of laboratory and classroom space for science, classes, use of the band room by art classes and enlargement of the vocal instructor's office for use by the principal. Three coal boilers will be converted to oil.

Some building additions are also planned. An additional 49x80-foot wing will be joined to the present industrial arts-agricultural building. Another addition, approximately 129x126 feet, will be built north of the present gymnasium and attached to the corridor. An elementary gymnasium measuring 44x64 feet will be located north of the present new grade building as will be a 32x44 foot music room for the grades. Two kindergarten room and one room for retarded educable children will be on the north side of the grade building.

Ask Formation of Group to Retain Lanes at Warren

An appeal for additional community support to save the Warren bowling lane operation was outlined to the Warren Chamber of Commerce Tuesday night by Attorney Harold Myhre who reviewed the problems of the business and the steps necessary to keep its doors open.

Attorney Myhre stated that $10,000 must be raised to keep the Brunswick bowling equipment company from removing its alleys and setters out of the Cactus Lanes building. Brunswick is pressuring to receive $10,000 down on the alleys and setters with the balance on the equipment and building to be paid for over an eight-year period from yearings.

Originally costing some $200,000 the operation can be purchased for $69,000, the amount Brunswick is asking, plus a mortgage of $36,000 which First Federal Savings and Loan association of Thief River Falls has against the building.

A suggestion has been made to raise the $10,000 from residents of the area who would form a corporation to operate the alleys with Joe Dudinsky as operator. When he has accumulated $10,000 in excess of his annual payments he would be allowed to repay investors and assume ownership of the enterprise. On Friday, Brunswick was to decide whether to close the alleys or allow them to remain open on a rental basis if it appeared likely that such a comunity effort would be successful in the near future.

Since May, 1941, more than $150 billion in Series E and H Savings Bonds have been sold to American citizens. Of this amount, about $100 billion has been redeemed to buy things saved for by the owners. A record $49 billion remains outstanding.

Marketing Year For Wool Program Ends December 31

Producers were reminded today that the 1965 marketing year under the wool program ends December 31, according to Marcel Dahl, chairman of the Marshall County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation comittee.

This means that payments for the current 1965 year will depend on completing all details of marketing either wool or lambs by that date Dahl said. Marketings completed after December 31 will become marketings in the 1966 marketing year, and thus not eligible for payments until early 1967.

The chairman urges producers to make sure that all details of the 1965 sales are completed not later than December 31. This includes passing title to the buyer, delivering the wool to the buyer either physically or through documents transferring control to the buyer, and having available all the information needed to determine the buyer's total purchase price.

Applications for the 1965 marketing year payments under the National Wool Act may be filed with the ASCS county offices any time, but the chairman said "the sooner the better." Incentive payments under the wool program are based on the average national price for marketings during the whole year, and this can be determined more exactly if reports on marketings are complete.

ASCS is making a special effort to have all applications filed before January 31. Payments for the 1965 marketing year will likely begin in April of next year.

Youth Corps Work For Conservation Dep't. Reviewed

Minnesota Conservation department today issued a report on Neighborhood Youth Corps work performed under the supervision of state game wardens. During the past year, total expenditures of federal funds on these projects amounted to $68,452 in Minnesota.

Types of work accomplished by the crews included the development of public access sites, clearing away brush and downed timber from trails and access sites, posting, fencing and clearing of refuge boundaries, repair of game warden headquarters and boathouses, and similar projects.

Several campsites were developed, fireplaces and docks were constructed and roads and beaches improved.

Most projects were terminated at the end of summer when workers returned to their classrooms and game wardens, who supplied supervision, had to concentrate entirely on game law enforcement activities.

Merry Christmas to all

Your reporter wishes to take this opportunity to wish each of its readers a very blessed Christmas season. May the peace of the Christ child born that night in the lowly stable in Bethlehem abide in the hearts of each and everyone.

Black River Homemakers

The Black River Homemakers will hold their Christmas party on Tuesday evening, December 21st, at the Black River church basement. Husbands and children of the members will be the guests. The evening will begin with a pot luck supper, at 6:45. Because of the popularity of the "Christmas in Faraway Lands" held in Thief River Falls a few weeks ago, the same theme will be carried out here. Each member is asked to bring one main dish, (hot dish, salad, etc.), bread for your family, and a sample of Christmas goodies. If possible try to make a dish customary to your own nationality or your husband's nationality. These dishes may be labeled and the recipe attached. Or you may choose another foreign country to represent if you so desire.

Following the supper, Gladys Person will show slides of her recent trip to Europe. All homemakers will be on the clean up committee.

Homemakers should take note of this announcement as there will be no special calling.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Mosbeck and family were Saturday evening visitors at the Martin Mosbeck home.

Tuesday evening visitors at the Henry Melin home in Red Lake Falls were Mr. and Mrs. Carl Mosbeck.

Mrs. Douglas Steiger and Mrs. Wilbur Hallstrom were Wednesday afternoon coffee guests at the Bob Sorvig home. They met to plan the Homemakers Christmas party.

Mr. and Mrs. Martin Mosbeck were Tuesday evening visitors at the Donald Mosbeck home.

Black River 4-H met on Thursday

Bray Town Hall for their Christmas party. Roll call was answered by naming a Christmas gift. After the business meeting a program was presented. Musical selections were rendered by Kenneth and Paulette Swanson on the electrical guitar and the accordion. Two readings were presented by Mrs. Edgar Naplin. Mark Naplin played two solos on his horn. Christmas carols were sung by the group, led by Mrs. Kenneth Swanson, song leader and accompanied by Paulette Swanson and Kathleen Hawkinson on their accordions. A demonstration on making bars was given by Rosalyn Hirst. Project reports were given by Alan Rux on chicken and egg production and Curtis Swanson on tractor. Judy Johnson and Mark Dudgeon were in charge of distributing gifts. Candy bars were given to each of the children. Pot luck lunch was served at the close of the evening.

LHS Tips Pirates On Rebound Shot

Tommy Cummings' layup shot, which dropped into the east basket just as the game-ending buzzer sounded, turned apparent defeat for the Prowlers into a one-point win, 38 to 37, in a District 31 conference basketball game played at Crookston on Friday night.

The Crookston Pirates, after trailing at all the stops, had gained the lead, 37 to 36, on Scott McFarlin's field goal with 3:14 to play. The two teams played ball-control for much of the final period, and when the Prowlers' gained possession on a Pirate travelling infraction, coach Whitey Olson's team had the ball for a last second try.

The Prowlers called time out with 14 seconds to play, and when play was resumed the ball was moved around the free throw circle and a pass was made to Bruce Saustad at the baseline, to the left of the basket. With five seconds to play Saustad tok his shot, which missed, but Cummings recovered the rebound then scored on a layup. Cummings was fouled by Crookston's Doug Sorenson on the play, and it took some minutes for the officials to secure the ball and give Cummings his free throw try. It was anti-climactic that Tommy missed the gift shot.

In Friday night's dramatic game at Crookston, the Prowlers held a 9 to 8 lead at the end of the first period, and moved into a 26 to 20 advantage at the intermission. Kurt Poppenhagen and Cummings each contributed three field goals to the Prowlers' 17-point second period scoring effort.

Coach Craig Johnson's Pirates outpointed the Prowlers, 11 to 7, in the third period to pare the Prowler lead to two points, 33 to 31, entering the fourth period. In the opening minute of play, Norm Newell looped in a field goal and the game was in a 33-all knot. Saustad, who played a fine all-round game for the Prowlers, added a free throw, and the locals led, 34, to 33.

Doug Sorenson, with 7:10 to play tallied a Pirate field goal; but Mark Stromberg's hook shot, which swished into the east basket at 4:05 to play, boosted the Prowlers gain into a one-point lead. McFarlin, from the lane, scored a Pirate field goal, and that set the stage for Cummings last-second game-winning basket.

Both teams were overly cautious in the final period, and gave up the ball on minor infractions. On one occasion the Prowlers were unable to put the ball into play from out-of-bounds in the five-seconds permitted; and in the final minute, a Crookston player was called from travelling.

The Prowlers' Cummings gained high-point honors with six field goals, with Saustad and Poppenhagen each collecting ten points. Sorenson led the Pirate scorers with four field goals and three free throws.

WINTER WONDERLAND scene was captured on film Thursday afternoon at the farmstead of John A. Grun, located about a mile south of Thief River Falls on the airport road. The spectacular scenery is the result of several days of fog which coated the trees with frost coupled with nine inches of new snow which fell during the first three days of last week. Barring an unforeseen heat wave, it appears that no one in northern Minnesota will have to dream of a white Christmas this year.

CLOSEST match of the dual meet between the Prowlers and Mahnomen Indians was this contest between Myles Olson of Thief River Falls and Rick Elfering of Mahnomen. Olson won the match 1-0 on an escape in the second period. Both wrestlers are former Region 8 champions.

Local Wrestlers Win Triangular

The Prowlers varsity wrestling squad won the triangular meet held at Ada on Saturday afternoon, scoring 67 points. The Moorhead Spuds totaled 51 points for second place, and the host Ada Vikings had 21 points.

In Saturday's matches at Ada, Bill Besch, Myles Olson, Steve Furuseth, Rod Collver, Luke Kaushagen, and Bruce Parnham scored double wins.

Prowler Hockey Team Loses 3-2 To Duluth East

Dick Kresal's backhand shot from ten feet out and two minutes into the sudden-death overtime period, broke a 2-all tie and gave coach Glen Rolle's Duluth East Greyhounds a 3 to 2 win over the Prowlers in a high school hockey game played on the ice sheet in the Duluth Curling club in Duluth on Saturday night.

The Prowlers will play the Crookston Central Pirates at Crookston on Tuesday night in a Region Eight conference game. And on December 28 and 29 the Prowlers will participate in the holiday tournament at Roseau, meeting Virginia at 7:30 p.m. on the 28th, and Richfield at 7:30 p.m. on the 29th.

Although scoring but one goal in the first period of play, that by Kresal at 10:25, the Duluth East sextet held a commanding lead in the play, with goalie Jeff Noel being tested on 13 shots.

In the second period the trend of play was reverse with the Prowlers controlling the play. Kent LeMoine, on an assist from Roddy Carlson, scored at the 8:09 mark. And a couple of minutes later, at 10:51, Kent LeMoine, with John Olson and Merle Sampson assisting, scored to give the Prowlers a 2 to 1 lead.

The Prowlers held that one-goal edge until late in the third period when Keith Gilbertson, on an assist from Bruce Jordte, scored to knot the game and force an overtime period.

Wardens Arrest 644 on Violations During November

Minnesota game wardens made 644 arrests during the month of November, the state game and fish division reported today. Transporting loaded or uncased firearms in a motor vehicle accounted for 296 arrests, including one man who was arrested with two loaded rifles in a car and accompanied by two young children.

In commenting on this case, Ted Shields, state game and fish director, said, "It is difficult to understand the thinking of a person who would take chances like this with his own life and the life of his children."

There were 92 violations of the big game laws during the month, among them 18 persons arrested for taking deer during a closed season and nine for shining with a motor vehicle.

Eighty-nine arrests were made for infractions of the waterfowl hunting regulations. Most common violation observed by wardens was shooting before or after legal shooting hours.

There were 32 arrests for small game violations, 17 for illegal fishing and 23 for hunting in parks or refuges.

Two men were arrested for resisting a warden and 14 for violations of the fish netting restrictions. Miscellaneous offenses accounted for the balance of the month's arrests.

Game Department Ready If Deer Need Winter Help

Record snowfalls late in November caused grave concern for deer in the northern areas of the state, but the recent warm spell has relieved the situation, according to conservation department officials.

By November 27, snow on the level measured two feet deep in St. Louis, Cook, Koochiching and Itasca counties. Warm temperatures and rain during the second week in December, however, caused melting and settling of at least half of the snow in most areas.

Department officials say that conditions for deer now are about normal for this time of the year. However, Conservation Commissioner Wayne Olson said that a coordinated plan for winter deer habitat management and emergency browse cutting has been developed.

Thirty snow recording stations have been established in the deer range to record weekly changes in snow depth. Milt Stenlund, regional game manager at Grand Rapids, has been named field coordinator to compile these and other reports concerning the condition of deer and deer yards.

Game managers, game wardens, foresters and even state parks personnel will have active assignments in gathering information.

Crews of Neighborhood Youth Corps trainees already are beginning deer yard improvement work under the supervision of game wardens. These crews will be expanded to accelerate cutting of natural feed if this should become necessary. If critical situations develop, local groups and individuals who want help will be given advice and direction by department fieldmen.

Olson said that the plan has been developed to assure coordination in the event of an emergency and to give direction to efforts to help deer through the winter.

Primary emphasis is placed on the trimming of natural browse in key areas. This not only provides immediate nutritious food for hungry deer, but also allows regrowth which will provide more food for future years.

"It is impossible to save all of the deer during an adverse winter," Olson said, "but we can alleviate a serious situation if our efforts are coordinated and our energies are expanded in the most practical and effective manner."

Prowlers Whip E.G.F. In First Hockey Game

The hockey Prowlers opened their 1965-66 schedule, and their Region Eight conference competition, on Wednesday night by scoring a 4-1 win over coach Ed Thomlinson's East Grand Forks squad on the arena ice here. Following Saturday night's game at Duluth East, the Prowlers will return to Region Eight conference play by meeting the Crookston Central Pirates at Crookston on Tuesday night, December 21.

On December 28 and 29, the Prowlers will participate in the holiday tournament at Roseau, meeting Virginia at 7:30 p.m. on Tuesday, December 28, and playing Richfield on Wednesday night, December 29, also at 7:30 p.m.

In a preliminary game played on Wednesday night, coach Jerry Westby's Prowler B squad rolled up an 11 to 1 win over the East Grand Forks B squad.

Wednesday night's opening hockey game was typical of season-openers, with play being hampered by penalties and, in the third period, "heavy" ice conditions. The Prowlers notched the game's first goal when, at the 4:52 mark of the first period, John Olson, after getting a centering-out pass from Kent LeMoine, rapped a shot past goalie Verdell Olson of East Side and into the north net.

The Green Wave, at the 8:20 mark, tallied the equalizer when Dick Hanson, during a scramble in front of the Prowler net, shoved the disc past goalie Jeff Noel. The Prowlers were skating two men short at the time with Wayne Smith and Billy Poole in the penalty box.

In the opening seconds of the second period John Olson, rapping his own rebound into the south net, gave the Prowlers a 2-1 lead. And when Smith hit the laces at the 1:22 mark of the period, coach George Schlieff's squad had a 3 to 1 lead.

Prowler B Team Defeated 61-41

The Prowler B cagers, after overcoming a 17 to 4 deficit at the end of the first period, and trailing by two points at the intermission, 17 to 19, gained a two-point lead in the early minutes of the third period, but then faded before the all-round scoring attack of the Crookston B team, losing Friday night's preliminary game, 61 to 41.

Coach Dale Thoreson's Crookston B squad turned in a 26-point effort in the third period to pull away from the Prowler B's.

Burly Jerry Hasbrouck led the Pirate scoring with 21 points; and the two Crookston guards, Lyle Swenson and Ralph Tellefson, collected nine points apiece.

Glen Nelson, with six field goals and a free throw, paced the Prowler scorers with 13 points. And Doug Knutson had ten points on three field goals and four free throws.

DEFENSEMAN Merle Sampson of the Prowlers gives a boost to Curt Monson (7) of East Grand Forks in attempting to get at the puck in Wednesday night's hockey opener against the Little Green Wave. Danny Stauss (9), co-captain of the East Side sextet, is also trying to get a stick on the elusive disc. The Prowlers opened the season on a winning note by scoring a 4-1 decision against the Wave.

Keeping Score with "Huck" Olson

No Contest

It was expected that the Ada Vikings, given pre-season rating as one of the favorites in Region Eight, would provide the Henning Hornets, the defending Region Six champions, with a test on Friday night. But the game, which was played at Henning, proved to be no contest. The game score was 78 to 53 in favor of Henning.

The Henning squad is heavily favored to make a return trip to the state tournament, having four regulars returning for this season's play. Henning, with the six-foot five-inch twins, Dick and Bob Peterson, leading the attack, ran up a 25 to 9 first-period lead over Ada on Friday night. And from there on it was no contest.

The Ada Vikings will be here on Wednesday night, meeting the Prowlers on the Lincoln high school court.

Did you note that the Bemidji Lumberjacks defeated the East Grand Forks Green Wave at East Grand Forks on Saturday night? Coach Bun Fortier's defending Region Eight champions needed two overtime periods in order to edge out Larry Selk's Green Wave, 60 to 58. And for most of the game, the Jacks were trailing in the score.

Incidentally, the Schwartz that is listed in the Bemidji lineup is not Larry Schwartz, the burly boy who gained all-state football honors as a fullback. The Schwartz in the Jacks' line up is a Doug Schwartz, a transfer student. Larry is off the Bemidji squad due, from the reports being circulated, because of personality clashes with the Bemidji coaching staff.

And big Howard Hoganson, the lone returning regular from last season's Bemidji starting lineup, has been handicapped by an ankle injury. If the Jacks can get consistent scoring from their guards, coach Fortier's club will be a threat again.

State Mention

According to the press release of the Minnesota wrestling coaches association, and edited by former Prowler coach Al Shaff, the Prowlers are listed as number 18. The Moorhead Spuds, due to their performance at the Sioux Invitational, where they outpointed the Prowlers, are listed as number 14. But the Prowlers should move ahead of the Spuds as a result of their win in the triangular meet at Ada on Saturday.

And in the individual ratings, the Prowlers' nifty 120-pound wrestler Steve Furuseth, is included in the team-of-the-week. Of course, Steve dropped a decision to Crookston's Rick Kaltenberg, but in a return match, in the Sioux Invitational, Furuseth reversed that decision and defeated Kaltenberg.

In the short history of Prowler wrestling I doubt if the local fans have witnessed a more-evenly contested match than that between the Prowlers' Myles Olson and the Mahnomen Indians' Rick Elfering on Tuesday night. In the 112-pound match, Myles, by gaining a point in the second round on an escape, defeated Elfering, 1 to 0. Elfering was the Region Eight 103-pound champion last season, and Myles was the Region Eight winner in the 97-pound class a couple of years ago.

The next home appearance for coach Ed Krystosek's Prowlers will be against the Park Rapids Panthers on Friday night, January 14. Better make a memo to the effect that you will witness that match.

Curling Building Open for Practice

Ice is now ready for use at the Thief River Falls Curling club building on the Pennington county fairgrounds. Practice curling for men and women will be held during the holidays with league play to begin on Thursday, December 30. A fun night will be held Tuesday and individuals, couples or teams are invited to participate.

Ask Deer Hunters To Return Cards

With the close of the December bow and arrow season Sunday, all legal deer hunting is now over in Minnesota until next year.

The conservation department's game and fish division today asked hunters to return their hunter success report cards from their licenses as soon as possible so that the annual analysis of deer kill and hunter success can be started without delay.

Hunter cooperation is required to provide the information on which to base regulations and management measures needed to insure that Minnesota's deer herd continues as one of the finest in the nation.

Select Reserve Force Expected To Be Ready

Select Reserve Force, comprised of National Guard units and Army Reserve groups, will be fully ready to back up the regular army for crisis duty by June 30. This is the prediction of Maj. Gen. Winston P. Wilson, the chief of the National Guard Bureau. Company "B" of the National Guard in Thief River Falls is a member of this force.

"There is no question in my mind that we are going to meet the eight-week goal by June 30," General Wilson said in an Associated Press interview. He referred to the objective of having the select force in shape to deploy within eight weeks of mobilization.

The AP story stated the following:

This could be significant from the point of view of how the selected force might fit into any long-range military buildup plans of the Defense Department related to the growing war in South Viet Nam.

Composition of the force was announced on October 13. It comprises 119,000 men from the National Guard and about 31,00 from the Reserve.

Near Combat Strength

The heart of the selected force is made up of three Guard divisions and six independent brigades.

Wilson told The Associated Press that Guard units in the selected force are already built up to more than 97 per cent of their combat strength. This has been done by absorbing volunteers from lower-priority units in the Guard and from the Reserve.

Builders of the selected force have tried wherever possible to draw into its ranks trained men who have seen at least two years of active military duty.

All 50 states now are conducting expanded training for their selected force units. This represents about 24 hours of drills a month.

Programs Differ

Some States, Wilson said, are three-day weekend training which permits field exercises.

The Guard Bureau is in the process of shifting equipment from low-priority, understrength units to the selected force elements to give them the required level of gear for training.

For the first time, Guard units will undergo their annual field training starting in the winter, rather than waiting for the traditional summer training period.

Some units will be taking two weeks of annual training as early as February, and the whole selected force is expected to have that training under its belt by June 30.

Land Bank Plans To Maintain Rate On Loan Interest

Federal Land Bank of St. Paul, which makes farm and ranch loans throughout Minnesota, Wisconsin, North Dakota and Michigan, announces that it presently has no plans of changing its interest rate for new loans. The current contract rate of 5½ per cent has been in effect since January, 1961.

The bank's principal source of loan funds is the sale of Land Bank bonds on the investment market.

"To the extent possible, the Federal Land Bank of St. Paul will continue to absorb the rising cost of money," said Hans T. Hagen, president of the St. Paul bank.

"Prime objective of the bank," Hagen commented, "is to provide continuous credit service at the lowest rate consistent with sound business practice to all farmers and ranchers who have a sound basis for credit on and terms suited to their requirements."

The bank presently serves over 59,000 farmers and ranchers with $536 million of farm mortgage credit. The loans are serviced by the 79 Federal Land Bank associations in the four-state area.

State Bankers Association Wins National Award

Minnesota Bankers association and its more than 700 member banks have been presented the National Agricultural Award for the 26th consecutive year, according to an announcement by the American Bankers association in New York.

Agricultural projects of the association were carried out during the 1965-66 year by the association's agricultural committee. Chairman of the committee was A. H. Haakenson, president of the Austin State bank, and vice-chairman was G. A. Belto Jr., president of the Northern State bank, Thief River Falls.

The association's educational programs for better banking service and various other activities in the agricultural field led to the award, granted by the national organization of the banking industry.

Activities of the MBA agricultural committee included sponsorship of an annual agricultural credit conference; a new agricultural scholarship program for farm youth; support of Future Farmers of America, 4-H and the 4-H foundation; support of the International Foreign Youth Exchange program; co-sponsorship with the University of Minnesota of an annual income tax short course; and numerous other activities.

Public Opinion

To the Times Editor:

After reading your highly partisan editorial in the Times for Monday the 13th in regard to Saving Money, and the re-aportionment problem, it occurs to me that your editorial needs a few corrections and some comments. It appears to me that you must have been asleep since the last session of the Legislature, and this again has led you to write this rather misleading editorial.

First of all we should bear in mind that the present re-apportionment law passed by the Legislature last winter was passed and adopted by a Republican controlled Legislature. The big Republican leaders of the Legislature dictated and forced through the re-districting law that was passed. It was not done by the Farmer-Laborites. I would like to have the editor and the readers of the Times keep this in mind.

If this law had been a just and fair re-districting law, providing for fair and equitable legislative districts, then there would have been no veto. I am convinced that Governor Rolvaag would not have vetoed this law if it had been somewhere near fair and just.

Right here is the origin of the expense that the editor is complaining about. This expense, be it $80,000 or $100,000 or whatever it may be, is forced upon the taxpayers of the state by the Republican-controlled and dominated Legislature. Any costs there may be to the state in connection with the court action also grows out of the efforts of the Republicans to dominate and control the Legislation. It was the Republican group that brought the action in court to deprive the Governor of his veto, and to ignore the constitutional provisions. Let us keep all this in mind.

Let us also keep in mind that one of the objects and purposes of this re-districting is to take away some of the representation of the farmers, and the country districts, and of the small cities and villages, and to give it to the large cities. Then, when the large cities get more representation and more power and control, they can place more of the tax burden upon the farmers, and the business people of the small cities and villages. Governor Rolvaag was forced to veto the re-districting law passed by the last session of the Legislature in order to be fair to the country districts. When a special session is called the expense could have been avoided if the Republican controlled and dominated Legislature had passed a fair and just re-districting law in the first place. I would like to have the editor explain all this in his editorial pages.

I have now lived in and around Thief River Falls for over 60 years and I do not like to see an unfair tax burden placed on the people of this area through an unfair representation. I have made my living here, and the editor of the Times, and the Times, also owe a lot to the people around here. I think we should all, including editors and newspapers, take a stand for the people of this part of our state. The record is clear. All we need to do is to read the Legislative Journals of the Senate and the House of Representatives and you will see that it was the Republican majority that caused all this expense in connection with re-districting. The people of the state all know that the last session of the Legislature was completely dominated and controlled by the Republicans. Governor Rolvaag as a matter of justice and fairness to the country districts had to veto the first re-districting law.

It is not going to be so easy to work out a fair and just re-districting law. Maybe we cannot get a fair and just law from this Legislature. Possibly we may have to let the Federal Courts take action, but I, for one do not like this sort of interference by the courts. Nowhere in our constitution is the court given the power to Legislate. Legislation is something for the Legislative bodies. The courts may try to assume power that they were never intended to have.

Hoping that you find space for these corrections and comments occasioned by your editorial, I am—

Yours very truly
H. O. Berve

"Always hold fast to the present hour. Every state of duration, every second, is of infinite value. . .I have staked on the present as one stakes a large sum on one card, and I have sought without exaggerating to make it as high as possible." —Goethe

Taking it Back

"Indian giver" is a term of derision long favored by youngsters. It has to do with someone who gives you something—and then demands it back. Nowadays, Indian giving can be accurately used to describe the tax system.

We have had a modest reduction in federal income taxes. This action was greeted with an immense amount of publicity and was described as a shot in the arm for the economy. And, it is true, just about everyone has had a little more take-home pay to spend.

But this happy situation is soon to end—either entirely or in large part—for most people. The reason: In 1966, a worker with an income of $6,600 or more will pay $277 in social security taxes—$103 more than the $174 he paid in 1965. The employer's contribution will go up by an identical amount.

And this won't be the end. More increases will go into effect periodically. By 1987, the $6,600 a year worker will pay $873 as will his employer. And self-employed people will then pay $515. Tax reductions are fine, but they don't mean a thing when tax increases take all or most of the money right back.

Perpetual Youth

General Douglas MacArthur wrote the following words in regard to youth. As appropriate as they are to the individual, they may also be applied to an entiere community. He writes:

"Youth is not entirely a time of life—it is a state of mind. It is not wholly a matter of ripe cheeks, red lips or supple knees. It is a temper of the will, a quality of the imagination, a vigor of the emotions, a freshness of the deep springs of life. It means a temperamental predominance of courage over timidity, of an appetite for adventure over love of ease.

"Nobody grows old by merely living a number of years. People grow old only by deserting their ideals. Years may wrinkle the skin, but to give up interest wrinkles the soul. Worry, doubt, self-distrust, fear and despair—these are the long, long years that bow the head and turn the growing spirit back to dust. Whatever your years, there is in every being's heart the love of wonder, the undaunted challenge of events, the unfailing child-like appetite for what next, and the joy and the game of life.

"You are as young as your faith, as old as your doubt; as young as your self confidence, as old as your fear,; as young as your hope, as old as your despair. In the central place of every heart there is a recording chamber; so long as it receives messages of beauty, hope, cheer, and courage, so long you are young.

"When the wires are all down and your heart is covered with the snow of pessimism and the ice of cynicism, then, and then only, are you grown old."

We Disagree

It has been the policy of this paper not to comment editorially in direct reference to expressions of public opinion directed to us for publication. We sincerely feel that this is taking unfair advantage of our position to put in the "last word" on controversial topics. Today, however, we are making an exception and breaking with policy.

In this issue is a public opinion letter from H. O. Berve, local attorney, who takes issue with a recent editorial on reapportionment, the governor's veto of the legislature-enacted bill and cost the state of a special legislative session to resolve the differences. In the letter, the writer asks us to "explain all this in his editorial pages". This request is our reason for breaking with policy against comment on public opioion letters.

We appreciate Mr. Berve's interest in the question, and have no desire nor inclination toward a personal feud—nor, for that matter, do we believe Mr. Berve is so inclined. This editorial will be our final comment on his letter, and is written in reply to it—as previously stated—at his request. We ask that you read his letter before the rest of this editorial in order to better undersand the points in question.

First, we would like to remind Mr. Berve that state law provides for the election of Senators and Representatives without party designation and that they caucus as Liberals and Conservatives at their choice. His reference to Republicans and Farmer-Laborites in the state legislature is therefore a matter of personal interpretation.

Second, placing the burden of cost for a special session at the feet of the legislature or the governor is also a matter of interpretation. Our contention is that the legislature did act to adopt legislation which would have been acceptable. This action by legislators duly elected by the people of Minnesota should be more indicative of the desires of these people than the veto of a governor whose total margin of victory in a re-count was less than one vote from each of the state's legislative districts. In essence, the legislature took the required action which could have been final; the governor's veto caused the following court action on legality of the veto and possible costs of a special legislative session.

Third, we believe the reapportionment law was quite fair and just. We believe the governor's veto was inspired much more by political motivation than any real concern for the rural areas of the state. The "clear" record to which Mr. Berve refers indicates the governor's allegiance to metropolitan unions rather than to northwestern Minnesota farmers and businessmen. Just what type of redistricting bill the governor would consider "fair and just" is impossible to say, but we are willing to bet the rural area of the state wouldn't be scheduled for any special favors.

Fourth, there is usually an honest difference of opinion as to what is "fair and just". The price a buyer believes is fair may not seem a fair price to the seller. Our opinion is that the transfer of 10 representatives and five senators to the metropolitan area is sufficient, and that the legislature bill did an admirable job in not combining districts for political gain. This was not the case when the Liberals were in power at the previous reapportionment, as a comparison of the two plans will show.

Fifth, we hope that Mr. Berve will compare the legislature's vetoed bill with whatever solution is accomplished by either the legislature or courts. We doubt the latter will be as considerate of the rural areas as the one adopted by the legislature.

Sixth, a note of agreement. We should all certainly take a stand for the people in this part of our state. Neither do we look with favor upon court intervention on what we consider a strictly legislative matter. Mr. Berve, we may disagree in method but we do not disagree in principle—that rural areas of the state must battle for legislative representation in order to keep from becoming a voice out of the darkness and to remain a vital part of our total society.

The Fight Continues

Those Senators who—against most of the predictions—prevented repeal of section 14 (b) of the Taft-Hartley Act, which authorizes the states to enact Right-to-Work laws if they so choose, were not against the unions. They were against coercion.

Senator Dirksen said: ". . .Is there a more fundamental right than the right to make a living for one's self and for one's family without being compelled to join a labor organization?" Senator McClellan said: "If I were a wage earner, I might well be inclined to join a union. But I would want to have the choice of joining a union. I would not want to be compelled to join. Have we lost all sense of reason—have we forgotten the dedication to fundamental rights? . . ." Senator Smathers said: "I am for organized labor. I like organized labor. But the right of each and every wage earner to make a free choice concerning union membership must be paramount over the desires of any single private group." Senator Eastland said: "One of the most incredible elements in the whole movement to repeal 14 (b) is the fact that the very liberals who talk the loudest and longest about civil rights are now bent on destroying the freedom of an individual to choose what organization or association he shall or shall not join."

So it went. The battle is not over—compulsory unionism will again become an issue when the second session of this Congress convenes in January. And, once more, that issue will be whether a man can be forced against his will and his beliefs to join a private organization in order to hold a job.

A Place in Space

While we must confess that the space programs of the United States and Russia do not cause us to tingle with excitement, shout jubilant hurrahs or throw our hat in the air, the rendezvous of Gemini 6 and Gemini 7 in space on Wednesday was a least interesting.

We would imagine that part of our space age apathy is due to the rapid developments in technology which have provided so many innovations that nothing really seems startling any more. And, of course, the tremendous costs of such programs does cause a person to wonder if it is all worth it.

Wednesday's space rendezvous—where space capsules fired days apart were "flown" into the same orbit and then jockeyed within a few feet of each other—was a tribute to refinements of the computer age. Knowledge gained in the experiment is said to be essential to this nation's efforts to establish a space station from which exploratory jaunts may be made to the moon.

While only a few years ago such thoughts existed only in the imaginative minds of writers of fiction, a trip to the moon now does not seem any more impossible than a trip to the coast by automobile. This must be regarded, we suppose, as somewhat of a marvel.

A tourist has been described as a person who will drive thousands of miles to have his picture taken in front of his own car. Astronauts on the recent project may be described as persons who traveled millions of miles to grin at one another through the windows of their own spaceships.

One is also caused to think how invaluable the computer is in such a project. These electronic marvels can provide instantaneous information which it would be humanly impossible to calculate in anywhere near the time required on such a maneuver as flying two space capsules with such intricacy.

A person is also compelled to think that if the unions had their complete way a rocket would never get off the ground. Union leadership has long opposed automation as a deterrent to jobs. Without technical progress and automation, the nation would not have its place in space. This is an amazing age.

Borrowed Nonsense . . .

A man approached his glum-looking friend at the bar. "My wife is always asking for money," said the one with the glum look. "Only a few weeks ago she asked for $300. Last week she wanted $250 and the other day she asked me for $200 and only this morning she wanted another $200. She thinks I have a money tree."

"Boy, that's crazy," said the friend. "What does she do with it all."

"How should I know," said the glum one, "I never give her any."

Agassiz-Banded Geese Winter in Mississippi

Further confirmation was made last week of where the giant Canada geese produced at Agassiz National Wildlife refuge spend their winters. On December 9, a member of the staff at the Sardis Reservoir state waterfowl refuge near Oxford, Miss., reported observing 21 Canada geese in a flock of 200 birds which were wearing colored plastic bands around their necks.

Bureau officials stated that these bands were placed on the geese at Agassiz refuge during the past summer. The first indication that geese from this northwestern Minnesota refuge were migrating to Mississippi to spend the winter came in 1962. In that year five metal bands recovered from geese shot by hunters near the Mississippi refuge proved to be from birds raised at Agassiz refuge.

In order to better manage and protect the resident goose flock at Agassiz refuge so as to provide greater future enjoyment to hunters and naturalists alike, it is important to learn as much as possible about the needs of these birds during all times of the year according to Claude Alexander, refuge manager.

Since 1962, when young captive Canada geese were released on the refuge, a great deal of information has been gathered during the time the birds remained on the area. But following their annual fall migration flights south since 1962, little has been learned of where the birds travel to, where they stop along the way, or what their winter habitat requirements and needs are.

The first breakthrough came in the fall of 1963 with the recovery of metal leg bands from the five Agassiz-produced geese shot near the Mississippi wintering area. Thus, it appeared as though at least some of the Canada geese from the northwestern Minnesota production area were migrating some 800 miles to winter in the warm winter climate of Mississippi.

Rather than have to depend entirely on the small return of leg banded birds to provide essential information, it was decided that an attempt should be made to color mark the birds in some manner. This would make visual identification possible without having the birds in hand. Therefore, during the summer of 1965 a total of 81 Canada goose goslings raised in the wild at Agassiz Refuge were trapped, and plastic orange and white neck and leg bands placed on them in addition to the usual metal leg band.

Before these birds left the refuge this past fall it was learned that a number of them were shot by hunters on farmlands surrounding the refuge. The last collared birds were seen on the area on November 13. Nothing was known of their whereabouts until the appearance of the 21 seen on the Mississippi refuge on December 9. This information indicates that approximately 25 per cent of those young goslings banded in 1965 made the migration to Mississippi safely.

Continued efforts will be made in succeeding years to color-mark greater numbers of geese produced at Agassiz refuge. Each year a different color combination will be used on the plastic neck and leg bands. This will enable observors to determine both the age and sex of individual geese that they are looking at.

Further observations on these marked birds will tell wildlife biologists and managers whether or not all, or only a portion of the Agassiz goose flock continues to winter in Mississippi. Once this has been determined, more can be done to protect them and to provide for their needs during the critical winter period and during both the spring and fall migration periods.

This goose color banding program as conducted at the Agassiz National Wildlife refuge is one of the many important goose management programs being carried out in the central United States. Such programs are making a significant contribution to the conservation of the Canada goose so as to provide enjoyment to millions of people in this and future generations, Alexander concluded.

Otter Tail Will Spend $6 Million On Improvements

Otter Tail Power company will spend more than $6,000,000 for additions and improvements to its tri-state electric system in 1966, according to Albert Hartl, president of the company, as he made public the details of his firm's construction program for the coming year. Last Monday, the company's directors approved a construction budget of $6,270,000 to finance the 1966 program.

Receiving heavy emphasis in the company's 1966 spending for construction will be additional high-voltage transmission facilities to implement increased coordination of operations with other area electric suppliers in the Upper Mississippi Valley Power pool and Mid-Continent Area Power planners (MAPP).

Nearly $1,675,000 will be spent for new 115,000 and 230,000-volt transmission lines and substations and to convert existing transmission facilities of the company from 115,000 to 230,000 volts. These improvements will result not only in increasingly more efficient operations, but in stronger transmission networks of the type recommended by the Federal Power commission to further reduce the hazard of power failures like the one that took place in the northeastern section of the country last November, Hartl said.

In addition to funds earmarked for major transmission line construction, $1,213,000 will be spent for electric lines of lower voltages; $465,000 for non-specific transmission line projects; and $1,714,700 for electric distribution work including rebuilds of electric systems in Otter Tail communities, street lighting, distribution extensions and increased transformer capacities.

Only $210,000 is scheduled to be spent for electric generating projects and $788,000 for tools, equipment and vehicles.

Driver Turning Must Yield To Approaching Cars

Question of who has the right of way when a driver is making a left turn has been clarified by a recent change in the Minnesota highway and traffic laws, reports the Minnesota Highway department.

New wording of Minnesota Statute 169.20 says that "a driver intending to make a left turn within an intersection or into a driveway, alley or private road must yield the right of way to any vehicle approaching from the opposite direction that is within the intersection or so close as to constitute an immediate hazard."

Previously, the law also said the left turning driver acquires the right of way after having so yielded that other vehicles approaching from the opposite direction shall then yield the right of way to him. But the new wording in the law deletes this provision. The left turning driver is now required to yield to any and all approaching vehicles that are close enough to constitute a hazard.

There were no other changes in the laws relating to the right of way.

When two vehicles enter an uncontrolled intersection from different highways at about the same time, the driver on the left must yield the right of way to the vehicle on the right.

The driver of any vehicle traveling at an unlawful speed forfeits any right of way which he might otherwise have.

Where a YIELD sign is present on a roadway, there is no question about who has the right of way. The driver facing such sign must give way to any vehicle on the road which he is about to enter if that vehicle is close enough to constitute a hazard.

Agassiz-Banded Geese Winter in Mississippi

Further confirmation was made last week of where the giant Canada geese produced at Agassiz National Wildlife refuge spend their winters. On December 9, a member of the staff at the Sardis Reservoir state waterfowl refuge near Oxford, Miss., reported observing 21 Canada geese in a flock of 200 birds which were wearing colored plastic bands around their necks.

Bureau officials stated that these bands were placed on the geese at Agassiz refuge during the past summer. The first indication that geese from this northwestern Minnesota refuge were migrating to Mississippi to spend the winter came in 1962. In that year five metal bands recovered from geese shot by hunters near the Mississippi refuge proved to be from birds raised at Agassiz refuge.

In order to better manage and protect the resident goose flock at Agassiz refuge so as to provide greater future enjoyment to hunters and naturalists alike, it is important to learn as much as possible about the needs of these birds during all times of the year according to Claude Alexander, refuge manager.

Since 1962, when young captive Canada geese were released on the refuge, a great deal of information has been gathered during the time the birds remained on the area. But following their annual fall migration flights south since 1962, little has been learned of where the birds travel to, where they stop along the way, or what their winter habitat requirements and needs are.

The first breakthrough came in the fall of 1963 with the recovery of metal leg bands from the five Agassiz-produced geese shot near the Mississippi wintering area. Thus, it appeared as though at least some of the Canada geese from the northwestern Minnesota production area were migrating some 800 miles to winter in the warm winter climate of Mississippi.

Rather than have to depend entirely on the small return of leg banded birds to provide essential information, it was decided that an attempt should be made to color mark the birds in some manner. This would make visual identification possible without having the birds in hand. Therefore, during the summer of 1965 a total of 81 Canada goose goslings raised in the wild at Agassiz Refuge were trapped, and plastic orange and white neck and leg bands placed on them in addition to the usual metal leg band.

Before these birds left the refuge this past fall it was learned that a number of them were shot by hunters on farmlands surrounding the refuge. The last collared birds were seen on the area on November 13. Nothing was known of their whereabouts until the appearance of the 21 seen on the Mississippi refuge on December 9. This information indicates that approximately 25 per cent of those young goslings banded in 1965 made the migration to Mississippi safely.

Continued efforts will be made in succeeding years to color-mark greater numbers of geese produced at Agassiz refuge. Each year a different color combination will be used on the plastic neck and leg bands. This will enable observers to determine both the age and sex of individual geese that they are looking at.

Further observations on these marked birds will tell wildlife biologists and managers whether or not all, or only a portion of the Agassiz goose flock continues to winter in Mississippi. Once this has been determined, more can be done to protect them and to provide for their needs during the critical winter period and during both the spring and fall migration periods.

This goose color banding program as conducted at the Agassiz National Wildlife refuge is one of the many important goose management programs being carried out in the central United States. Such programs are making a significant contribution to the conservation of the Canada goose so as to provide enjoyment to millions of people in this and future generations, Alexander concluded.

Driver Turning Must Yield To Approaching Cars

Question of who has the right of way when a driver is making a left turn has been clarified by a recent change in the Minnesota highway and traffic laws, reports the Minnesota Highway department.

New wording of Minnesota Statute 169.20 says that "a driver intending to make a left turn within an intersection or into a driveway, alley or private road must yield the right of way to any vehicle approaching from the opposite direction that is within the intersection or so close as to constitute an immediate hazard."

CONSERVATION News & Notes

by Bob Farmes
Area Game Manager
Division of Game & Fish—Minn. Conservation Dep't.

In managing the 85 wildlife units in this nine-county area, the game manager often uses cooperative farming agreements to assist in completing practices which are beneficial to wildlife. Some examples are the establishment of wildlife food plots, strip mowing of grass, "light" grazing, halting of the brush encroachment on grass, as well as assistance in the development and maintenance of water control structures, dikes and roads.

These cooperative farming agreements, commonly referred to as leases, consist of the renting of cropland, hayland and pasture. During the 1965 season 43 farming agreements were in effect on about 1,800 acres in this area.

On wildlife management units where cropland is leased, the cooperator agrees to leave a designated acreage of the crop as a wildlife food plot. During the 1965 season there were a total of 35 food plots (110 acres) consisting of corn, buckwheat, rye, flax, oats and millet left in the fields primarily for sharp-tailed grouse, prairie chickens and pheasants.

Use of these food supplies by the birds is dependant upon the winter and existing snow conditions. There is usually about 85 to 100 per cent utilization of the food supply by spring in these food plots during years of considerable snowfall. There is little use of the food plots during years of little snow as natural food supplies are easily available to the birds.

The prairie chicken relies almost entirely upon cultivated crops for its winter food supply and probably could not exist in this area during most winters without access to grains (stubble fields, corn fields or food plots). With the trends changing toward more efficient farming and changes in farming practices such as increased fall plowing, these food plots as well as food plots established under the G-1 practice of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation service will become more essential to the winter survival of these birds.

"Light" pasturing of some of the grasslands on these units is of benefit to prairie grouse and waterfowl. Prairie grouse are dependent upon certain density grasses for nesting cover as well as for brood cover and brood travel. Grasses usually left in a natural state without mowing, fire or light grazing usually becomes less suitable after several years for prairie grouse nesting.

Waterfowl also benefit from light grazing along marshes that have the entire shoreline closed in with vegetation. Grazing will open some of the shoreline, making the area more attractive to nesting ducks. The buffalo (Bison) accomplished this before the coming of the white man.

Another practice of grassland management for prairie grouse nesting and brood cover is the strip mowing of haylands on the units. Hay leases on some of the tracts require the mowing of 15 to 20 - foot strips; that is, each year a strip of 15 to 20 feet is mowed, another 15 to 20 foot strip is left unmowed, another 15 to 20 foot strip mowed, and so on.

These strips of mowed and unmowed grass are rotated over the years so that a strip does not remain unmowed for more than 3 to 4 years. The unmowed strip offers nesting habitat while the mowed grassland offers brood travel lanes. On all game lands hayland is not allowed to be mowed until after July 15 when the majority of the nesting is completed.

During the past four years on units which have adequate wildlife food plots but yet where additional farming practices would be of benefit to wildlife, the leasing agreement states that the cooperator will furnish work on the unit equivalent to the value of the state's share of the crop.

Some of the cooperators have furnished equipment for a portion of the work on the completion and maintenance of water control structures on Vanose unit in Mahnomen county, Hovland unit in Polk county and Agassiz II unit in Norman county. The spraying of brushland which was encroaching upon the grasslands of the Syre unit in Norman county was completed as a result of cooperative farming agreements.

Considerable work was conducted on Twin Lakes unit in Kittson county near Karlstad. Boundary clearing, plowing and disking to establish a good seed bed; construction of ¼ mile maintenance road to the proposed structure site on North Twin Lake; clearing of brush and aspen on the east of South Twin lake so as to establish native grasses and food plots for waterfowl and prairie grouse habitat; and the building of about ½ mile of dike have all been completed with cooperative farming agreements.

Cooperative farming agreements on pasture, hay and cropland are a very useful tool for completing certain practices which are beneficial to the maintenance of particular requirements for a wildlife species and the benefits derived from these leases are at no cost to the sportsmen.

Council Signs Contract For Firm Bureau Power

Morris Owen, Thief River Falls superintendent of utilities, presented the 1966 contract between this city and the U. S. Bureau of Reclamation to the city council at its regular meeting Tuesday night. The council authorized the contract which will increase the firm power allotment to the city from 5,050 to 5,384 kilowatts.

Owen also presented cost figures for a proposed change in the city's street lighting. The city now uses 400-watt mercury vapor lights except for six 700-watt lights. Cost of purchasing and installing 1,000-watt hooded lamps is estimated at $25,118. The proposal was tabled for further study.

The council also discussed plans to sell the present municipal liquor store building and move the facilities to a new location for the sake of convenience and economy. Main considerations would be better parking facilities, more convenient operation of the package store (possibly a self-service affair) and a smaller on-sale department to reduce overhead. Chief goal of the council in the proposal is more efficient operation of the liquor store at less cost to the city. The proposal is now under study by the liquor committee.

City Attorney Robert A. Wurst gave the first reading of an ordinance amending Section 21.206 of the municipal code and coordinating the times during which on and off sales of non-intoxicating liquors (3.2 beer) may be made. The ordinance reads as follows:

"No sale of non-intoxicating liquors shall be made on Sunday; nor between the hours of 12 midnight and 8 p.m. on any election day in the district in which the election shall be held; nor between the hours of 12 midnight and 3 p.m. on Memorial Day; nor between the hours of 12 midnight and 8 a.m. on any week day".

Mayor Orin J. Green recommended that a portable walkie-talkie radio unit be purchased for the police department. Money for this item had been included in the budget, and the council voted to call for bids at the regular meeting January 18.

City Clerk William Fahey read a petition to the Minnesota Railroad and Warehouse commission from the Soo Line Railroad company requesting permission to remove stockyard facilities in this city. Since the stockyards have long been out of use, the council raised no objection.

David Bjorkman was appointed to the volunteer fire department to replace Lloyd Hogenson who has resigned. Clifford Anderson, an Babies sent home in the last couple of weeks before Christmas were placed in the red flannel stockings made by auxiliary members.

Wool Growers in County Reminded Of '65 Deadline

Pennington county producers were reminded today that the 1965 marketing year under the wool and mohair program ends December 31. According to Winton Knutson, chairman of the county Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation committee, this means that payments for the current 1965 year will depend on completing all details of marketing either wool, mohair or lambs by that date.

Marketings completed after Dec. 31, 1965, will become marketings in the 1966 marketing year, and thus not eligible for payments until early 1967.

The chairman urges producers to make sure that all details of the 1965 sales are completed not later than December 31. This includes passing title to the buyer, delivering the wool or mohair to the buyer either physically or through documents transferring control to the buyer, and having available all the information needed to determine the buyer's total purchase price.

Applications for the 1965 marketing year payments under the National Wool Act may be filed with the ASCS county offices any time, but the chairman said "the sooner the better." Incentive payments under the wool program are based on the average national price for marketings during the whole year, and this can be determined more exactly if reports on marketings are complete. ASCS is making a special effort to have all applications filed before Jan. 31, 1966. Payments for the 1965 marketing year will likely begin in April of next year.

Four From County To Attend State 4-H Conferences

Three adult leaders and a junior leader from Pennington county 4-H clubs will be among 125 leaders attending three state 4-H conferences December 28-30 at the St. Paul campus of the University of Minnesota.

Hjalmer Aaseby of New Solum will attend the automotive conference and Carl Lindblom of Kratka will attend the agronomy conference. All delegates were selected by the awards committee of the Pennington county 4-H leaders council.

Purposes of the conferences are to train project leaders to assist with their assigned projects on a county-wide and club basis and to give recognition for achievement and leadership in the project, according to Leonard Harkness, state 4-H club leader at the University of Minnesota.

The electric conference will highlight information on understanding electricity, electrical safety, 4-H electric demonstrations, techniques in conducting electric project meetings and career opportunities. Tours will be conducted to an electric generating plant, airline overhaul base and an airport. The electric conference is sponsored by the North Central Electrical league.

Included in the automotive program are talks on automotive safety, care of the automobile, automotive demonstrations and ways to organize project groups. Delegates will tour the Ford assembly plant. The Firestone Tire and Rubber company sponsors the automotive conference.

Topics included in the agronomy conference are science in 4-H and its relation to the agronomy project, procedures for carrying out the agronomy project, production and distribution of foundation seed, keeping the seed pure, importance of weed control and principles of soil fertility. The group will visit the soil testing laboratory, the grain exchange and the Federal Reserve bank. The agronomy conference is sponsored by Peavey company.

County Feed Grain Program Announced by ASCS Office

Feed grain program for 1966 will be essentially unchanged in form, but payment rates will be adjusted to encourage broader participation by farmers, according to Patrick Calkins, office manager of the Pennington Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee.

Changes in the program are either those required by law or those which reflect legislative history established this year when the new program was enacted.

Continuing objectives of the program are to strengthen income of producers, particularly those who make full use of the program, and to keep production in balance with consumption while maintaining adequate reserves. Underlying the whole effect is the need to hold down government costs, Calkins said.

Signup for the 1966 feed grain program will be held early next year. The program will follow the pattern of recent years. Farmers will be asked to divert a minimum 20 per cent of the feed grain base acreage to conserving uses. Those who participate will receive income-maintaining payments and they will be eligible for price-support loans.

Changes in payment provisions include:

1. Yields for determining payment will be projected at higher levels to reflect current trends rather than historic yields as has been the practice.

2. No diversion payment will be made for minimum diversions, except for small-base-acreage farms (25 acres or less), but payments for additional diversion will be higher than in 1965.

3. Price-support payments will be higher than in 1965, but will be limited to 50 per cent of a farmer's base acreage.

5. The loan rate (for corn and grain sorghum) will be lowered, but total payments at maximum participation will be higher.

For individual grains, the 1966 program rates, compared with the 1965 rates, are as follows:

Loan rate
Corn (per bu.)	$1.00	$1.05
Barley (per bu.)	.80	.80
Grain Sorghum (per cwt.)	1.52	1.65
Support payment
Corn (per bu.)	$0.30	$0.20
Barley (per bu.)	.20	.16
Grain Sorghum (per cwt.)	.53	.35
Total support
Corn (per bu.)	$1.30	$1.25
Barley (per bu.)	1.00	.96
Grain Sorghum (per cwt.)	2.05	2.00

Boosting the price-support payments and lowering the loan rates will result in channeling program benefits more directly to those farmers who by their participation

Pennington ASCS Staff Attends State Conference

Seven persons representing the Pennington County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation committee attended a statewide ASCS conference which ended Thursday in St. Paul. Sen. Walter Mondale was one of the main conference speakers.

Attending from Pennington county were Winton Knutson, Thief River Falls, chairman; Clifford Vad Goodridge, and Oscar Houske, Thief River Falls, county committee members; Patrick W. Calkins, office manager; Mrs. Ruth Wilson, Mrs. Marion Finstad and Mrs. Hazel Mayes, members of the office staff.

Sen. Mondale told the group he had sent a wire to the Department of Agriculture ". . . urging that they change their feed grain regulation to provide . . . further assistance to the moderate sized family farmer." He said the ". . . arbitrary cut-off at 25 acres is unfair to the medium-sized family farmer. We must permit the family farmer with a few more acres in feed grains to get at least the same total payment on diverting the first 20 per cent of their land as the farmer who has 25 acres or less."

Commenting on the $7 billion annual appropriation to the Department of Agriculture, the senator said that almost two-thirds of the expenditures of the department go for programs ". . . whose primary benefits come not to the farmer, but to the nation as a whole."

Lon Szymanski, a student at the Utah State University at Logan, Utah, arrived here to spend the holiday vacation with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thaddeus Szymanski at Goodridge.

N. Winners in the non-religious and most original divisions will be guests at the regular Jaycee meeting Tuesday evening at the Elks club to receive their plaques.

Trinity Church To Dedicate Its New Bell Ringer

Trinity Lutheran church will dedicate an automatic electric bell ringer at a special candlelit service of carols and meditation at 5 p.m. Christmas Eve, December 24, according the Rev. Reuben L. Wangberg, pastor of the church.

This service will usher in the three days of Christmas festival services. Other services include the Christmas morning service and the service on the Second Day of Christmas, December 26, both at 10:30 a.m.

"The dedication of the bell ringer comes appropriately on Christmas Eve, as inscribed on the bell are the words of the angels to the shepherds, "Glory To God In the Highest and On Earth Peace, Good Will Toward Men," Rev. Wangberg said.

"Trinity's bell was cast in 1900 and has been in constant use for 65 years. It is of 80 per cent bronze and 20 per cent virgin tin; is 39 inches in diameter and weighs 1,200 pounds. To replace it today would cost $3,500. Such bells are no longer made in America. New ones of this quality are made in Holland.

"The electric bell ringer was installed last week at a cost of $2,400 by the Verdin Bell Ringers of America. It was purchased by gifts in memory and honor of 61 individuals.

The bell will now ring daily the matins hour at 8 a.m., the vespers hour at 6 p.m. and high noon at 12 o'clock.

During the three days of festive Christmas services, Rev. Wangberg will bring the message on Christmas eve and Second Christmas day. Rev. Harold R. Peterson will bring the message Christmas morning.

Austin and Patten Vows Spoken At Grand Rapids

Miss Kathleen Austin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Steven Austin of Grand Rapids and formerly of this city, became the bride of Calvin Patten at a 7 p.m. ceremony Saturday, November 27, at Zion Evangelical Lutheran church at Grand Rapids. Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Patten of Grand Rapids are the parents of the groom.

The Rev. Reuben J. C. Johnson officiated at the double ring ceremony before an altar graced with bouquets of chrysanthemums in autumn shades. Mrs. Jerry Tinquist of Cohasset played a prelude of music as the guests were seated. She also played the wedding marches and accompanied the uncle of the groom, Jack Holt of Virginia, when he sang "The Lord's Prayer" and "Lord Jesus Christ, Be Present Now".

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a traditional gown of imported Chantilly lace over tissue taffeta. The gown, an original Angelo creation, had a figurine bodice which rose to a delicate sabrina neckline, enhanced with pearls and irridescents. The long sleeves tapered to lily points at the wrists. The aisle wide skirt, attached at a petal point waistline, was fashioned of tiers of lace extending into a chapel length train. Hand sewn irridescents completely encircled each tier.

Her elbow length bouffant veil was caught to a white rose petal headpiece, adorned with pearls and sequins and she carried a cascade bouquet of white roses and chrysanthemums.

Miss Margaret Nielson of Grand Rapids was the maid of honor. Bridesmatrons were the sisters of the bride, Mrs. Gary Tessman and Mrs. Jeffrey Hartje, both of Minneapolis and Mrs. Allen Gilbertson of Northfield.

Joseph Burrick was best man. Groomsmen were David Patten of Grand Rapids, brother of the groom Jon Holt of Virginia, cousin of the groom, and Terry McArdle of Grand Rapids. Ushers were Patrick Patten, cousin of the groom and Dean Salisbury.

Miss Patten graduated from Grand Rapids high school. She has been an employee of Northwestern Bell Telephone company. The groom, also a graduate of the Grand Rapids high school, attended Itasca Junior college for a year and is presentaly a student at Eveleth Junior college. They will make their home in Virginia.

Homemakers Yule Party Features Foreign Tour

by Beverly Tveito
County Home Agent

Christmas in foreign lands was the theme of this year's homemakers Christmas party. One hundred homemakers followed the travel posters to the Zion Lutheran church basement where they boarded the U.S.S. Homemaker for a tour of foreign lands. The captain of the ship distributed passports and handed out sea sick pills to all passengers.

After traveling out to sea where the smoke stacks of the other ships could be seen off in the distance guides dressed in sailor suits greeted the tourists and the tour was underway.

Hawaii was the first country the tourists stopped to visit. As a welcome to the country, each homemaker was given a lei by a native in a grass skirt. Hawaiian music was playing in the background as the customs from Hawaii were told. Everyone was served punch and tasted pineapple which is native to that country. They were then bid Aloha and traveled on to visit another country.

Even the children dressed in native costume were on hand to greet the visitors in Holland and Germany. On display were many items representative to those countries. Saint Nicholas was unable to fill the tourists stockings, but the travelers were told how he comes on Christmas Eve and some of the other traditions observed in Germany. Before moving to the next country the guests were served a buffet of German salads.

As the boat docked in France and Italy, the smell of fresh French onion bread told the women they were in the right place. An example of Christmas cards from France were shown then the tourists heard the guide calling, "All Aboard" and they were on their way to see some more countries.

Drawing near to the mainland the tourists could see off in a distance the native Japanese costumes and smell rice cooking. Sukiyaki was one of the dishes which they tasted. Each visitor received royal treatment and went home with many ideas and thoughts about how the Orient celebrates Christmas.

The ship had only one stop left to make and the passengers aboard felt this should be the Scandinavian countries. The tourists got a sneak preview of December 23 in Norway as this is the day the family is supposed to be allowed a generous sample and preview of Christmas foods. When afternoon coffee is served there is an array of Berlinerkranser, fattingmand and sandbakkels. To be correct, the lady is supposed to serve seven varieties. The tourists saw many beautiful things from the Scandinavian countries and after hearing the Christmas customs boarded the ship for homeward journey.

The U.S.S. Homemaker returned the weary travelers to the entry of the church, leaving them with more insight as to how others celebrate Christmas in different lands.

Expected to arrive within a day or two to spend the holiday season at their parental home, the Oliver St. Martins, are Carol St. Martin, of Mount Prospects, Ill., Ruby of Wichita, Kan., and Rose Ella, Vida and Richard, all of Minneapolis.

Hockey Prowlers Win 2nd Conference Game

The hockey Prowlers scored their second Region Eight conference win of the young season on Tuesday night when they defeated coach Bob Strand's Crookston Central Pirates, 2 to 0, in a game played at Crookston.

In a preliminary game, coach Jerry Westby's Prowler B squad racked up a 7 to 0 win over the Crookston Central B squad.

Coach George Schlieff's varsity Prowlers will be in action next week when they participate in the invitational tournament at Roseau. The Prowlers will meet a highly-rated Virginia squad in first-round game at 7:30 p.m. on Tuesday night, December 29. The Roseau Rams will meet Richfield in the second game of the night. On Wednesday night, December 29, with the face-off at 7:30 p.m., the Prowlers will play Richfield; and at 9 p.m. the Roseau Rams will meet Virginia.

In Tuesday evening's conference game at Crookston, the Prowlers held a marked advantage in shots-on-goal, but the Pirates' junior goalie, Duane Normandin, gave up but two tallies as he was credited with 30 saves. Merle Sampson, who along with Jeff Noel and John Olson is a tri-captain of this season's Prowler squad, marked up the game's first goal at the 7:04 mark of the opening period. Monte LeMoine set up the play by giving Sampson a pass, and the sturdy Prowler defenseman beat Normandin with a hard shot.

After a scoreless second period, and which found the Prowlers outshooting the Pirates 11 to 3 in shots-on-goal, the Merle Sampson and Monte LeMoine combination again tallied a goal. In this case it was LeMoine getting the tally and Sampson the assist.

1966 Feed Grain Program Explained By ASC Office

share the responsibility of stabilizing agricultural conditions and supplies. The lower loans also will further encourage the growing export market for U. S. feed grains.

Diversion payments rates - on all acreage diverted beyond the minimum 20 per cent of the farm's base acreage, up to a maximum of 50 per cent - will be figured on one-half of the total county price-support rate (loan plus the payment) multiplied by the farm's projected yield.

Special small-farm benefits under the 1966 feed grain program provide that a small-farm producer with a feed grain base of 25 acres or less may divert all of his acreage and receive diversion payments on all of it. On the first 20 per cent diversion, these farmers will be eligible for a payment at a rate of 20 per cent of the county support rate applied to the diverted acres of the basis of projected yields. On additional diversion, the rate will be at 50 per cent.

Small-farm producers who divert less than the maximum will be eligible for diversion payment on the entire acreage diverted and price-support payments and loans. Higher rates and yields used in the 1966 program will provide these farmers, particulary those who divert the maximum acreage, a higher payment than under last year's program.

The 1966 feed grain program also provides for substitution of wheat and feed grain acreage.

National average loan rates will be 60 cents per bushel for 1966-crop oats and $1.02 per bushel for rye, both unchanged from 1965 support prices. As in the past, these grains are not included in the feed grain program and all production is eligible for loan.

employee of the park and sewage departments, was given a $10 monthly progression raise.

A building permit submitted by the Fleet Distributing company for a new warehouse costing $6,000 was approved. A claim against the city of $13.69 made by Mrs. H. M. Johnson for food which spoiled when the power line to her home was snapped by the street department was referred to Attorney Wurst.

Wurst stated that he received a reply to his inquiry to the attorney general regarding the legality of retaining the off-sale department of the municipal liquor store and selling private on-sale liquor licenses. Attorney General Robert Mattson replied that this is not legal under present Minnesota statutes. The letter of inquiry had been written because the council was interested in selling private on-sale licenses to attract new business into the city.

The council approved a request from the Local Airlines Service Action committee (LASAC) for an additional $400 as payment for handling legislative affairs of the city concerning its airline situation, particularly with regard to hearings with the Civil Aeronautics Board.

A number of bills were presented for payment by resolution, along with a recommendation from the library board that the wood deck of the library be stained at a cost of $504 and walls in the work room be painted at a cost of $398. Bills approved are as follows:

Stewart & Walker, street and miscellaneous, $21,153.11; Ernest M. Nelson, miscellaneous repairs, $892.85; Dake Ayers, gravel, $1,630; Kasson Sewer & Water, street construction, $20,299.20; Robert Wurst, airport charges, $116; Stewart & Walker, airport, $3,896.57; Komatz Construction, airport, $11,286.08; Hammel, Green & Abrahamson, library, $178.77. Dean L. Witcher, library, $21,355; Lee Plumbing & Heating, library, $11,166; Geno Holmes, library, $1,015 20; T & S Implement company, fire truck, $4,476; Harry Dahl, excavation of Chief's coulee, $75; and PERA, city's share of employees' retirement, $24,342.49.

John Skeals, business representative for the city employees union, told the council that the union had requested a wage increase January 1, 1966, rather than 15 cents as had been previously requested. The council stood by its previous agreement to increase the employees' wages by eight cents per hour effective Jan 1, 1966, and an additional seven cents per hour effective Jan. 1, 1967. The union also requested that the city pay the balance of health insurance fees for city employees. The city now pays $8 of the employee's $10.70-per-month health insurance fee.

Keeping Score with "Huck" Olson

Excitement Plus

In all the years that I have been watching and scoring basketball I cannot remember a regularly scheduled game that had the suspense and excitement that was generated in the fourth period of the Prowlers vs. Pirates game at Crookston on Friday.

There have been district and regional tournament games that have gone into overtime periods, and these games, because there has been more at stake than a mere win or a loss, have been as exciting. But Friday's game was one which wrung the emotions of the fans.

For three periods it was a typical Prowlers vs. Pirates high school game, and the basketball that was played was not exceptional. But in the fourth period the Pirates, after trailing throughout most of the game, came on to take a one-point lead. In this final period seven time-outs were called, giving the fans and the players plenty of opportunity to know that the game was a cliff-hanger and that ball-control was a prime importance.

In spite of the cautious play there were a number of mechanical errors with the ball being given over to the other team. On one occasion the Prowlers were unable to put the ball in play from out-of-bounds within the five-second allotment, and Crookston gained possession. In another instance, Crookston, in bringing the ball in-bounds, gave it to the Pirate whose foot was on the out-of-bounds line, and the Prowlers benefited.

And on the big play, in the final minute of play with Crookston holding a 37 to 36 lead, a Pirate had an apparent drive-in attempt for a layup, but instead he stepped back, lifting his pivot foot, and the Prowlers received the ball with about 50 seconds to play.

And when Bruce Saustad's one-handed toss, with five seconds to play, failed to find the hoop it appeared that the Prowlers had lost, but Tommy Cummings' rebound shot, just at the buzzer, gave the locals a 38 to 37 triumph. It is a game that the boys will use for a conversation piece for a long, long time.

Incidentally, Friday night's game was the best Bruce Saustad has played in his short varsity career. Bruce was particularly effective in working the offensive backboard.

Don't forget that the Prowlers will meet the Ada Vikings on the Lincoln high school court tonight, Wednesday. And then on Friday, Jan. 8, the Bemidji Lumberjacks will be here. These two teams, the Ada Vikings and the Bemidji Lumberjacks, could be Region Eight entries next march.

Spirit of the Season

While it is getting to be a late hour in the season I think that it would be fine gesture of sportsmanship if Russ Embury would send Christmas greetings to Leo Durocher, the recently-named manager of the Chicago Cubs—and if Lloyd Bennes would send greetings of well wishes to the Twins' Shorty Piels.

And on the local level, the Bridgeman's and the VFW softball teams should send the season's greetings to the Bea's Food Market team.

It would also be fine if the other teams in the Tuesday night Business bowling league would extend best wishes to the T & S bowling team. The T & S, who are becoming the Kansas City A's of the Business league, need all the moral support they can get. If they are to reach the first division.

Cropland Adjustment Program Is Explained

Details of the Cropland Adjustment Program—authorized by the Food and Agriculture Act of 1965—were announced recently by Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman. The program is aimed at removing from surplus production up to 40 million acres for periods of five to 10 years. Emphasis will be on shifting this land into public benefit uses which also conserve soil and water to meet future needs.

Winton Knutson, chairman of the Pennington County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation committee, said that the signup of farmers wishing to divert acres under the new Cropland Adjustment Program will be announced later. Full details on how the program would apply to an individual farm will be available in the ASC county office in early January.

The Cropland Adjustment Program supplements the yearly commodity programs. Long-term agreements afford farmers more stability and thus better opportunity for planning adjustments in land use.

To protect local communities, the chairman explained, the new program will limit the amount of land that can be put under the program. In any county or community, no more than 10 per cent of the allotment or base acreage for any crop or of total cropland will be contracted in any single year and no more than 25 per cent during the life of the program. Exceptions to this rule will be made where requested by local governments.

CAP will help farmers divert cropland to protective conservation uses under the long-term agreements. Participants will receive adjustment payments related to the value of the crops normally produced on the land. They also will be eligible for conservation cost-share payments on the diverted land. And those who agree to permit free public access for fishing, hunting, hiking and trapping in accordance with appropriate state and federal regulations may get an additional per-acre payment.

In general, farms which have changed ownership during the three-year period preceding the first year of the agreement period are not eligible to take part in the program. There are, however, exceptions to this general rule, such as farms which have changed ownership by will or succession due to the previous owner's death and farms which for three years prior to the agreement have been under the control of the person who will control it for the full period of the agreement. Under certain circumstances, the law also permits farms with ownership changes as late as Dec. 31, 1964, to participate.

Payments under the program are based on the past use and the productivity of the land. For land that would otherwise produce wheat corn, grain soghum or barley, the annual payment per acre will be 10 per cent of the county price-support loan rate times the farm yield for the crop.

After placing all of his acreage of one or more of the farm's allotment crops or the feed grain base in the program, the farmer may offer other cropland. Rates for this cropland will range nationally from $3 to $7 an acre.

North Central Joins in Use of Computer System

North Central Airlines will provide its passengers with improved reservations and flight information services through an agreement to share Eastern Air Lines computer system. The plans were announced jointly by Frank N. Buttomer, vice president-traffic and sales for North Central, and Robert B. Parsons, Eastern's vice president of data services. North Central and Eastern will begin the combined operation in April using Eastern's computer at its data processing center near Charlotte, N.C.

"This illustration of interline cooperation will bring improved service to all passengers flying our routes," Buttomer said.

"Immediate reservations information, as well as expected arrival and departure times, on North Central will be available to nearly 70 per cent of our passengers. Also, this same information will be obtainable on 1,300 Eastern flights and those of the other three participating airlines, Allegheny, Mohawk and Ozark."

In addition, through an "interline availability" arrangement, immediate confirmation can be received on American, Braniff, Delta, National, Northwest, Pan American, Panagra, Trans World, United, Piedmont and Southern airlines. This represents 90 per cent of our passengers' interline requests.

Likewise, immediate reservations information on North Central's 175 daily flights will also be available to 10 major airlines. Expected arrival and departure times on North Central's flights can be obtained by Eastern, Allegheny, Mohawk and Ozark.

North Central passengers will be able to receive information concerning reservations, arrival and departure times, number of stops, type of equipment, days of operation, and meal service more quickly by utilization of the computer system.

Advantages for reservations personnel include: improved quick reference material, reduced telephone time, better utilization of airline seats by immediate resale of cancellations, rapid dissemination of flight information and improved passenger handling when irregular operations occur.

The reservations computer system to be shared by North Central began operations in March of 1962. The computer has a capability of processing 100,000 transactions an hour. It is currently operating at approximately 40 per cent of its capacity.

Job Dictionary Is Published by Labor Department

State Employment Security Commissioner Robert J. Brown said today that the local offices of the Minnesota State Employment service will soon be using the new edition of the Dictionary of Occupational Titles, a Department of Labor manual of job definitions designed to reflect changes in job content resulting from technological advancement. The DOT, as the dictionary is known, has been a government best seller since it was published 26 years ago.

Brown said that several staff members of the Minnesota service were among job analysts from throughout the country who combed the nation's industrial centers to compile the much needed occupational information included in this third edition of the dictionary. The analysts observed and studied more than 45,000 jobs at 75,000 job sites and classified over 23,000 different jobs in our economy by which Americans make a living. About 6,000 new jobs, including about 400 in the aircraft-guided missile industry, in electronic data processing and in atomic energy. It covers jobs in more than 200 different industries.

Vastly different from the two previous editions, the new DOT contains about 36,000 job titles and 23,000 job definitions. Research on the 1965 version was begun over 15 years ago, according to Commissioner Brown.

Cold Weather Is Dangerous for The Unprepared

Cold of winter can be the biggest danger of all for the motorist who gets stranded on the road if he is not prepared, warns Earl M. Larimer, safety director for the Minnesota highway department.

"Our highway patrol officers have come upon some very cold and very frightened people stranded on the highway during winter. They were both poorly dressed and poorly equipped to contend with subzero temperatures and snow," Larimer said.

If a motorist's car should break down or get stuck in deep snow in cold weather, he will have to get out of the car and into the cold to try to get going—and it will help if he is wearing warm clothing or has it along to put on, including heavy coat, mittens, overshoes and a covering for the head, he said.

To be stuck for even a short time can be very uncomfortable for the unprepared motorist. It can be disastrous for anyone in poor health.

To be prepared for the worst, the driver should also keep a container of sand, a shovel and extra gas in the car trunk, Larimer suggested, and have fuses to put out in the darkness to mark the location of the car for passing traffic and to serve as a distress signal.

Larimer advises the motorist to keep the gas tank at least half full at all times. The motorist who does get stuck in cold weather and can't get out, and is a long way from help, may have to keep the motor running to provide heat for a long time in order to survive.

But if you keep the car running, you had better keep a window open a few inches to protect against carbon monoxide poisoning, he said. Never sit in a car with the motor running unless a window is partly open to keep fresh air coming in.

Another reason for keeping the gas tank half-full is to prevent condensation from forming and then freezing in the gas line.

Phone Tax Will Be Reduced to Three Per Cent

Telephone bills mailed in January will show a federal telephone tax of three per cent instead of 10 per cent, Northwestern Bell Telephone company reminded its customers today.

Tom Perrier, local manager, said this is the first step in the gradual elimination of the excise tax as authorized by the last Congress. Another one per cent will be lifted from phone bills each January 1 up to Jan 1, 1969, when the tax will be gone.

"Telephone customers will realize all the savings resulting from the reduction," Perrier said, "since Northwestern Bell has merely collected the tax for the federal government."

THIEF RIVER FALLS TIMES

Volume Number Fifty-four Thief River Falls, Pennington County, Minnesota Wednesday, Dec. 22, 1965 Number One Hudred-two

PHYSICAL examinations were administered to 140 men of the Thief River Falls National Guard unit Saturday by a four-man medical team from division headquarters in Minneapolis. In addition to the regular physicals, electrocardiogram tests were given to the three men in the company over 40 years of age. Pictured above wired for sound is P. Sgt. LeRoy Bugge of Thief River Falls. Capt. Thomas G. Bieter is connecting a wire, and Capt. John A. Fletcher is watching the graph. This test is required of all military men over 40 years of age, Company Commander Charles R. Richards explained.

Total Disability Provision Rider Available to GIs

A cut-off deadline faces all Minnesota veterans over 55 years old who wish to obtain or exchange a Total Disability Income Provision rider (TDIP) on their GI insurance policies.

They must act before Jan. 1, 1966, according to John Murphy, manager of the Veterans Administration center, St. Paul. The Total Disability Income Provision provides payment of $10 per month per each $1,000 of National Service Life Insurance should the policyholder become disabled before his 65th birthday. The policyholder, who before the Jan. 1, 1966 date can be under 60, pays an additional charge for this rider, Murphy said.

After Jun. 1, 1966, the rider will be sold only to veterans under 55. The previous law required that the disability be in effect before age 60. The present law extends the period in which disability may occur to age 65.

Murphy said that all World War II and Korean conflict veterans whose NSLI policies are not preceded by the letters "RH" are eligible to buy the rider provided they meet good health requirement. Veterans under 60 holding existing disability "up to age 60" riders and who wish to exchange them for the disability "up to age 65" riders may do so, but those over 55 years old will have to do so before Jan. 1, 1966. They must also meet good health requirements.

The contact division at VA center, Ft. Snelling, can furnish further details.

The program for this one-day meeting will emphasize production and marketing practices which will help to increase profit from malting barley. New barley varieties and malting barlities recommended for 1966 will be discussed. All phases of malting barley production will be reviewed by authorities.

A complimentary luncheon will be served at noon for those in attendance.

Raymond A. Jones Serves Aboard USS Oriskany

Fireman Raymond A. Jones, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. Allen Jones of Goodridge, returned to San Diego, Calif., December 16 aboard the attack aircraft carrier USS Oriskany, which has completed a record-breaking deployment with the Seventh Fleet in the South China Sea.

Oriskany's aircraft flew 12,070 combat sorties in six and one-half months off the coast of Viet Nam. This is more than any carrier has launched in a single combat deployment, including World War II and Korea. Her aircraft dropped 8,473 tons of ordnance on communist targets.

Oriskany's Carrier Air Wing 16 became the Navy's most decorated, bringing home 1,118 awards and nominations for medals. These decorations include the Navy Cross, Silver Star Medal, Distinguished Flying Cross, and Navy Commendation, Purple Heart and Air Medals.

The carrier was deployed 257 days, spent 211 of these at sea and steamed more than 100,000 miles. This is about four times the distance around the earth's equator.

Taxpayers Urged To Report IRS Account Number

Taxpayers who receive dividend and interest income were reminded today by George O. Lethert, district director of Internal Revenue, that they are required to report their tax account number to organizations that pay the income.

For individual taxpayers, the tax account number is their social security number.

Most taxpayers have furnished their numbers to banks, savings and loan associations, life insurance companies and businesses in which they own stocks or bonds, Lethert indicated. However, IRS has begun an intensive program to obtain these numbers for all taxpayers.

Business firms and payers of dividents and interest are required to report amounts of $10 or more paid to any individual during the calendar year. The tax account number is necessary to verify that the income is reported by individual taxpayers, and if listed in the full amount, Lethert said.

Any taxpayer without a social security or tax account number may secure one by applying at their local social security office.

Older Farmers Are Employed by Highway Dep't.

National Farmers Union as sponsor and in cooperation with the Minnesota highway department is currently conducting "Project Green Thumb" designed to gainfully employ older farmers with low incomes.

Five counties have been selected that meet the criteria for this project. They are Todd, Ottertail, Wadena, Becker and Beltrami. The "Green Thumb" crews will be used for brush clearing in Wadena and Todd counties, along TH 71 between Wadena and Menahga, along several trunk highways in Becker and Otter Tail counties and along county highways in Beltrami county.

State highway department maintenance areas will provide periodic field supervision on trunk highways where this work will be done while the county engineer will provide field supervision on the Beltrami county highway work projects.

'twAs the Night before Christmas...

". . . And all through the house, not a creature was stirring" . . . except these two little rascals! Christmas is their day . . . dreams of toys, and sweets, and games, and lots of wonderful things!

Christmas is for children, yes. But, Christmas is for grownups, too. It's a time to give, a time to receive. But, sometimes the spiritual side is overlooked; not deliberately, of course, but lost in the delightful chaos of cheer and joy and fun.

Then remind yourself, to go to church—your choice! Pause there to pray, to give thanks for all you have received: especially, that wonderful gift, the gift of God Himself, in His infant Son. Christmas is Christ's day, His birthday!

THE CHURCH FOR ALL ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

"There is in nature what is within reach and what is beyond reach. He who is unaware of the distinction may waste himself in lifelong toil trying to get at the inaccessible without ever getting close to truth. But he who knows it and is wise will stick to what is accessible; and in exploring this region in all directions, and confirming his gains he will even push back the confines of the inaccessible." —Goethe

Merry Christmas

What better way to express best wishes for the Christmas season than the Christmas story from Luke 2: 1-14.

And it came to pass in those days, that there went out a decree from Caesar Augustus; that all the world should be taxed.

(And this taxing was first made when Cyrenius was governor of Syria.)

And all went to be taxed, every one into his own city.

And Joseph also went up from Galilee, out of the city of Nazareth, into Judaea, unto the city of David, which is called Bethlehem; (because he was of the house and lineage of David:)

And so it was that, while they were there, the days were accomplished that she should be delivered.

And she brought forth her first-born son, and wrapped him in swaddling clothes, and laid him in a manger; because there was no room for them in the inn.

And there were in the same country shepherds abiding in the field, keeping watch over their flock by night.

And, lo, the angel of the Lord came upon them, and the glory of the Lord shone round about them; and they were sore afraid.

And the angel said unto them, Fear not: for, behold, I bring you good tidings of great joy, which shall be to all the people.

For unto you is born this day in the city of David a Saviour, which is Christ the Lord.

And this shall be a sign unto you; Ye shall find the babe wrapped in swaddling clothes, lying in a manger.

And suddenly there was with the angel a multitude of the heavenly host praising God, and saying,

Glory to God in the highest, and on earth peace, good will toward men.

Who to Believe?

It is not unexpected when political adversaries take dissenting views on proposed legislation and openly express their ideas. Much more difficult to understand is the politician who says he will do one thing, plans to do another and actually does something else.

We recently received a news release from Washington News Service in regard to repeal of Section 14(b) of the Taft-Hartley act. Opponents of repeal say that such action would result in compulsory unionism—proponents say that the present law provides for compulsory open shop. Repeal was up for discussion late in the last session of Congress but was blocked in the Senate.

Washington News Service states, "Informed sources report that President Johnson and a majority of both houses would like to see repeal forgotten. It is argued that 1966 is an election year, and with a preponderant majority of the American people opposed to compulsory unionism and favoring retention of 14 (b) a legislative battle will hurt the administration."

Quite another idea is presented in the Minneapolis Labor Review, a union newspaper in the Twin Cities. A story date-lined San Francisco related part of President Johnson's telephone message to the AFL-CIO convention.

President Johnson was quoted as saying, "I recommended to the Congress last year repeal of Section 14-b, and I will urge it again this year. And with your help we will pass it."

If the President would like to see repeal forgotten, as Washington News Service reports, why would he tell the unions he plans to urge such action at the next session? There is a one-word answer to that question—votes. He wants the union votes and the public votes as well. Chances are he will be quite a model of neutrality once the question hits Congress again.

In the meantime, however, should we believe what the President says or what "Informed sources" say he would like to see? A person can't put too much faith in either statement.

Where There's a Will . . .

There is one thing that we will have to admit—the administration in Washington is a canny crew. They may make a lot of mistakes for which the nation will severely suffer, but they know their way around the main business about which they are concerned. That is the business of perpetuity in office.

Whether or not the many programs ramrodded through Congress during the last session are good for the nation or not, the bulk of them are aimed directly at gaining the favor of certain groups of voters. This might be defined as a "pay and you'll grow" policy, for the administration clearly favors buying its votes with debts of the next generation.

For instance, we doubt that President Johnson's personal views on civil rights have changed since he was a member of Congress, but he saw that lip service could win some space in the ballot boxes. The same vote-getting theory applies to the poverty program, medicare and administration support of Secion 14 (b) repeal.

In these cases, the administration has been seeking supporters. Just recently, however, the shrewd crew has devised a method to skirt the law and get support from people who might not be at all sympathetic to the cause.

The Democratic National committee is publishing a book entitled, "Toward the Age of Greatness". It is a propaganda piece extolling the virtues of the administration and the DFL-controlled Congress. And there are 68 big manufacturing firms who are purchasing advertisements in the book at a cost of $15,000 per page!

Selling the ads is the advertising firm of Maurer, Fleisher & Zon, which also has as its clients the Democratic National committee and the President's Club, the latter a DFL fund-raising organization. The book is expected to net a million dollars—to be used for party promotional purposes—and the book in itself will be a useful piece of party propaganda.

Since political contributions are not deductible—and the Corrupt Practices Acts forbids corporations from making political contributions—the advertising scheme was devised to out-flank the law. And with the suggestion that is understood among businessmen—if not implied by this promotion—that government contracts go to those who cooperate, the advertising sale is bound to be most effective.

Leave it to the pressure boys in Washington. Where there's a will, there's a way—and ethics be hanged.

Playing With Words

The following editorial came from the New Prague newspaper:

Might begin with a bit of correspondence which Ellie received fairly recently from her granddaughter, little Margaret Turek, six-year-old daughter of the Richard Tureks of Owatonna. It seems that Margaret is a member of a class now learning the new, strictly-phonetic spelling. Her alphabet includes letters, or symbols, some of which are entirely foreign to the alphabet as we know it. Next year she will learn the correct, or accepted spelling, which, it seems to us, merely doubles the burden to a child. . . . but we will leave the final judgement to the experts. And regardless of our opinion, little Margaret seems to think her alphabet is great. We might point out that some of the symbols, or combinations of letters cannot, obviously, be reproduced here, but this, in general, is what she writes:

"dear nana. . .it woz fun in the buss. the car woz laet tw pic us up. thae sed thae sau a chrismis tree in the mitl ov the roed. wee dint goe straet hoem. wee went to gramuz hous and every butee gut sumthing and ie gut a reel prity hors. ie wish ie cudd goe tw yor house and stae thaer for a yer and thaengk yw for the slingkoe. luv, Margaret"

Needless to say, there are those of us who will probably say:. . .

Missed a Point

The following editorial was published in the Rochester Post-Bulletin:

Sometimes you wonder about a society such as ours, a society that on one hand permits so-called peaceniks to stage demonstrations against U. S. foreign policy, burn draft cards and send blood to the enemy, but on the other hand orders a peace-loving people like the Amish to conform to legal standards on schooling or face the consequences of jail and fines.

Is it right to let known Communists lead protests against our involvement in a war against their fellow Communists whose announced aim is to destroy our way to life? Apparently it is right because our society allows it.

But apparently it is wrong for the harmless and hardworking Amish to teach their own children, to bring them up in an environment of believing they must earn their way in life without government subsidies, or welfare payments, or poverty programs. It is wrong because our laws, or at least Iowa laws, say that the Amish must expose their children to "the world" by hiring state-certified teachers.

And these laws had to be enforced, even though it meant herding screaming children into school buses, and resulted in their parents selling corn and livestock to pay fines for not "co-operating."

But somewhere along the line, there developed the feeling that this harassment of the Amish was not quite right. Armed officers stopped dragging the children onto public school buses.

Iowa Gov. Harold Hughes, who ordered the truce, said he wanted time to find out what other states do with Amish groups that refuse to conform to legal standards on schooling. "Somewhere within the confines of a reasonable society, there has to be a solution," he said.

Is there a solution short of using force? The beliefs of the Amish may be out of date and put them out of step with their "progressive" environment, but they are not trying to force their beliefs on anyone else. They ask only to be left alone.

Granted, they are in technical violation of Iowa school laws, but their "misdeeds" are hardly in the same category as our well-protected peaceniks who give aid and comfort to the enemy.

If the Amish sought to get everybody to believe as they do, many people would complain bitterly and the "peaceloving" leftists undoubtedly would be demanding their scalps. But the Amish don't try to make us conform. And the least we can do is to try to understand why they complain when "the world" tries to force its standards on them.

Our society, which is so broad-minded for some, certainly should be able to find a way to allow for the Amish to practice their beliefs.

Six Scholarships Are Awarded by Shipping Ass'ns.

Six college scholarships in the amount of $100 each were presented by the Northern Minnesota Farmers Union Shipping association to students from the area attending college this year.

The scholarships were voted by the board of directors in place of returning dividends to stockholders in the cooperative. "Dividends often amount to less than a dollar for each person receiving them," stated Lloyd Nelson of Thief River Falls, secretary-treasurer of the association. "By awarding scholarships the total fund is put to good use and a tremendous amount of bookkeeping is eliminated."

Approval of the scholarship plan adopted by the directors was given by the general membership of the association at the annual meeting held last fall. Scholarships are being awarded by the cooperative as students begin their second semester of college after the Christmas holidays.

Charlotte Myers, Thief River Falls, majoring in home economics or English at the Thief River Falls junior college; Pamela Torkelson, Thief River Falls, majoring in bookkeeping and accounting at Thief River Falls junior college.

Also Mary Rantanen, Middle River, majoring in veterinary medicine at North Dakota State university in Fargo; Carter Hedlund, Roseau, majoring in wildlife management at North Dakota State school of Forestry in Bottineau, N. D.;

Also Cynthia Karlsson, Roseau, majoring in speech at Bethel college in St. Paul; and Edythe Peters, Goodridge, majoring in mathematics at Moorhead state college.

Safety Council Warns of Holiday Driving Dangers

Christmas and New Year's are for the majority of us the most exciting and enjoyable of our holidays—a time for friendships, for visiting, for feasting, for giving and receiving, and, regrettably, for excessive and widespread drinking, according to Anthony Madunich, president of the Pennington County safety council.

Regrettably, because so many people die as a result of the drinking, Madunich said.

In addition to all the good things these holidays bring us, they also bring an incredible number of traffic deaths year after year.

Nationwide, over the years, Christmas and New Year's have accounted for more traffic deaths than any other holidays. Last year 800 were killed over the Christmas holidays and 630 died over the New Year's weekend. Why? Because of winter conditions of icy roads and falling snow that prevail over much of the nation?

These conditions certainly contribute to accidents, but generally drivers make adjustments and can cope with winter problems. Also, it is true that most fatal accidents occur on dry roads in clear weather.

Those who study the causes or contributing circumstances of fatal accidents agree that drinking drivers are involved in about 50 per cent of all fatal accidents, and that during holidays (especially Christmas and New Year's) the percentage goes even higher, the safety council chairman noted.

The best each one of us can do for this problem, at least for the present, is not to drive if we have been drinking. We can also urge those close to us not to do so. It is such a very small sacrifice to make to stay alive, to keep the family together for Christmas and New Year's.

Hill Appointed State Produce Inspector Wed.

Administration of Minnesota's huge fresh fruit and vegetable inspection program has been strengthened by a new supervisory position in the marketing services division of the Department of Agriculture. Harold W. Hill, veteran shipping point and terminal produce inspector, was appointed to the new post of state produce inspector supervisor by Russel G. Schwandt, commissioner of agriculture.

With his background of 25 years with the department, Hill will occupy a key position in marketing services under director T. E. Thomson. Much of his time will be spent in the potato production areas giving closer supervision to the nearly 30 produce inspectors on duty there and maintaining contacts with the potato growers.

Also included in his work is supervision of the terminal produce inspection section, based in the Twin Cities. Minnesota's terminal inspection volume is one of the largest in the United States administered by a cooperative agreement with the state department of agriculture and the USDA.

Kathleen Koskela Weds D. Brasgalla at Plummer

Miss Kathleen Koskela, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Koskela of Plummer and Darol Brasgalla, son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Brasgalla of Baudette, were married recently at Immanuel Lutheran church at Plummer. The Rev. Robert Amundson officiated at the double ring ceremony before an altar graced with candelabra and yellow and bronze mums. White ribbons marked the pews.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor-length gown of taffeta and chantilily lace fashioned with a controlled skirt and chapel train. The fitted lace bodice featured Mary Stuart sleeves and sabrina neckline enhanced with sequins. Her veil of silk illusion was held in place with a crown of pearls and she carried a cascade bouquet of white roses centered with tropicana roses. The something old, something new was also carried out in her attire and her only jewelry was a pair of pearl errings, a gift from the groom.

Attending the bride as maid of honor was Elaine Koskela of Plummer, sister of the bride. Ruthella Westlake was bridesmaid. They wore floor length beige gowns designed with gold figured bodices and empire waistlines. Each wore matching veiled headpieces and elbow length gloves and gold shoes. They carried crescent designed bouquets of yellow stardust and bronze pompons.

David Brasgalla attended the groom as best man. Ronald Nelson of Lockhart served as groomsman and the ushers were Dennis Eskell and Duane Brasgalla.

Mrs. Koskela wore a two-piece blue lace dress with matching hat and black accessories for her daughter's wedding. The mother of the groom was attired in a beige lace dress with brown accessories. Both wore corsages of yellow roses and bronze pompons.

Approximately 100 guests attended the reception given in the church parlors by the parents of the bride. The church parlors were decorated with gold streamers and white wedding bells. The four-tiered wedding cake, decorated with beige roses and topped with a miniature bride and groom, by Mrs. Clarence Walhaug, was cut and served by Mrs. Arlan Koskela, cousin of the bride, and Mrs. Ralph Ness, sister of the groom. Mrs. William Koskela, aunt of the bride and Mrs. Marvin Horter, sister of the groom, poured, while Joey Ness, niece of the groom and Judy Eskell, presided at the punch bowl. Waitresses were Elaine Linder and Sandra Clausen and those in charge of serving the reception were Mrs. Russell Huotari, Mrs. Dennis Brinkman, Mrs. Fred Niemi, Mrs. John Hemstad and Mrs. Goodwin Kvaanger with Mrs. Marie Hofius as kitchen hostess. Gifts were arranged by Mrs. Ken Blofield and Jackie Hofius. All wore carnation corsages, gifts from the bride, except the kitchen help. They received engraved silver spoons.

The bride is a graduate of the Plummer high school and the Thief River Falls area vocational technical school and is employed as stenographer at the Merchants National bank at Fargo, N.D. Dahlen-Fisher Exchange Vows At Columbus, Ohio

Miss Karen Dahlen, daughter of Major General and Mrs. Chester A. Dahlen, Headquarters Allied Forces Southern Europe, Naples, Italy, became the bride of Mr. Earl E. Fisher, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl E. Fisher, of Harbor Hills, Hebron, Ohio in a candlelight service in Saint Alban's Episcopal church, Columbus, Ohio, at 4:30 p.m. on Tuesday, December 21. The Rev. Robert Leake officiated at the double ring ceremony.

The bride is a granddaughter of Mrs. H. S. Dahlen of 123 North Markley Avenue, Thief River Falls and the late Mr. H. S. Dahlen. Maternal grandparents are Brigadier General and Mrs. Sidney Erickson (U.S. Army Retired) of Washington, D.C.

Given in marriage by her father, who was wearing full military dress, the bride chose a gown of ivory antique satin, in a skimmer silhouette, designed with a low crescent neckline outlined with Alencon lace, re-embroidered with pearls, and long sleeves, enhanced at the wristline with matching lace. The back neckline featured a self fabric bow with full length streamers, accented with pearl and crystal encrusted lace motifs, and a full court train. Her veil was a full length antique Spanish lace mantilla. The bridal bouquet was a white orchid surrounded by a cascade of white roses and holly.

Miss Sydney Dahlen, the bride's sister, attended as maid of honor. She wore a floor length empire gown of winter green satin with lace sleeves. Her attire was complemented by a matching green lace mantilla. Holly surrounded the red poinsetta that she carried.

Mr. J. Robert Ford was best man. Serving as ushers were James L. Dressel, H. W. Amburn, II, Edward L. Ballenger and John G. Wilder.

The mother of the bride wore a beige suit with a delicately beaded blouse. A matching beaded hat completed her ensemble. The mother of the groom was dressed in an Alice blue silk suit with coordinating accessories.

The bride is a graduate of Marjorie Webster Junior college, Washington, D.C. She had been employed by the U.S. government in Taipei, Taiwan, San Antonio, Texas and Wiesbaden, Germany. Mr. Fisher attended Denison University and is a graduate of Ohio State University, where he became a member of Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity. He is associated with the Earl Fisher Plastics and Manufacturing companies, Reynoldsburg, Ohio.

Following a wedding trip to Washington, D.C., the couple will make their home at 165 Preston Road, Columbus, Ohio, after December 26.

TURN SIGNALS—The Minnesota AAA advises that you are required by law to give a turn signal before making a left turn with your car, but what about changing lanes? The Uniform Vehicle Code, followed by most states as a guide, contains a provision that and appropriate turn signal must be given before any change in the course of your car, including a change to another lane.

Minnesota Youth Will Speak for Nation's 4H'ers

President of the Minnesota 4-H federation—Larry Fowler, Winnebago—received a surprise Christmas gift Saturday morning. The present was a letter announcing that he had been selected as spokesman for 4-H'ers representatives throughout the nation at the meeting of the American Institute of Cooperation (AIC) in Ft. Collins, Colo., July 31-Aug. 3, 1966.

The letter, accompanying a Christmas gift from the AIC, was intended as a special Yuletide surprise for the Martin county 4-H'er.

4-H delegates from 38 states attending the AIC conference in Columbia, Mo., last August elected Fowler as their official representative for 1966. The choice was made by secret ballot and was kept a secret until this morning. Fowler was one of 32 Minnesota youth sponsored by the Minnesota Association of Cooperatives at the sessions in Missouri last summer. A similar youth delegation from Minnesota will attend the convention in Colorado.

This is the second year in succession a Minnesota youth has been chosen by 4-H'ers throughout the country as their official representative; Joyce Thompson, Warroad, received the honor last year.

As the 4-H VIP at the 1966 AIC meeting, Fowler will chair one or more of the general sessions and will address several thousand adult and youth delegates.

As president of the state 4-H federation, Fowler heads an organization of some 55,000 Minnesota club members. He is presently a student at Mankato state college.

Each member was asked to bring a toy to this meeting to be given to the needed children of the community through the Salvation Army. Also at the meeting a collection was taken and the money turned over to the Salvation Army.

The meeting was then turned over to program chairman Fred Sorensen, who had as his guest Rev. Paul Biegner of St. John Lutheran church. Rev. Biegner spoke to the members concerning the first Christmas trees and how the decorations and ideas have been passed on to future generations over the years.

President Kays reminded club members that there will be no meeting next week. The next meeting will be Wednesday, January 5.

Market for Fox Pelts Is Highest In Many Years

Greatest demand in years for red fox fur has driven prices being paid by fur buyers up to $6.50 per pelt, the Minnesota Department of Conservation's game and fish division reported today.

Ted Shields, state game and fish director, pointed out that these prices, the highest paid in 15 years are generally higher than the combined fur values and bounty received by trappers the last few years. And it is possible that the prices will go even higher.

Fur market observers report that there is also a good demand for the smaller western plains coyote from the Dakotas with trappers received $5 to $7 per pelt.

Most fox furs are used to trim women's hats and coats. Japan is said to be buying large quantities of red fox pelts at the present time, and occasional trappers as well as professionals are enjoying the unusual sellers market.

Shields said that if the price paid for foxes has anything to do with controlling their numbers, there certainly should be a reduction in boxes this year. The payment of bounties for fox has been halted by the state this year.

Rep. Fitzsimons Attends Advisory Committee Meet

Rep. Richard W Fitzsimons attended the regular quarterly meeting of the legislative advisory committee meeting in the office of Governor Karl Rolvaag at the State Capitol on Tuesday of last week.

Among the more important of numerous items on the agenda was the recommendation by the committee for the purchase of two important historical sites in Minnesota. The committee recommended the purchase by the state of the Upper Sioux agency site in Redwood county and the site of the Runestone discovery in Douglas county.

The Sioux agency site is the last site of the Sioux uprising that is not in state ownership and management. The Runestone site has become world famous because of the controversy that surrounds the authenticy of the Runestone by scholars all over the world.

The last session of the legislature established a contingency fund that authorized the legislative advisory committee to make purchases of state park land and historic sites when they thought it advisable.

On Friday, December 17, Rep. Fitzsimons attended a meeting of the House reapportionment committee. The committee listened to more than an hour of testimony from Dr. Stephen A. Dixon from George Washington university, Washington, D. C., who is a recognized expert in reapportionment. Dr. Dixon gave the committee a complete set of facts on re-apportionment as it was completed in 19 states in the past year. These facts will prove extremely valuable as the legislature sets about to write a re-apportionment bill if and when Governor Rolvaag calls a special session for that purpose.

A sub-committee of the whole committee was appointed to proceed with preliminary plans for drawing up a proposed bill for Minnesota using the data as provided by Dr. Dixon on a nationwide basis for a guide.

Langens Return To Washington

Congressman and Mrs. Odin Langen left today (Monday) for Washington for the start of the second session of the 89th Congress. The Langens spent Christmas with their sons and daughter on the family farm near Kennedy.

Congressman Langen's district office at Crookston has now been closed to give the personnel time to travel back to Washington. However, Langen pointed out, the Washington office is open for business as usual and all inquiries should be directed there.

The Langens visited in all 23 counties of the Seventh Congressional district before returning to Washington.

"Mrs. Langen and I are most grateful for the warm reception we received wherever we visited," said the Congressman. "And the views and observations made by all of you will be most valuable to me as the Congress meets to consider the affairs of your government."

PCA Delegates Protest Increase In Interest Rate

A two-day conference of managers and directors of 12 Minnesota and North Dakota Production Credit associations was held in Moorhead recently. More than 65 farmer directors and their managers

In a special meeting, the group adopted a strongly-worded resolution protesting the recent increased interest rate as set by the Federal Reserve board. It was pointed out by the group that the raise in interset rates is an added burden to farm people who have been faced with a rising cost of operation during a period of diminshing income. This, they stated, cannot be tolerated without protest.

Part of the resolution states, ". . .The members of this conference assembled voice dissapproval of this action by notifying our Senators and Congressmen and requesting them to investigate and rescind this arbitrary and dictatorial action." The resolution was directed to the President of the United States and members of Congress from Minnesota and North Dakota.

Executive committees of the state federation of P.C.A.'s in Minnesota and North Dakota have taken similar action in support of the resolution. Samuel Genereux, a director of the Thief River Falls P. C.A., is president of the Minnesota federation.

Sheriff Reports Accident Friday

No activity over the holiday weekend was reported by the Pennington county sheriff's department with the only accident during the past several days happening on Friday at about 11 a.m.

Runum, who was alone in the car, was not injured but the car sustained an estimated $700 damage. The accident is under investigation by the sheriff's department.

Editorials . . . .

"But this august dignity I treat of, is not the dignity of kings and robes, but that abounding dignity which has no robed investiture. Thou shalt see it shining in the arm that wields a pick and drives a spike; that democratic dignity which, on all hands, radiates without end from God; Himself! The great God absolute! The centre and circumference of all democracy! His omnipresence, our divine equality!"

—Herman Melville

Sports Vocabulary

Ken Hickman's column in the Grand Rapids Herald-Review recently carried an item stolen from Frank Tienan's column in the Hennepin County Review. It evoked a few chuckles here and is reprinted here for the edification of local sports fans:

First, the basketball player's vocabulary. Team player: a man who passes the ball to me. Ball hog: a player who wants me to pass the ball to him. Monster: any player half an inch taller than I am. Defensive Star: the guy can't shoot. Bad pass: anything that I fumble. Fumble: another player's fumble of my perfect pass. Bad shot: shot by teammate. Crazy shot: any basket by the man I'm guarding.

Next comes the coaching jargon, with the statement first, then the translation. We've juggled the schedule to make it more attractive—some of the tougher teams have been dropped. We may get a little help from the reserves—the B team won 24 of 25 last season. I hope to do more scouting this year—they finally authorized expense money for my wife on these trips. Competition is so keen we have to cut several good prospects—why can't they buy us more than 12 uniforms? It was purely judgment call on the referee's part, a difficult call—he'll never work another home game for us!

The Dairy Belt

Minnesota is well known as a dairy state, and it might be assumed by many residents that milk production stays at a fairly regular level throughout the state except in the iron range area where dairying is known to be negligible. Not so, report K. H. Thomas and M. K. Christiansen, University of Minnesota extension economists.

Most of our milk production is in a 39 county dairy belt that extends diagonally through the state from southeast to northwest. This area contains 69 per cent of the dairy cows in the state and presently accounts for 72 percent of the total milk production.

During the 20 year period studied by the economists, cows numbered in the dairy belt dropped 15 per cent from a total of over a million in 1944 to approximately 870,000 in 1964. In that same 20 year period production per cow increased from 5,141 pounds per year, to 9,187 pounds, up a remarkable 51 per cent in the dairy belt. For the whole state, comparable cow numbers during the same period were 27 per cent down, with production per cow increasing from 4,572 pounds to 7,889 pounds per year.

Thomas and Christiansen expect the trend in production increases to continue because of the improving efficiency of modern dairy farm operations.

It seems significant to note that the dairy belt showed a much larger increase in production per cow during the past 20 years. This would indicate that farmers specializing in dairying have kept closer watch on their operations to make them pay, culling out the cattle that weren't paying their own way. There is much to be said for good management in any operation.

We Like Oil

Of the many business and industrial enterprises in the nation today, we believe the oil industry is one of the best. While we have held this view for a long time, a recently-received pamphlet concerning the petroleum industry gave impetus to the belief.

For instance, the industry is looking to the future. While U.S. crude oil production increased from 1.7 to 2.8 billion barrels a year during the last two decades, proved reserves have jumped from 20 to 31 billion barrels. Oil companies are striving more and more to prevent air and water pollution from their operations.

Average retail price of regular grade gasoline—in spite of increasing demand—has decreased by seven per cent in the last 10 years. TAXES on gasoline, however, have increased 36 per cent in that same period to the point where they now average almost 10½ cents per gallon.

The industry spends more than $350 million annually on a host of research projects—paying its own money for about 94 per cent of the research. Nationally, 58 per cent of all industrial research is subsidized by the federal government. Yet from the stockholder's standpoint, the oil companies have yielded regular dividends.

Sale of petroleum products is extremely competitive. As the pamphlet says, "Gasoline customers are on wheels and can easily shop around and compare prices. It's this very interest in a good buy on the part of the customer that keeps prices competitive. In what other business are prices posted in tenths of a cent?"

The Horn Hanker

When the horn was first placed on the automobile, it was designed to warn others that the car was in the vicinity. Ever since that time the horn on an automobile has been considered strictly as a warning device.

We have noted recently that car horns have been used for virtually every purpose a noise-maker can be used except the use for which they were intended. The horns blare at people on sidewalks to attract their attention; they toot at acquaintances in cars meeting on the street; they serve as annoying playthings for young children left unattended in the car; and they are often sounded just for the sake of making noise.

Perhaps too many people blow their car horns simply to draw attention to themselves. Indiscriminate honking of car horns is one stench in the car which we can well do without.

Learn From The Young

Every now and then we hear of a spontaneous act by a youngster which once again restores our hope in the future of the human race. One such act was called to our attention last week by a local resident.

This person noted from her window last Thursday morning that a paper sack filled with empty bottles had been unceremoniously dumped on the street in front of her house on Arnold Av. N. The bottles were apparently the discards from a party of some sort the evening before, and their scattered condition indicated that they had either been tossed from a moving car or that a passer-by had given the sack a kick earlier in the morning.

This sets the scene for the act mentioned above.

While the lady watched, a nine-year-old girl on her way to school went out of her way to pick up the bottles, stuff them back in the bag, place the sack under her arm and start down the block toward school. At this point the lady called to the girl, commended her for her thoughtfulness and offered to have her husband dispose of the bottles at the city dump.

Pam Sinding, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Sinding, was the little girl who took the time to correct the error made by others much older than she is. "I thought that a car might break one and cut its tire", she said. We wonder if the person who tossed the package in the street—and didn't think about such possibility—had the mentality of a nine-year-old.

We should mention here that in addition to her home training, Pam is a member of the junior garden club started here last spring. Leaders of the club are seeking to impress on the members the values of city beautification. Pam's older sister Jackie is president of the club.

We wonder also how many adults would have taken the time or effort to collect the scattered debris that made an unsightly blot on the landscape. Pam is to be congratulated for her actions. After all, isn't it the combination of little things that create an overall impression of the community?

What's In a Lunch?

What is known as the Type A school lunch must be served to every pupil enrolled under a program that participates in the national school lunch program. When the government decides that it will participate in the program it also decides, to a large extent, what will be served in that program. Each meal prepared under the government program must be guided by the following:

1. One half pint of fluid whole milk as a beverage.

2. Two ounces (edible portion as served) of lean meat, poultry or fish; or two ounces of cheese; or one egg, or one half cup of cooked dry beans or peas; or four tablespoons of peanut butter; or an equivalent quanity of any combination of the above-listed foods. To be counted in meeting this requirement, these foods must be served in a main dish or in a main dish and one other menu item.

3. A three-fourths cup serving consisting of two or more vegetables or fruits or both. Full-strength vegetable or fruit juice may be counted to meet not more than one-fourth cup of this requirement.

4. One slice of whole grain or enriched bread; or a serving of corn bread, biscuits, rolls, muffins, etc., made of whole grain or enriched meal or flour.

5. Two teaspoons of butter.

Children may complain—as children who have never really been hungry will—about the lunches they receive in school. Credit must be given, however, to the dedicated school cooks who must prepare huge quantities of food in a palatable form from bulk goods which may not have been tastily processed in the initial stages.

Most adults will agree that they would be quite satisfied to eat what their children eat in school when they come home from work for their noon meal.

Interesting Opinions . . .

"As for excerise, if you have to take it, take it and put up with it. But as long as you have the price of a hack and can hire other people to play baseball for you and run races and do gymnastics when you sit in the shade and smoke and watch them—great heavens, what more do you want?"

Borrowed Nonsense . . .

A lady was telling her husband that she had put her first-aid lessons to good use that afternoon. "I was crossing Main Street", she said excitedly, "when I heard a terrific crash. There was a man lying in the middle of the street, knocked from his car. He had a compound fracture of the leg, a broken skull and was bleeding heavily. Quick as a flash, my first-aid training came back to me. I immediately sat down on the curb and put my head between my knees to keep from fainting."

A teacher gave her class this problem: "If there are seven flies on your desk and you kill one, how many will remain?"

Prowlers Edge Vikings 52-49 Wednesday

In an exciting and nip-and-tuck game (with the score being tied 11 times during the 32 minutes of play), coach Whitey Johnson's Prowlers edged out coach Denny Anderson's Ada Vikings, 52 to 49, on the local court Wednesday night.

On Friday night, January 7, coach Bun Fortier and his defending Region Eight champion Bemidji Lumberjacks will invade the Lincoln court for a game against the Prowlers.

A feature of the hotly-contested game, and which pleased the fans, was that only seventeen fouls were "whistled" by officials Andy Carey and Charles Whiting. The Ada Vikings had seven personal fouls, getting only two in the second half, and the Prowlers were charged with 10 personals.

The game found the scoring lead being tied and alternated on numerous occasions. Ada held a 13 to 11 lead at the end of the first period. The Prowlers overcame that deficit to take a 27 to 25 lead at the intermission, and a 40 to 39 lead entering the fourth period.

Opening play in the second half, the Vikings tallied seven points to take a 32 to 27 lead. Ken Pierce looped a field goal into the east basket; Bruce Johnson made the second of a two tries from the free-throw line; Jim Stadum, Ada's big center, scored a field goal; and guard John Kroshus hit on a shot from the outside.

The Prowlers rebounded from the Viking flurry and Tommy Cummings' jump shot, with 1:51 of the third period remaining, tied the game at 36-all. Johnson's free throw gave Ada a short-lived lead as Bruce Saustad's one-handed toss, with 50 seconds to play, shoved the Prowlers into the lead. Jim Kappes and Bob Brodin exchanged field goals as the Prowlers held a 40 to 39 advantage entering the final period.

The game was in a 46-all knot moving into the final three minutes of play in the fourth period. Kroshus, on a free throw, gave the Vikings a one-point lead. Mark Stromberg, who scored four Prowler field goals in the final period, hit on a shot from the lane with 2:05 to play, and the score was 48-47 for the Prowlers.

With less than a minute to play, and the Prowlers playing ball control, Jim Kroshus, who had been covering Cummings on the outside, moved in to assist Bruce Johnson in attempting to cover Wayne Liden, who had received a pass from Cummings. Liden bounced a pass back to Cummings, and Tommy, from the right side of the court, hit on a jumper with 50 seconds to play.

And with 37 seconds to play, Stromberg drove the lane to score on a layup, and the Prowlers held a five-point lead. Pierce, with but eight seconds to play, hit on a shot from beyond the free-throw circle, paring the Prowlers' winning margin to three points, 52 to 49.

Crookston Youth Sentenced for Shooting Signs

An 18 year old Crookston youth has been sentenced to 90 days each on two charges involving defacing road signs and carrying a loaded and uncased firearm in a vehicle, says the Minnesota highway patrol.

The charges were brought against the youth by the patrol for shooting at signs in the vicinity of Crookston with a .22 caliber rifle. The patrol commented on the seriousness of this offense particularly at night, noting there is a danger of not only defacing signs but hitting someone or something in the line of fire.

Vandalism involving road signs is costly to both the Minnesota highway department and to the counties, with the financial burden falling on the taxpayer.

Keeping Score with "Huck" Olson

A Couple Of New Ones.

In the 22 years that the sport has been on the agenda of the State High School league, the hockey Prowlers have played most of the schools that have been putting teams on the ice. The good ones, that is. They have met these teams either in scheduled games during the season, or in tournament competition.

But this week, playing in the holiday tournament at Roseau, coach George Schlieff's Prowlers will be meeting a pair of newcomers in Virginia and Richfield. On Tuesday night, with the faceoff at 7:30 p.m., the Prowlers will play Virginia; and on Wednesday night, again with the faceoff at 7:30 p.m., the locals will meet Richfield.

Meeting Virginia and Richfield will be a first for the Prowler hockey squad. Coach Jack Junker's basketball Prowlers, in 1961-62 and 1962-63, did play a home-and-home series with Virginia, losing both games. The game played here by a 44 to 49 score, and by a 40 to 60 score at Virginia.

Of the two teams it is probable that coach John Beste's Virginia squad will provide the hockey Prowlers with their sturdiest competition. Hockey, you know, is not a johnny-come-lately sport at Virginia. The school was putting teams on the ice before World War II, and providing the Eveleth Golden Bears with strong opposition.

Harold (Babe) Paulsen, who went onto compile a fine career as a Minnesota Gopher hockey player, and who later coached high school hockey here and at Roseau, was a product of Virginia high school. And Babe was a good one.

The present Virginia squad has dropped a pair of games this season, but the losses, by one goal to the defending champion International Falls Broncos, and a 3 to 1 decision to coach Sergio Gambucci's Grand Forks Central squad, have been to top-flight teams.

Incidentally, the Prowlers have a game scheduled with the Grand Forks Redskins, playing there on Saturday, January 15, in the UND winter sports building. Following Virginia's 3 to 1 loss to Grand Forks, coach Beste of the Virginia squad is reported to have said that Grand Forks' Mark Paulson rates right up along with International Falls' Tim Sheehy.

Down Memory Lane.

Bringing up the name of Babe Paulsen, with regard to Virginia high school hockey, calls to mind that Babe was a star member of the senior hockey Thieves here for several years. He was a right wing on the line that was centered by Bill Zippel. And who can ever forget the series that the Thieves played against coach Fido Purpur's Grand Forks Americ? It was senior hockey at its most exciting.

And to call the roll of some of the colorful and competent players who performed for the Thieves in hockey: in the goal you would find such players Jack McGill, Greek Swanson and Jim Bronson; at the blue-line such names as Bill Juzda, Tony Dorn, Danny Summers and George Beverly; and at center, in addition to Zippel, there would be Jerry Lavergne, Murray Balagus, Eddie McMillan, Paul Kornek, Mack McCaffery and others; and at the wings you would find Paulsen, Paul Bedard, Church Russell, Bud Brossoit, Joe Bockstael, Rube and Babe Julien, Connie Stanbridge and a number of others.

Since it was built, as a WPA project in the early 1930's, the local arena rink has been the scene of many stirring hockey games, and particularly during the hey-dey of senior hockey here. But those days are gone forever. High school hockey, though, has improved considerably on a state-wide level, and the prep teams that come into the arena furnish plenty of hockey entertainment. Not forgetting the grade school, midget and PeeWee hockey.

Oklee Girl Leads NDSU Rifle Team

An Oklee girl is a member of a North Dakota State University women's rifle team that has won first place in two recent matches. Results from a postal match fired against the coeds of Drexel Institute, Philadelphia, Pa., show the NDSU team as winner with 1,300 points compared with 1,203 for Drexel. Mary Wilson of Oklee was high-scoring individual with a score of 272.

Prowler 'B' Team Whips Ada 54-29

Coach Lee Swanson's rangy Prowler B squad, led by the 14-point scoring effort of guard Larry Peterson, and an 11-point production by forward Doug Knutson in the second half, defeated coach Wally Pearson's Ada B squad, 54 to 29, here Wednesday evening.

The Prowler B's held a 12-4 lead at the end of the first period, and a 23-15 lead at the intermission. In the second period, Peterson, on four field goals and a pair of free throws, accounted for all but one of the Prowler B's points.

In the third period, which found the Prowlers scoring 18 points, Knutson tallied four field goals, Paul Ihle looped in three field goals.

State Receives $867,478 to Use For All Wildlife

Minnesota received $867,478 in federal aid funds for fish and wildlife restoration projects during fiscal 1966, according to the state conservation department.

Under the provisions of the Pittman-Robertson and Dingell-Johnson Acts, funds are accumulated from excise taxes on hunting and fishing equipment and allocated to the states on a formula based on the number of license holders and the size of the state.

Funds are used to reimburse the states for up to 75 per cent of the cost of approved fish and wildlife projects including such things as land acquisition, habitat improvement and research.

Over 11 million dollars was distributed by the most recent allocation, supplementing an earlier $15 million allocation released last June 5. Funds are distributed by the U. S. Department of the Interior.

Minnesota ranked fourth in the amount recieved for fish restoration projects with $319,447. The state ranked eighth in funds received for wildlife projects with $518,031. In combined total of both fish and wildlife funds allocated, Minnesota ranked fifth in the nation.

Total Jobs in State Up from November '64

Nonfarm wage and salary jobs in Minnesota in November number 1,089,900, an increase of 39,000 over November 1964—even though the figure represented a seasonal drop of 6,200 jobs from October.

At the same time, the monthly report of Commissioner Robert J. Brown of the Minnesota Department of Employment Security revealed that unemployment in the state last month reached 46,800—down 7,800 from the same month in 1964, but up 14,900 from the October figure. The unemployment rate last month was 3.1 per cent, compared to 21 per cent in October and 3.7 per cent a year ago, according to Brown.

The seasonal job decline last month was substantially less than the normal October to November drop which usually averages more than 11,000. The improved picture was evident in both manufacturing and nonmanufacturing jobs. The former category dropped 2,200 from October to November, considerably less than the normal decline of 3,000 jobs. Nonmanufacturing jobs, which normally drop about 8,000 between October and November, declined less than 4,000 this year.

Durable-goods producing firms reduced payrolls by only 300 as losses were offset by the addition of 300 workers in electrical machinery firms (in March of this year vel since September 1961; since March it has expanded steadily to present employment level of 19,100, the highest ever recorded for the industry).

Brown reported that a normal seasonal cutback of 1,900 jobs occurred in nondurable-goods firms, with the primary cause being a seasonal employment reduction in the canning industry. The manufacturing industry as a whole employed 9,200 more persons this November than last, with durable-goods manufacturing accounting for 8,400 of the new jobs; and nondurables, 800.

Mining employment receded by normal decline of 1,500 this time of year) as notaconite mining was curtailed less than in previous years and taconite employment increased slightly. Employment in construction trades also declined less than usual, mostly because of a smaller cutback in highway and heavy construction activity.

Retail trade employment was 1,600 jobs higher in November than in October. This employment rise was contrary to the slight lull that usually occurs before the annual December peak.

A seasonal cutback of 700 jobs occurred in services with the main reason being the closing of outdoor recreation facilities.

Government employment was up by 500 jobs, the net result of (1) a rise in state government employment of 700, and (2) declines of 100 in both federal and local government.

Total nonmanufacturing employment was 29,900 higher than a year ago with all of the major components, except finance, insurance, and real estate, contributing to the increase.

Manufacturing production workers earned an average of $113.34 per week in November by working 41.1 hours for $2.76 per hour. October averages were $113.58 per week, 41.4 hours and $2.74 per hour and last November's averages were $108.41, 40.7 and $2.66 respectively.

Rasmussen Named To Hearing Group

James A. Lundy, president of the National Association of Railroad and Utility commissioners, has announced the appointment of Paul A. Rasmussen, chairman of the Minnesota Railroad and Warehouse commission, to a three member cooperating committee of state comissioners to sit with the presiding officers of the Federal Communications commission for the hearing and consideration of the American Telephone and Telegraph (AT&T) rate proceeding, pursuant to the cooperative agreement between the FCC and the NARUC.

Other members of the cooperating committee, appointed by President Lundy, are Commissioner Wallace R. Burke of the Connecticut Public Utilities commission and Chairman Jesse W. Dillon of the Virginia State Corporation commission.

Social Security Deduction Will Rise January 1

Starting January 1, 1966 employers will begin deducting 4.2 per cent social security tax from the wages paid to employees, reminds Clifford Kittleson, district manager of the Grand Forks Social Security office.

Under the 1965 changes in the Social Security law, the tax is deductible on wages paid in a year up to $6,600. The employer matches the employee's share with a like amount out of his own pocket.

The new schedule includes the 0.35 per cent tax rate to pay for hospital insurance benefits under the health insurance program.

Self-employed persons filing tax returns on a calendar-year basis will pay 5.4 per cent on 1965 income when they file their federal income tax returns early in 1966.

Also, starting January 1, any employee who receives $20 or more in cash tips in a month must report the amount in writing to his employer by the 10th of the following month. The employer will deduct 4.2 per cent social security on the tips reported to him.

Husband of Once St. Hilaire Girl Wins DSA Award

Jack A. Lavold, 31, of St. Paul Park, has been named winner of the Cottage Grove Jaycees Distinguished Service award. Lavold was president of the Jaycees last year when the chapter was picked from some 80 others as the outstanding one in its division.

Lavold is married to the former Carol Anderson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Anderson of St. Hilaire, and is the father of two sons, Michael 7 and Bradley 4.

The Cottage Grove chapter, under Lavold's leadership, won three first-place, three second-place and a third-place award last year in area competition. In national competition, it ranked second in governmental affairs and third in community health and safety. Lavold's pet project was inauguration of a Christmas pageant presented by 12 church choirs in the area.

Motor Bike Rental Is Regulated in New Law

A law enacted by the 1965 legislature has imposed certain restrictions and conditions on the rental of motor scooters, motorcycles is aimed at reducing traffic accidents involving these vehicles.

In 1963 and 1964, the popularity of renting these vehicles became so extensive and came with such suddenness that it created a pressing new traffic safety problem in the state. That popularity was accompanied by a sharp increase in traffic accidents involving them. In 1964, the record year for accidents invoving these vehicles, deaths increased 142 per cent and injuries jumped 504 per cent over 1962.

Cited by many authorities as one reason for the sharp increase in accidents involving these vehicles was the indiscriminate rental of the vehicles to youths, often without any instruction by the rental agencies on the operation of the vehicles.

The new law requires persons engaged in the business of renting or leasing these vehicles to be licensed by the Minnesota motor vehicle department at an annual fee of $25.

It also requires that they determine that the renter has a valid driver license; require any renter under 18 years of age to leave a written statement signed by the parents or guardian, giving consent to such rental; make and maintain a complete record of each rental; give operating instructions to each renter including but not limited to the controls, pedals, gears and brakes of the machine, unless it is known that the renter is familiar with the operation of the machine being rented.

They must also have available and offer a sanitized helmet to each driver; maintain all vehicles in safe operating condition; and maintain a liability policy insuring the owner and the driver in the amount of $25,000 for injury or death of any one person $50,000 for injury or death of more than one person in any one accident, and $5,000 property damage. In addition, a minimum of $200 medical payment policy covering the driver and passenger must be maintained.

Violation of any of these provisions is a misdemeanor, and the Secretary of State may revoke the license of a person who is convicted of violating any of these provisions.

Study-Discussion Meeting Planned For Young Parents

"Every parent hopes to have happy, healthy children who will become mature, responsible citizens", according to Ronald Pitzer, family life specialist at the University of Minnesota.

"If we accept this as the broad goal of most parents, then answers to two vital questions must be sought. What are the essential characteristics of mature, responsible citizens of a free nation? What influences and experiences contribute to the development of these characteristics in children?"

A study-discussion program available to all parents of elementary school or younger children in the Thief River Falls area will deal with these questions. All parents are invited to the "kick-off" session to be held on Wednesday evening, January 12. This program has been described in a leaflet distributed through area schools. Further details will be provided in future articles of this paper and information may also be obtained by calling the Pennington county extension office, in this courthouse.

"Through the centuries," Pitzer said, "parents have probably been guided in their questions about children by a combination of tradition, experience and 'common sense'. But in a mobile, complex, rapidly changing society, tradition may not be an adequate source of child-rearing content and methods. Further, many young mothers and fathers of today have had little experience and no training in child care. And, while common sense is certainly a necessary parental trait, it is probably not sufficient. We do not rely only on 'comon sense' in other areas of life.

"In most subjects we believe in giving training through books and school curriculum. In this manner we pass on the best that mankind has learned and experienced. Yet in the field of marriage and parenthood, young people have little opportunity for training. Nor does our system of education make programs of parent education generally available to mothers and fathers.

"It is my belief that parents should have access to such programs. Their purpose is not to replace experience or common sense but to supplement them with the best current knowledge concerning child development and parenthood. The overall objective of any parent education program is to aid parents in developing their own best approach to child-rearing," he concluded.

A U. S. savings bond owned by a resident of Iowa was swept up by a tornado and deposited on a farm in Illinois. The finder located the owner by the name and address on the face of the bond and promptly returned it.

The Hagen family are moving this week to Newfolden where they will make their home until school is out anyway. Joel and Keith Hagen will be attending school in Newfolden now instead of Viking. Mr. and Mrs. Hagen and family have lived in this community for the past nine years and will be missed by their neighbors. Our best wishes go with them to their new home.

REMEMBER THE "GOOD OLD DAYS"?

Picture, courtesy of Minnesota Historical Society

The old wood-burning stove was picturesque, but what a problem! It was too hot in summer, and too cold in winter! You were fighting sawdust, slivers, ashes, and a wood supply constantly. Today, with dependable rural electricity as generated by Minnkota Power Cooperative and supplied by local electric cooperatives, the modern kitchen is a great improvement over the kitchen of twenty-five years ago.

INTEREST in equipment used for handling milk and cream and churning butter was demonstrated Tuesday by Marcus Ngwe Mosi of Cameroon, Africa, when he visited Thief River Falls Cooperative creamery. K. E. Gigstad, manager of the creamery (kneeling), points out the operation of processing equipment installed last year for more efficient plant operation. Vernon Anderson, chairman of the board, is also shown at right. Members of the creamery board of directors at left are (front to back) Roger Mickelson, Goodridge; Norman Peterson and Otto Saugen, Thief River Falls. Mosi is visiting a number of area cooperatives through a Farmers Union program and is being hosted in Thief River Falls by Charles Kotaska, manager of Farmers Cooperative Grain and Seed association.

Creamery Here Shows $1,176,794 Total Sales

Reflecting the additional volume caused by the merger with Karlstad Cooperative Creamery in 1964, Thief River Falls Cooperative Creamery association showed an increase in virtually every department in 1965. The annual report of operations was reviewed for members of the cooperative at the annual meeting held recently in Thief River Falls.

Reelected directors of the association for three-year terms were Norman Peterson and Lloyd Nelson of Thief River Falls and Leonard Syverson of Karlstad. Vernon Anderson of Thief River Falls was reelected chairman at reorganization of the board. Norman Peterson was elected vice president to succeed Roger Mickelson, Goodridge. Otto Saugen is secretary-treasurer. Other board members include John Boen of Strandquist and Mickelson.

The 1965 fiscal year, which ended September 30, was the first full year of operation of the local creamery since the merger with the Karlstad cooperative. While net returns due to patrons totaled $10,941 this year, no patrons equities were paid due to purchase of new equipment to modernize the plant and provide more efficient operation.

Sales or gross returns of the creamery this year totaled $1,176,794—an increase of $152,652 from the $1,024,142 recorded in 1964. This included $1,033,387 for the Thief River Falls creamery, $126,447 for the Karlstad creamery, $10,325 from lockers and $6,633 from sale of supplies and other items.

Gross margins totaled $120,671, an increase from $113,028 in 1964. Total gross margins and other returns totaled $199,781—up $29,210 from $170,571 a year ago.

Operating expenses also showed a sharp increase from $129,038 in 1964 to $153,839 last year. Plant expense increased nearly $20,000 with nearly $13,000 of that amount being in salaries. Every other division of plant expense also showed an increase. Administrative expense increased about $1,700 and general expense—including taxes,

Parents To Study Role in Society

Pennington County Home Agent

As stated in last week's article, the goal of every parent is to rear happy, healthy children who will become mature, responsible citizens. All parents of elementary school or preschool youngsters are invited to participate in a study-discussion program which will deal with the development in children of the characteristics essential to mature, democratic living. held in the Thief River Falls senior high school auditorium on Wednesday evening, January 12. In the following weeks, parents will have the opportunity to participate in small study-discussion groups under the leadership of trained local leaders.

Interested parents who have not registered are encouraged to do so promptly by (1) returning the green registration form to the elementary schools or county extension office, courthouse; or (2) by calling the extension office. This preliminary registration is necessary to assure sufficient texts and leaders.

A group of social scientists and educators from all parts of the country were asked to list the major characteristics of mature, responsible citizens in a democratic society. The six characteristics which were most frequently regarded, as important will serve as the focus for the Pennington county study-discussion program for parents.

Most workers in the field of human personality and behavior would agree that feelings of security and adequacy constitute an essential, and probably the most basic foundation for the development of a healthy personality. Parents need to accept each child in his own pattern of growth and development, and to help him find a social role for which he is adequate within the framework of his own assets and limitations.

If the individual is to develop happy and effective relationships with other people, he must develop the ability to understand himself and others. An adequate parent understands himself and his children and contributes to his child's development of these abilities.

A child will inevitably develop values. The crucial problem in guiding a child lies in what values the parent helps him to acquire and citizen in a democratic society, an individual, in developing his own values, must take into consideration those of others.

To live in a free society, every individual needs to develop sound problem solving attitudes and methods.

To be competent for the freedom provided in a democratic way of life, one must develop self-discipline. Only a self-disciplined, responsible person can be truly free.

Since we are all ever-changing individuals in an ever-changing world, parents and children must develop constructive attitudes toward change. We cannot expect to reach final solutions that will remain fixed.

The Pennington county study-discussion program will examine these six characteristics in terms of why they are important and how parents and teachers influence their development in children.

Project Meeting For 4H Leaders Set January 12

A series of four training meetings for 4-H project leaders will be held in a four-country area—Mahnomen, Pennington, East Polk and Red Lake—January 12-13, according to an announcement from Beverly Tveito, Pennington county home agent.

The Pennington county meeting is scheduled for January 12 in Thief River Falls in the courthouse meeting room at 1:30 p.m. for 4-H project leaders in home improvement-family living, foods, health, conservation, agronomy, horticulture - vegetable gardening and sheep. (Red Lake county will add health and conservation.) Four extension agents from the three counties, delegates to 4-H camps and a 4-H adult leader will give the instruction.

Purpose of the training meetings is to bring project leaders up-to-date in the increasingly complex subject matter included in today's 4-H projects, Miss Tveito said. Wayne Carlson, assistant state 4-H club leader at the University of Minnesota, is in charge of planning the training sessions. The project leader's responsibilities are becoming more and more important in Minnesota's 4-H program, he points out.

4-H clubs which have four or more members in any of the project areas to be covered at the sessions should have a project leader designated to attend.

Peace and Prosperity Is Babson Forecast

GIRL SCOU
TREASURE TREE

GIRL SCOUT Treasure Tree was set up in the window of Poppler's furniture store by Senior Troop 133 in accordance with plans formulated by the Pine to Prairie Girl Scout Council planning board. All Brownie, Junior and Cadette troops in Thief River Falls donated school or sewing materials set onto tree decorations, to be sent to the American Friends Service committee in Philadelphia and forwarded to children in Algeria. A prize will be awarded to the Brownie and older Troop which donated the most attractive tree ornaments. The Senior troop reported that the amount of gifts accumulated indicate that every Girl Scout in the city participated in the project.

"Peace and Prosperity" should continue to be the dominant theme in 1966. President Johnson will push ahead in attempts to capitalize on the inroads he has already made with his Great Society program. However, since 1966 will be a Congressional election year, he may find the going less easy than it was this past year; the Congressmen and Senators who are up for re-election will likely think twice before being so generous with the taxpayers' money.

I, of course, would like nothing better than to be completely optimistic in this Forecast, but my more than 60 years of experience in predicting trends has taught me that unexpected events are most dangerous when conditions are brightest.

1. The health of world leaders may well be a prime factor in 1966. These include President de Gaulle, Mao Tse-tung, and even President Johnson.

2. Perhaps the biggest threat in 1966 will come from abroad. There is evidence that the coalition leadership in Russia may be centralizing into the hands of a strongman—something not seen since the Khruschchev ouster. Moreover, Africa could again hold the spotlight in the shifting pattern of the "cold war".

3. I do not look for war with Russia during 1966. Russia is still greatly concerned with trying to bring prosperity to her own people, and is especially troubled about the lag in farm productivity.

4. The struggle for power within Russia may come to a head in 1966. If the strongman is anti-West, he could try to put on a good show by heating up the "cold war"; but this should constitute no more than threatening gestures and bold talk.

5. The Berlin crisis is not likely to be a major issue in 1966, though there could be some nuisance events to "try our patience".

6. I do not foresee all-out war with Red China in 1966. Mao is not yet ready to risk major confrontation. His lagging farm and industrial programs still loom as major problems, and the task of extending Red China's nuclear progress is a heavy burden.

7. The foremost task for Red China still is to get a seat in the United Nations. While Southeast Asia is an attractive plum, territorial expansion may well have to wait in Red China's timetable, as a peaceful profile on her part would make gaining a seat at the UN easier. UN admission, of course, would greatly enhance Red China's prestige in dealings with the Afro-Asian nations.

8. Despite talks of a prolonged struggle in Vietnam, I forecast that it will be increasingly clear that the balance has swung our way. This should encourage our leaders to step up our commitment in Viet-

Witcher construction company of St. Paul did Monday afternoon in subzero cold. The beams are to support the roof of the new Thief River Falls public library, now under construction with the Witcher firm having the general contract, Lee Plumbing & Heating of Thief River Falls the plumbing contract and Gene Holmes of Park Rapids the electric contract. By the end of January the crew hopes to have the building enclosed and the floor slab poured. According to the general contract, the project is to be substantially completed on or before March 1, with final completion expected within 30 days thereafter. Part of the present Carnegie public library, which will be replaced by the new building, can be seen through the brick archways of the new structure.

Julette Weckwerth And Gerald Jasperson Wed

Church of the Holy Cross, Scottsdale, Ariz., was the scene of the marriage of Miss Julette (Julie) Adelle Weckwerth of Thief River Falls and Gerald Gene Jasperson of Phoenix, Ariz., on Monday, November 22. The Rev. Robert Wm. Scheller officiated at the 8 p.m. double ring ceremony attended by a small group of close friends.

The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. Clarence Weckworth of Thief River Falls and the groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Harry Jasperson, also of this city.

Mrs. Louis E. Laufer of Phoenix, Ariz., attended the bride as matron of honor. She wore a woolen sheath dress of gray and brown plaid with a corsage of red carnations similar to the bride's corsage. Louis E. Laufer was best man. The men wore business suits with red carnation boutonnieres.

The bride is a 1964 graduate of the Lincoln high school and a 1965 graduate of the Thief River Falls department of practical nursing. She is employed at the Doctor's hospital at Phoenix. The groom, a 1961 graduate of the Lincoln high school and a 1965 graduate of the Arizona Data Processing Educational center is employed as assistant manager of a Circle K store, a chain of grocery stores.

Miss Nancy Kaye Stensgaard, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hans R. Stensgaard of Oak Avenue, Thief River Falls and William Martin Marinac, son of Mr. and Mrs. Martin S. Marinac of Hibbing, exchanged marriage vows recently at St. Bernard's Catholic church in this city. The Rev. Keough Patnode officiated at the double ring ceremony attended by 200 guests. A former piano teacher of the bride, Mrs. Max Jensen played Concerto Grosso XII by Handel for the processional and "Sinfonia" by Bach for the recessional.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor-length gown of silk organza and Chantilly lace designed with a full bouffant skirt extending into a chapel train. Seed pearls embellished the scalloped neckline and the lace motifs enhancing the skirt. A Swedish crown of crystals held the veil of silk illusion and she carried a bouquet of white mums accented by tangerine carnations and trailing ivy.

Jean Holecek of Breckenridge, cousin of the bride, was maid of honor. Bridesmaid was a former college roommate of the bride, Nancy Pitman of Moorhead. They wore identical gold brocade gowns featuring elbow length sleeves and bell designed skirts. Their headpieces were matching gold crowns trimmed with seed pearls and they carried arrangements similar to the bridal bouquet.

Jerry BoVitz of Webster, S.D., attended the groom as best man. Wally Sunberg of Minneapolis was groomsman and John Crandell of Hibbing served as usher.

The mother of the bride wore a white knit dress and the groom's mother was attired in a gold brocade dress. Gold accessories and corsages of white carnations and tangerine roses completed their attire.

A wedding dinner was served following the ceremony with Peter Stensgaard of Thief River Falls, an uncle of the bride, as host and Mrs. Max Jensen as hostess. The four tiered wedding cake, decorated with gold and tangerine roses, rested on a large tier in the form of a cross. Cutting the cake were aunts of the bride, Ruth Stensgaard of St. Paul and Mrs. Morris Larson of Two Harbors. Aunts of the groom, Rose Marus and Rose Marinac, poured. Evelyn Flasrude of Moorhead a former college roommate of the bride, served the punch and the groom's cake, baked and decorated in gold by the mother of the bride. Alma Malvig, a neighbor of the bride's parents, registered the guests while cousins of the bride, Nita Frahm, Bonita Cullen, Natalie Cornelhusen, all of Fargo, N. NEW YEAR 1966 will arrive at midnight Friday with a number of religious and social observances planned to greet the new year. A tradition with many people is the making of new year's resolutions, and there is always the question of what the coming year will bring to individuals. Marlys Mossestad, Miss Thief River Falls, assists in dramatizing the coming of 1966 in the above photo and extends the community's cordial wish for happiness and prosperity throughout the new year.

County Sheriff's Office Joins Teletype Network

Law enforcement in Minnesota will take on a new dimension early in 1966 when a state-wide teletype system goes into operation. The new system will provide almost instantaneous communication among the 87 offices of county sheriffs in the state (including Pennington county), the state highway patrol, the state crime bureau and the state driver license bureau. The system was authorized by the 1965 legislature.

The Bell Telephone system was awarded the contract for installing the machines Friday. Charles R. Richards, Pennington county sheriff, stated that the teletype machines, similar to those used by news media, will transcribe messages at 60 words per minute and will be in operation 24 hours a day. Sheriff's offices will be equipped with both sending and receiving facilities.

The state will finance installation of the machines, while the counties will pay a monthly operation fee to be matched by the state. Pennington county Commissioner Donald L. Olson said the fee for this county will be about $65 per month.

Purpose of the system is to provide a method of transmitting written messages quickly and eliminate laborious copying of radio messages. Should a major crime occur in this county, a description of persons or cars involved could be flashed by printed word around the state within minutes, and the new system would provide a permanent record of message transmitted.

Headquarters for the system will be at the crime bureau in St. Paul. The department of administration will add 10 people to its staff to operate the newtork 24 hours a day.

The network will be divided into six major sections, with 13 to 16 counties hooked into each segment. Each of the circuits will terminate in the headquarters office, where messages can be relayed from one circuit to the others.

The corrections department and Civil Defense headquarters also will be hooked into the system.

Once the system is set up, any city, village or other public agency may connect with the system upon the approval of the commissioner of administration.

Governor Urges Use of U.S. Food To Fight Famine

Almost 800 farm leaders from all parts of Minnesota met last week in St. Paul for the state conference of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation service. In speaking to these committeemen Gov. Karl Rolvaag reported on a meeting he had attended in Washington just a few days earlier.

The Washington meeting was called by the Committee for the World Food Crisis. The committee is a new group and its purpose is to work for the most effective use of America's agricultural resources to meet the growing problem of hunger throughout the world.

The world-wide food crises is becoming more and more alarming because the worlds population is increasing much faster than is its food production.

"You and I probably stuffed ourselves with delicous Christmas dinner 1st week—feasting on some of the 15 million turkeys produced in Minnesota each year", the governor said, "but, while we overeat, 10,000 persons around the world will die of starvation on Christmas day. Each day, another 10,000 starve to death. Each night, half the people in the world go to sleep hungry.

"We in the United States have more food than we can use. We have been using our farm production generously and wisely to fight famine in other lands. Our Food for Peace program is based on enlightened self-interest as well as on humanitarianism. Food is the greatest weapon we have in the arsenal of democracy," he added.

"Public Law 480, under which the Food for Peace program operates, will expire next year. Meanwhile, our food reserves, from which the program is supplied, have been cut sharply. In fact, our grain reserves would hardly last six months for our own use if a catastrophe should wipe out our crops in a single year.

"Congress will face the choice in 1966 of expanding our agricultural production, or further depleting our food reserves, or abandoning much of our "Food for Peace" program. Common sense suggests that increasing farm production is the best alternative.

"This will strengthen our farm economy. It will also improve our chances for eventually achieving the 'peace on earth' for which we pray so earnestly," Gov. Rolvaag concluded.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Grendahl of Bloomington are spending this week at the home of Mrs. Grendahl's parents, the Larry Rungers. Christmas eve the Grendahls and the Runger family were overnight guests at the Calvin Hoenke home at Hallock. Christmas day they all were dinner guests at the Sophie Olson home at Warroad.

Organization Pushes Tourism in Minnesota

Appointment of Robert Warren, formerly a public relations manager with a national merchandiser in Chicago, as the first executive director of Marvelous Minnesota, Inc., was announced by Paul D. Elbert, president.

Elbert said the objective of the newly-formed statewide tourist-travel promotion organization is "to make Minnesota number one in tourism in the upper midwest and to move toward the development of Minnesota as a year-round vacation land." He added that the tourist business in Minnesota is currently measured at approximately $400 million and "is one of our biggest economic impacts in the state."

Warren said that according to the most recent U. S. census of business, "Minnesota is 13th among the 50 states by the most reliable indicator of tourism-hotel and motel receipts.

"Between the 1958 and 1963 government surveys of business, the country averaged a 29 per cent growth in tourism," Warren said, "but Minnesota grew only 16 per cent. Accordingly, Marvelous Minnesota has established a goal for the next two years. That is that by the 1968 census, the state will have risen from 13th place to 11th place adding more than $200 million to our state's economy and making our total tourist-travel package bring in revenues of more than $600 million to the industry and travel-connected businesses."

Marvelous Minnesota was incorporated in March as an independent group to develop, coordinate and assist the tourist-travel industry to expand. Members of its board of directors represent leading industries, associations and companies in the state. In addition to organizations represented on the board, financial support comes from other groups in the private sector as well, Elbert said.

He noted that in addition to the tourist division of the state department of business development, there are local and regional groups and associations seeking to promote tourism on an area basis. "We will not replace any of these organizations, of course," he said, "but rather we will augment their efforts and promote our industry on a state-wide basis."

Peace Corps Test Offered Jan. 8

Thief River Falls area residents interested in joining the Peace Corps are invited to take the Peace Corps placement test at 9 a.m. Saturday, January 8, at the post office.

The Peace Corps uses the placement test to determine how an applicant can best be utilized overseas. The test measures general aptitude and the ability to learn a language, not education or achievement. The test requires no preparation and is non-competitive; an applicant can neither pass nor fail.

The application form, not the placement test, is the most important factor in the selection of volunteers. Prospective volunteers must fill out an application, if they have not already done so, and present it to the tester before taking the test. Applications may be obtained from the local post offices or from the Peace Corps, Washington, D.C. 20525.

The placement test takes about an hour and a half. An optional achievement test for applicants who have studied French or Spanish requires an additional hour.

Greenbush Fires Damage Business And Destroy Home

Two damaging fires occurred in the Greenbush area within the past couple of weeks. The Coffee Shop in Greenbush was extensively damaged December 17, and the Maynard Raichl home near Strathcona was destroyed Tuesday, December 21.

At 1:30 a. m. December 17, Mrs. Alice Bario, owner of the Coffee Shop, smelled smoke while sleeping in a room in the shop. She discovered smoke coming from the upstairs hotel bedrooms and called her son, Bobbie Quist, who turned in the fire alarm. The fire department arrived promptly and extinguished the fire, but one hotel room was badly damaged by the blaze and smoke and water damage was extensive.

The fire at the Raichl home occurred at about 3:15 p. m. Tuesday, December 21. Neighbors, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Nelson, noticed the fire and turned in the alarm. The Raichl family was absent from the home at the time. The Greenbush fire department was unable to save the home, however, and the Raichl family is now lodged at the Willie Raichl home at Ross.

Marvin Lumber Profit-Sharing Totals $58,178

A big increase in the profit-sharing plan of the Marvin Lumber and Cedar company of Warroad was shown for the past year, as $58,178.68 was split among 186 company employees at the annual Christmas dinner in December. The amount was an increase of almost $15,000 over the 1964 split, which was a new high at that time, and itself a big jump over the 1963 split of $23,655.

The average check handed out was in the amount of $311.11, less taxes. Of the total amount, $14,544.67 was divided from the seniority pool and $43,634.01 from the compensation pool. Since the profit sharing plan was begun several years ago, a total of $217,699.32 has gone to employees. Total employment for the year was 281.

Memorial Given For Heart Fund

Heart Fund memorials in the name of the late Mrs. Selma Iverson of Thief River Falls were recently received by the Minnesota Heart association, according to David Drotts, Pennington county memorial chairman.

Because the full amount of these gifts will be used for heart research, Drotts said, they are "living memorials," likely to lead to further advances in the conquest of heart disease.

The great need for heart research funds, Drotts points out, is indicated by the fact that during the past year, more Americans died from heart disease (approximately 1,000,000) than the total number killed in all the wars in our country's history (602,339).

In Pennington county, for example, there were 146 deaths last year, and of this number, 82 were from heart disease.

Clergy Eligible For Coverage of Social Security

Clergymen not already under social security have until April 15, 1966 to elect coverage, says Clifford Kittelson, Grand Forks, district manager for social security. To come under coverage a clergyman must waive his exemption to social security tax by filing Form 2031 with the Internal Revenue service.

Clergymen who make this election by April 15 will have coverage for 1963 and 1964 as well as for 1965. To secure this coverage, a clergyman will have to file amended returns on 1963 and 1964 income and pay the self-employment tax for those two years. He will pay the 1965 self-employment tax as a part of filing his 1965 federal income tax return.

A recently-ordained clergyman may wait to elect coverage until he has two years of self-employment as a clergyman in which he has netted at least $400 a year. He must make his election by April 15 following his second year of $400 or more.

Babson Forecast Predicts Peace And Prosperity

nam in 1966 in order to force a "peace conference".

9. I foresee no crisis over Cuba in 1966. The agreement Castro has made to allow more Cuban refugees to enter the U.S.A. underscores the problem he has in feeding his people.

10. The Vietnam situation and the Dominican Republic incident have convinced the Administration that the military might of our nation must be maintained at a "ready" basis. This means stepped-up defense spending, which should add another prop to the economy.

11. While such defense spending will focus heavily upon conventional military equipment, our space program will not be neglected. Having come from behind in the space race, the Administration is not likely to falter and allow Russia to open another wide gap.

12. The increase in defense spending notwithstanding, I forecast that the economy will be hard pressed to match the fantastic achievements of the past four years. Threats of major labor strikes have been playing an important role in stimulating inventory accumulations from time to time to keep things rolling along. I do look for industrial production to edge to a new high. However, I fear the peak will come before midyear and taper off thereafter. On the whole, the business climate in 1966 may well prove to be one of high-level stability rather than of vigorous climb.

13. Business capital expenditures which have been a key factor in prolonging the business boom, should remain a strong bolstering influence. However, I predict that they will not provide as much in the way of upthrust for the economy as in the past two years.

14. Business inventory accumulation, likewise a big factor in the boom, should also become a less vigorous expansionary force. Perhaps fears of inflationary price increases will encourage businessmen to maintain a healthy volume of inventories; but unless war threats intensify, I see no need to pile up much more in inventories.

15. Consumers will have more money to spend in 1966. I forecast a further uptrend in personal incomes to new high ground. An important influence in this respect is the impact of automatic wage increases which are called for in existing multi-year labor pacts.

16. Also, I predict a further rise in the general structure of wage rates, as many secondary labor unions seek to match the gains of the auto and steel workers.

17. Unless another federal tax cut is enacted—which now seems remote in view of the war effort and the present fiscal deficit—net income after taxes may not rise as rapidly as gross income. The social security tax rate is scheduled for a step-up. Also, higher state and local taxes—including sales levies—will place more of a burden on consumers.

18. The all-important employment situation should remain generally good. We may have seen the greatest portion of the raise in manufacturing employment. However, employment in government payrolls at all levels, and in services, should continue to score sizable gains.

19. I forecast no radical change in the jobless picture. Let me warn readers, however, that the problem is far from solved, and in coming years we may well have to reckon with it. The draft step-up only temporarily eases things and gives a false sense of well-being.

20. Retail trade should enjoy another excellent year. Much of the gain in dollar volume, of course, will come from price rises. Nevertheless, as long as personal incomes, employment, and business hold high, consumer confidence will encourage spending.

21. Spending for food, apparel, and general merchandise should continue upward; also for leisure-time and vacation lines. Color television is catching on, and I look for continued strong demand in this field.

22. The automobile business will not be left out in the spending spree. It will enjoy another prosperous year; but I foresee no significant upsurge beyond the high levels of the past two years.

23. In view of the drain on our gold supplies, the government has been endeavoring to promote domestic travel and vacations. Nevertheless, I forecast further interest in foreign vacations. In one sense, I am happy to see this. I have done considerable foreign traveling, and I feel that such activity is definitely advantageous. Furthermore, I feel that foreign travel can help Americans to wake up to the advantages here at home and make them more thankful for the belssings they enjoy.

24. Many readers — especially those retired and living on pensions and social security—are worried about the threat of inflation. I forecast no radical inflation during 1966. . .the Administration is committed to "non-inflationary progress". However, some price increases appear unavoidable.

25. I predict that the greater danger will lie in credit inflation, rather than in price inflation.

26. With the rise in defense spending and the cost of legislation for the Great Society, the federal budget will suffer a sizable deficit. In addition, states and municipalities are unable and unwilling to live within their means. Consumers will also go further into debt.

27. Look for new increases in the cost-of-living index. The government may try to head off substantial price hikes in key areas, but selective price rises will occur.

28. Industrial commodity prices should remain firm to higher, particularly in the first half of 1966. The primary bulwark against a price runaway is competition, which should be basically more effective than government influence.

29. I look for an increase in domestic competition in 1966. This should become more evident as the business upthrust tapers off. Also, we must not forget foreign competition. With many nations feeling the pinch of a dollar shortage, they will work to remedy this by increasing their sales here.

30. Business in 1966 need fear no major labor tie-ups. Strikes, however, may well be numerous among the secondary labor units.

31. I look for business failures to increase; both in numbers and in dollar liabilities. This will be due to keen competition, excesses of debt and inventory accumulations, unwise credit extensions, and careless management.

32. Of greater concern to me is the steady climb in nonfarm real estate foreclosures; I expect a further rise in 1966.

33. Business profits in 1966 will not advance as sharply as in the past two or three years. The squeeze is on in profit margins; hence I look for a tapering off in the rise of corporate profits, although I foresee no drastic slump while activity holds near peak.

35. Farm equipment manufacturers should enjoy good business in 1966. This goes also for fertilizer and pesticide producers.

36. The important building and construction lines should hold their own in 1966, but their dollar volume may be due largely to price and cost inflation. The Great Society program is a plus factor for construction, including urban renewal and highways.

37. Private home and apartment building could show slight improvement, but the real boom in residential building will not register significantly in 1966.

38. Hence, I forecast that real estate conditions will remain selective. Well-located sites for homes and industrial and commercial complexes will do well, but study of local conditions is imperative.

39. I predict a further increase in farm land values in 1966. With costs still rising, the physical size of farms must expand so operators can benefit from mechanization. This places a premium on well-located land in the important and larger agricultural regions.

40. The steady advance toward fuller automation should make further progress in 1966, helping industry to cope with rising operating costs and shorter work weeks.

41. Trees do not grow to the skies; neigher does the stock market rise unendingly. While I forecast that the stock market—as measured by the Dow-Jones Industrials—can surpass the high mark of 1965, I anticipate a volatile 1966 market with a good-sized drop-off a real possibility sometime during the year.

42. Even though the stock market may push to new highs, any further advance may not bulk large percentagewise. If business and corporate profits show a tendency to taper off, the fundamental basis for a worthwhile advance will be removed.

43. Speculative enthusiasm and inflation fears can be expected to figure prominently in the stock market during the course of 1966. The urge to make a quick buck is increasingly evident.

44. I forecast that 1966 will not be the time for illogical speculation and gambling in the stock market. Above all, let me remind readers of the dangers of using borrowed money to buy stocks. Those who "go off the deep end" may well regret it before very long.

45. Those who invest (not speculate) on the basis of growth will sleep better nights. I have in mind the expanding population, rising incomes, scientific advances, greater leisure, and above all the impact of the Great Society.

46. Investors should be pleased with cash dividend payments in 1966. I forecast they will show another increase. I would also expect a rash of stock dividends and stock splits, particularly in the first half of the year.

47. If businessmen, consumers, and investors do not act voluntarily to keep inflationary pressures and speculation from getting out of hand, the monetary authorities may be forced to raise margin requirements on stock purchases, and perhaps tighten credit further.

48. Look for somewhat lower bond prices in 1966. Although we are not in immediate danger of credit exhaustion, the banking system is under some strain from the rapid expansion of credit in recent years. My advice is to buy bonds which mature in five years or less. The time to buy good long-term bonds will come when the yields on short-term bonds exceed those on long-term issues.

49. The dollar will not be devalued in 1966. Possibility of devaluation of the British pound will undoubtedly come to the fore again, but additional effort will probably be made to keep the pound from "going under". I fear, however, that all this is only "buying time". . .that devaluation of the pound may be inevitable.

50. I foresee no cure for the outflow of gold from America's shores in 1966. However, in view of the importance of the U.S. in international trade and world military considerations, foreign bankers will be reluctant to withdraw their gold en masse. Bear in mind also that there is no country that can match our industrial and military might . . .and that, among the leading nations, the United States has suffered least in terms of the ravages of inflation and political instability.

PLAQUES were awarded to the winning entrants in the Jaycee-sponsored Christmas lighting contest at the Jaycee meeting held Tuesday night in the Elks club. Project Chairman Art Heinze (left) presented the awards to Mr. and Mrs. Orville Knischke (second from left), winner in the non-religious division, and Mr. and Mrs. Palmer Lorenson, winner in the most original division. Heinze reported that although entries in the contest were few, competition was keen in both divisions.

May the bells which ring in the New Year toll for you and yours a year of peace, success, happiness and prosperity with fond memories of the year gone by.

Public Opinion

To the Editor:

Now the Christmas dinners are eaten, the toys played with and the tree ornaments packed away again, but before we plunge into the tasks of 1966, we would like to express our thanks to the people of this community and the surrounding area who so generously supported the Salvation Army's Christmas work.

You contributions put food on the table and presents under the tree—sometimes it put the tree there too—for families with little means. But they also helped to put a smile on children's faces on Christmas day and renewed faith in a parent's heart. They helped to bring the joy of the holiday and courage for the coming year to many of the loneliest among us—invalids, hospital patients, elderly people living in institutions and alone.

We wish you could have been personally present to see the difference that the Salvation Army makes—a difference that depends upon the support of citizens like yourself; citizens who care.

We want you to know that many persons have had a happier holiday and have found additional strength to face their problems through your generosity to the Salvation Army—and since they cannot thank you in person, we are doing it for them. To all those who helped us, many, many thanks.

Sincerely yours,
Lt. Harold Shelby
Officer in Charge

COUNTY BOARD PROCEEDINGS

December 29, 1965

OFFICIAL PROCEEDINGS
PENNINGTON COUNTY, MINNESOTA
DECEMBER 14, 1965

Pursuant to Notice of Hearing on County Ditch the Board of County Commissioners met in the Court House at Thief River Falls, December 14, 1965 at 2:00 p.m.

Members present: Hanson, Olson, Anderson, Lindberg and Tass. All present.

A total of 30 persons were present but a registration of interested persons revealed only 23 persons registering.

Attorney Stanley Mortenson appeared in behalf of the petitioners and proceeded to determine proper jurisdiction, proper posting, publishing and mailing of notices. No objections from those present after review of Auditor's record of procedures.

Engineer Seidel then reviewed his final plans in detail and enumerated the following amendments and changes in the proposal for the construction of the drainage ditch:

1. Recommended construction of outlet along section line directly to the south rather than a meandering course through a natural draw south and east.

2. Recommended riprapping of the outlet as well as various inlets into the ditch in line with recommendations of the Director of the Division of Waters, Department of Conservation, State of Minnesota. Letter from Director on file in Auditor's office.

3. Recommended addition of a Branch No. 1 from the SW corner of Sec. 33 and running on the north side of the road to a point approximately ½ mile to the East. The addition would add an estimated $220.00 to the project.

The Viewers report was then reviewed but upon recognition that none of the Viewers were present it was determined that the hearing would have to be continued at another date in order to give the interested persons an opportunity to ask questions of the Viewers.

Various questions were asked and answered by the Engineer; as follows: Is riprapping included in the estimate? Answer: No, but the cost is not great. The cost of the proposed straight outlet was included in the estimated cost. The value of the new outlet was questioned because it went adjacent to the natural draw but the Engineer indicated this would be diked to confine the waters to the ditch.

Silas Hanson then spoke in favor of the proposed ditch and asked the Board to act in the best interests of the petitioners and allow construction of the ditch.

The placing of the dirt on the land was objected to with the objector indicating that the dirt could be placed in the road ditch on the opposite side of the road. Objection noted.

Moved by Olson seconded by Hanson that the meeting adjourn to convene at 1:00 P.M., January 24, 1966 with the Auditor to give notices to all. Motion carried.

Merle A. Lindberg, Chairman
Pennington County Board
Attest: C. W. Rodekuhr, County Auditor & ex-officio, Clerk of the Board.

Hockey Prowlers Lose In Holiday Tourney

Coach John Beste's Virginia Blue Devils from Region Seven defeated the Prowlers, 3 to 2, in the opening game of the holiday hockey tournament at Roseau on Tuesday night. Tonight, Wednesday the Prowlers will meet Richfield, with the faceoff at 7:30 p.m. in the Roseau arena.

In Tuesday night's opener the Blue Devils gained an early 3 to 0 lead over the Prowlers, and then coach Beste's squad was forced to hold off the threatening Prowlers, who notched a pair of goals to lose the game by a 3-2 score.

The Blue Devils, taking advantage of some loose defensive play by the Prowlers, rapped a pair of goals into the west cage in the opening minutes of the second period, with Tamminen and Vukelich getting the scores.

The Prowlers moved into the scoring column at the 8:11 mark of second period when Jerry Droppo, on a hard shot from just inside the blue-line, after getting a pass from Billy Dicken, beat goalie Roger Ralston.

And in the late minutes of the third period, with the Blue Devils skating shorthanded as Tamminen was assessed a hooking penalty, Kent LeMoine banged a shot into the west goal at 8:39. The Prowlers were unable to mount a scoring threat in the final minute, and with the Blue Devils applying pressure on goalie Jeff Noel, the Prowler netminder was credited with 10 saves in the third period.

Coach Oscar Almquist's Roseau Rams, hosts for the holiday tourney, topped Richfield 6-2 in the second game of the tournament Tuesday. The Prowlers and Rams swap opponents for tonight's game.

Residents Advised To Secure 1966 Fishing Licenses

Area residents who plan to do any fishing or small game hunting over the holiday weekend are advised by C. W. Rodekuhr, Pennington county auditor, to secure 1966 licenses before agencies close for the weekend. "Licenses are sold by the calendar year and not the season," Rodekuhr said.

In addition to the auditor's office in the courthouse, there are 10 license agencies in Thief River Falls, one in Goodridge and one in St. Hilaire, Rodekuhr said. Licenses for 1966 have been sent to all agents.

The only change in licensing from 1965 is in the non-resident angling license. Only individual non-resident licenses will be sold at a cost of $5.25 each. A special two-day license, for non-residents is also available for a fee of $3.

Individual resident angling license sell for $2.25 while a husband and wife combination license is $2.75. Persons owning darkhouses must obtain a $2 shelter license ($3 if house is designed for rental) and an additional $1 license is required for spearing from a darkhouse.

Small game license costs $3 and trappers must obtain a $3 trapping license.

Plan Recreation Activities During Winter Season

Winter activities for the Thief River Falls park and recreation association have been announced by James Foley, director. Skating classes, volleyball for men and women, formation of a theater group and ballet instruction are included in the program.

Open skating will be held at the city arena from 1 to 4 and 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. today and Thursday, 1:30 to 4 p.m. Friday and Saturday and 2 to 4 and 7 to 9:30 p.m. Sunday.

Registration for skating classes will be held for children east of the river Thursday at the east side rink and those from the west side Friday at the Northrop rink. Registration will be held from 1 to 3 p.m. All classes will begin the following week; there will be no charge for instruction.

Men's volleyball will be held Wednesdays beginning at 7 p.m. January 5 in the city auditorium. Anyone wishing to play in the league or register a team should be present.

Women's volleyball will be held Thursday, January 6, at 7:30 p.m. in the city auditorium. The league is open to any women in the community and those interested should attend the meeting or call the recreation office.

Attempts are being made to formulate a theater group and a meeting for this purpose will be held Monday, January 10, at 7:30 p.m., in the basement of the city auditorium. It is hoped that the group would present public drama performances several times a year. Persons interested should call the recreation office or attend the meeting. Ballet classes will resume January 8 at 8:30 a.m.

Prowlers' Hockey Tournament All-Staters.

In the conversation I had last week with a couple of senior hockey fans, and which recalled the fine players who had performed with the Thieves, the coment was also made that the high school Prowlers had produced a number of all-state tournament selections.

And that's true. Going through my files, which extend to the first state high school hockey tournament in 1945, I find that the following Prowlers gained all-tournament honors: Bob Baker, 1945, a center who also put in time as a defenseman and was named as a defenseman in 1945; Jim Doyle, 1945, at defense; Wes Hoyle, 1945, at a wing; Jack Erickson, an all-tournament selection in 1951, and a repeater in 1952; Mary Jorde, co-captain of the 1954 state champions, named at center; Mike McMahon, 1954, a defenseman on the state champions; Jack Hoppe, 1954, goalie on that team; Joey Poole, 1954, a center on the state championship squad, and Joey repeated as an all-tournament center in 1955; Jackie Poole, 1956, center on the Prowlers state champions of that year; Glen Carlson, 1956, a wing on that championship team; Duane Glass, 1956, defenseman on coach Dennis Rolle's squad; Dale Wennberg, 1959, center on the Prowler squad that won consolation honors; and Archie Schneider, 1960, a 185-pound defenseman on the Region Eight champions.

Other Sports Stars

As long as I am making a catalog of the Prowlers' all-tournament selections it is perhaps proper to add basketball and baseball, in which sports Prowlers have been named to the all-star squads.

In basketball the Prowlers have had four all-state tournament choices: John Chommie, captain and guard of the 1932 state champions; Wendell Kielty, a forward on that 1932 team; Roy Lee, a co-captain and guard of the 1938 Prowler state champions; and Loren (Bones) Stadum, a center on the 1938 team. And Bones was named in 1939, too.

In baseball, which is a comparatively recent state tournament sport for the Prowlers, only two players have been named to the all-tournament squad. Glenn Carlson, who was a 1956 all-tournament choice in hockey, made the 1955 all-state baseball squad as a first baseman. And in 1959, Gene Weckworth was named as right fielder of the all-state tournament squad.

And to bring all the sports up to date, I'll report that on individual sport level, in state competition, Joe Taylor, in 1964, won the 165-pound wrestling championship; and in 1962, Paul Klungness, with a leap of 21 feet, ½ inch, won the state high school broad jump title. The accomplishments of Joe and Paul marked the first time that Prowlers athletes were able to gain state titles in major sports competition.

Except for the cases of Joe and Paul, where the honors were gained by actual competition, the selections to an all-state tournament squad is a matter of consensus. In some instances, the Prowlers had standout athletes who were not fortunate enough to play in a state tourney. And in some cases it appeared that injustices were made.

For instance, in 1938, the co-captain of the state champion Prowlers was guard Don Lorentson. In that year the runner-up North high school team of Minneapolis had three players on the all-tournament squad. And how did this come about? It happened that at the half-time intermission of the championship finals, North held the lead and appeared to be the winners. The all-state tournament selections are usually forwarded to the tournament manager at that time, and so North gained three places while the champion Prowlers had but two, Roy Lee and Loren Stadum. Lorentson, unquestionably, was of all-state tournament stature. And was he a rugged competitor!

Football, of course, does not have state tournament competition therefore the stars of past Prowler football teams have not gained official all-state recognition.

I consider myself fortunate to have seen the vast majority of these Prowlers in high school action. The three I missed were John Chommie, Wendell Kielty and Roy Lee, in 1932 and 1938, and this was due to illness.

Cold Weather Makes Many Driving Problems

While it's still early in the cold season, it's late enough for local drivers to have experienced several bouts with winter driving problems, and Police Chief Elton Cummings suggests that now is a good time for drivers to review recommended measures for handling seasonal driving difficulties.

"This information does not originate with me," the chief explained. "The source is the committee on winter driving hazards of the National Safety council. And it is recommended by the International Association of Chiefs of Police that we help make safe winter driving information known in the interest of traffic control and accident prevention."

Accident prevention is not an insurmountable problem in rough winter weather, the chief maintains. The secret is to protect one's ability to see and to stop.

To cope with winter darkness and bad weather, drivers must get a head start on safety by keeping car lights in good order and windshield clearing equipment—wipers and defrosters—operating properly, Chief Cummings reasserted. And since seeing is a matter of looking, drivers should be doubly alert when natural visibility deteriorates.

The "stopping" part of the formula suggests the need for good, equalized brakes. In winter of course, there is that other determining factor—traction. Stopping traction drops dangerously on icy streets. This is when unprepared drivers can "lose their grip" the chief warns.

"Fortunately, we in Thief River Falls aren't the only ones thinking about this problem," Chief Cummings said. "Winter driving research, conducted annually under auspices of the National Safety council, has already given us much of the information on which a safe winter driving record can be built."

He listed these items of information:

On glare ice, braking distance may be as much as 12 times greater than that on dry pavements (something for pedestrians as well as drivers to remember), averaging 195 feet (10 car lengths!) with regular tires from a speed of only 20 mph. While snow tires reduce this somewhat to 174 feet, reinforced tire chains further shorten it less than half this distance—77 feet.

On loosely packed snow, average braking distance from a speed of 20 mph turned out to be 60 feet, while snow tires cut this average to 52 feet, and reinforced tire chains (with special biting cleats) to 38 feet.

If the winter ahead still looks kind of long and dangerous to you, information like this may be just what you need, thinks Chief Cummings, who had this parting shot:

"With braking distances like I've mentioned, from a speed of just 20 miles an hour, you can see why the officers of our department take a dim view of speeders—especially when conditions aren't the best."

Awards Assembly Held for NWSA At Crookston

Annual awards assembly for the fall term at the Northwest school of agriculture, Crookston, was held December 14 in the school auditorium. Awards were presented to students who had participated in football and cross-country. Scholarship certificates were awarded to students who had been on the school's honor roll for two or six consecutive semesters.

Robert Bye of Euclid was elected by his teammates as the most valuable player of the Northwest school football team for the past season. Daniel Nephew of Euclid was awarded an athletic letter "A" for football. Glenn Struthers of Red Lake Falls won a letter "A" in cross-country.

Chevron awards for football were presented to Robert and Ronald Bye, and James Wallace, Euclid; Bruce Nelson, Goodridge; and Gary Weiss, Red Lake Falls. Robert Bye also received a captain's star. Kenneth Duden of Euclid received a chevron award in cross-country.

Time Running Out On Reopening of GI Insurance

"The finest Christmas present is future security for the family," comments John R. Murphy, manager of the Veterans Administration center in St. Paul. He pointed out that service-connected veterans have less than five months to take advantage of the reopening of GI insurance.

Final deadline for application is midnight, May 2, 1966. Those World War II and Korean conflict veterans who failed to buy GI insurance or who bought it and later dropped it now have the chance to buy a new form of GI insurance—provided they have a service-connected disability. They do not have to be receiving compensation payments from the VA to be eligible.

Murphy said that the insurance is available in a variety of plans ranging from a low cost modified life plan to 20-year endowment. Further details may be obtained at the Contact Division, VA Center, Ft. Snelling.

Accidents During Holidays Often Involve Drinking

We should know, says Thief River Falls Police Chief Elton Cummings, that more than half of the fatal auto accidents which occur during the Christmas and New Year holiday season are associated with drinking. National safety council at this time of year consistently campaigns against office parties where alcohol flows freely.

A happy holiday season is no occasion for forgetting a year-long rule against drinking and driving, warns the chief, because drinking and driving can take the happiness out of the hloidays in a hurry.

Other rules for a safe and happy holiday season? Here are some from the International Association of Chiefs of Police:

1. Keep the peace with pedestrians. (If you are a pedestrian, try to see the driver's side of it. Common courtesy pays off.)
2. Expect unexpected weather—and be fully prepared.
3. Obey traffic laws and ordinances. They'll be enforced during the holidays as usual, for your protection, Chief Cummings promises.

Answer Questions On Savings Bonds

Q—Could the co-owner of an E or H Bond redeem the bond in the event of my illness or inability to get to the bank?

A—Yes, provided the co-owner had possession of the bond. Either registered co-owner may cash a U.S. Savings Bond without permission of the other. In the case of an H Bond, however, it would be necessary for the bank to forward it to a Federal Reserve Bank or branch, or the office of the Treasurer of the United States, and one full calendar month's written notice is required.

Q—What is the tax advantage, if any, in buying U. S. Savings Bonds?

A—The advantage lies first in the fact that Savings Bonds are exempt from state and local income taxes; second, that interest on Series E Bonds need not be reported for Federal income tax purposes until the bonds are redeemed. And when E Bonds are exchanged for H Bonds, tax on the accrued interest may continue to be deferred until the H Bonds are redeemed or reach final maturity.

Q—Should I cash in the E Bonds I bought back in the '40's and buy the ones offered today at a higher rate of interest?

A—No—for two reasons. First, when last the interest rate was raised on new bonds, improvements were also made in the older bonds for their remaining life, which means that they are now earning at a comparable rate. Second, if you cashed in your bonds, their accrued interest would immediately be subject to Federal income tax.

"I believe the power of observation in numbers of very young children to be quite wonderful for its closeness and accuracy. Indeed, I think that most grown men who are remarkable in this respect, may with greater propriety be said not to have lost the faculty, than to have acquired it; the rather, as I generally observe such men to retain a certain freshness, and gentleness, and capacity of being pleased, which are also an inheritance they have preserved from their childhood." —Charles Dickens

The New Year

As the Thief River Falls community embarks on a new year Saturday, it is with a feeling of optimism and kind reflection on recent years gone by. We believe that this community is headed for a banner year in 1966—a year of progress, development, expansion and satisfaction.

The year of 1965 has not been a bad one for Thief River Falls. Building permit totals showed it to be one of the most progressive construction years in recent history. A number of new homes were built. Three apartment houses were under construction—indicating a shortage of rental housing caused by an increase in population. The community is growing—and growth in rural Minnesota is not a common occurrence.

Reflected in optimism for 1966 is the eternal optimism of the farmer who plants seed each spring with the belief that he will have a profitable harvest in the fall. This belief has been shaken in the area the past several years when a good crop in the bin has been a rarity, but the optimism is still there and will be there during the planting season. It could be possible that 1966 will be THE year for area farmers.

Those farmers who were able to weather the storm of low livestock prices a year ago may take heart at the current market. Hogs have hit all-time highs and beef prices have again made that enterprise attractive. The forecast for 1966 indicates that prices should be good through the next year. All of this seems to show that the speculator who tries to get in and get out of a certain enterprise is the one who gets caught in the middle. The steady farmer who stays with his livestock has been able to take advantage of the highs in the market when they do appear.

With the Thief River Falls junior college being extremely successful with an opening enrollment 50 per cent greater than anticipated, even bigger things are expected next year. Perhaps the vocational-technical school, which has proved to be an outstanding success over the years, may be expanded and improved in 1966. It is difficult to be anything but optimistic for the new year in the Thief River Falls community. Happy New Year.

Let's Turn 'em Loose

This memorable quote comes from a speech by President Daniel P. Loomis of the Association of American Railroads ". . .Total intercity freight traffic, now 2½ times the level of 35 years ago, could multiply another 2½ times in the next 35 years. And who is to carry these titanic loads? Railroads must, or else the nation will bog down in traffic jams and get fouled up in its own affluence."

It is no reflection on the truckers to point that congestion on the roads and highways has become a major American problem and is due to get worse. And it is a simple and obvious truism to say that truckers are here to stay and to continue to perform a necessary function in the transportation complex.

But the railroads' facilities and abilities are unique. As Mr. Loomis pointed out, their 214,000 miles of right-of-way are enough to provide a separate rail route stretching all the way across the nation every 17 miles from the Canadian border to Mexico. Their 1,800,000 freight cars would form a train more than 15,000 miles long, spanning the continent five times. Their passenger volume is equal to transporting over 15,000 people from Los Angeles to New York every day of the year. And their freight load is equal to picking up all the furniture and furnishings of America's 57 million family households and moving them 10 miles every day.

Since 1961, significantly, railroad freight traffic has shown a steady increase each year—in bright contrast to the discouraging experience of the 1958-61 period. This, in large part, has resulted from a mammoth overhaul of plant facilities and operating methods which has made railroad services ever-more attractive to shippers.

All the evidence indicates that the railroads will be the backbone of transportation in the burgeoning years to come. Nothing man has devised can replace them. And they will do the job, no matter how big it is—if laws and regulatory policies will permit them to make the most of their capabilities.

Minnesota Politics

While the DFL party in Minnesota is simmering in its own rancid broth of mismanagement of state affairs, the Republicans are tripping over one another in attempts to get something like a political bandwagon underway.

Many Republicans had counted on former Governor Elmer Andersen to repair the wagon and build up a head of steam for the Calliope. Instead, he announced that he will not seek the governorship of the state, thereby knocking a wheel off the wagon and breaking an axle. There will again be a delay for repairs.

For several months or more now the state Republican organization has been proclaiming that it "has the candidates". So far we have seen little to support this statement and have been less than impressed with what has been offered in the few men who have announced GOP political intentions.

In spite of the multitude of mistakes which have made the DFL state posts extremely vulnerable to a concerted pre-election attack, the GOP must mount some sort of an offense to take advantage of the situation. They could find themselves in a position of talking attack while the opposition regroups and wading into an ambush just before the 1966 elections. It has happened before.

At present the Republicans find that their main talking points are the inept handling of the governorship by Karl Rolvaag and the shady dealings surrounding Lt. Gov. A. M. Keith. It could well be that these points will have been blunted by time when next November rolls around, and some new prongs will have to be inserted in the campaign. If the election was to held next month, the Republicans would need little more than a warm body with a toothpaste smile to sweep the governorship from the DFL. Next fall it may be different.

Republicans must weigh carefully the political know-how of the professionals who operate DFL politics in the state. Timing is the critical element, and the DFL professionals are masters of this game. Gov. Rolvaag won the statehouse on a recount largely on the merits of a last-minute charge of corruption stemming from a small section of surfacing on Highway 35. The GOP was put on the defensive at a critical time, and by the time it had proved that there was no basis for the charge, the election was over and the ballots had been cast.

Don't be surprised if the canny DFL—successful as it was with this tactic in the last election—resorts to the same procedure again. Veto of reapportionment, dragging of feet on tax reform, credit-taking for passage of the taconite amendment and the American Allied Insurance scandal will be old stuff next November.

It will be the necessary task of the Republicans to come up with some candidates with ability who can also provide some political appeal. As of right now, the party has done far more talking than producing.

Like to Eat?

If you are like almost everyone else in America at this season of the year, you are no doubt suffering from the after-effects of toomuchitis of the table. Symptoms are expansion of the waistline, loss of appetite for expended periods after meals and a drowsy feeling accompanied by occasional indigestion.

The problem is usually aggravated by yielding to temptation and partaking to excess of the bounties heaped upon the holiday table. Eating is made so enjoyable—by the savory smells and tastes of special meal preparation—that the average person indulges to a greater extent than reason tells him he should.

There is a way to prevent such a problem. How would you like your holiday dinner piped through a tube at the mere touch of a button? You could have all you want, in the form of a commercial liquid formula that is 20 per cent protein, 30 per cent fat and 50 per cent carbohydrate. Doesn't sound too appetizing? It isn't.

A group of obese subjects being treated by such a feeding device in a New York hospital didn't think so either. When food was offered to them in this form only over a long period, their intake dropped to calorie levels ranging from a mere 53 to 332 per day. (A fair range for a REDUCING diet is 1,200 to 1,800). Weight loss was marked in these cases.

Basically, the problem is this: The better food looks, smells and tastes, the more you are tempted to eat and overeat. If a heaping plate loaded with stuffed turkey basking in a bath of rich gravy, cuddling up to a mound of candied sweets and surrounded by hot buttered biscuits isn't there, you aren't going to eat it. The well-meaning hostess wants you to enjoy yourself, and eating is part of the fun of holiday entertaining.

A couple of meals like that during the year won't hurt you, but continued eating of such items will put on pounds that add to the burdens you will have to carry around. The Minnesota Heart association suggests taking calories away from the meal rather than taking the meal away from the guest.

Turkey has less fat than duck or goose, for instance. Basting with consumme instead of fat and use of fat-free bouillon to moisten the stuffing will help. Acorn or butternut squash can replace candied sweet potatoes. Mushrooms are low in calories and salads may contain lemon juice or low-calorie dressings.

Calorie cutting begins in the supermarket. The association urges the purchase of only lean cuts of meat and planning of more meals around fish and poultry. Skim milk can be used and meat broiled rather than fried or sauted. Add to this some greater physical activity and good health and appearance will be the rewards of the holiday season as well as the rest of the year.

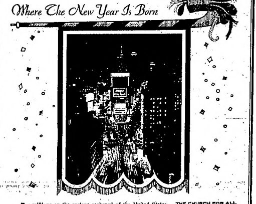
Where The New Year Is Born



For millions on the eastern seaboard of the United States, this is where it happens. A lighted "ball" falls from the top of a tower—and it's 1966.

But in Chicago and Winnipeg it is still 1965. In Saskatoon and Denver it is 1965. In Frisco and Vancouver it is 1965. So where in this broad continent is the New Year really born?

When it is born at all—it happens in men's own hearts!

Otherwise the Old Year goes on. And older years add not their blessings but their dregs . . . as men grope for shreds of time to complete old patterns . . . remnants of hope to patch worn-out dreams.

But somewhere a heart speaks to God. In the quiet of a churchly sanctuary it recounts the past with its failures, its defeats. And boldly it enquires into the future with its hope and promise. That soul commits time and talent and treasure to the purposes of Jesus Christ.

And the Father of All, who is not clock-watcher but soul-watcher, turns the page of that calendar. For one soul at a time the New Year is born!

THE CHURCH FOR ALL
ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.
